Land buying plan arouses opposition

John Scott

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The Ag-Land I Agricultural Land Purchase Plan proposed by a Midwestern bank and the nation's largest stock brokerage firm, Merrill, Lynch, Fenner, Pierce, and Smith, received some powerful opposition from members of Congress and farm group leaders this week.

The Plan, if it is approved, could "create a whole new generation of sharecroppers," National Grange Master John Scott told Lancaster Farming in a telephone interview Friday morning.

Scott said so far the matter is still "pretty much up in the air," although the bank and the stock brokerage firm are apparently pulling back at least temporarily.

"Some members of Congress are dead-set against it," Scott told this newspaper. Lancaster Farming attempted to get in touch with Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, who is one of the most outspoken opponents of the Ag-Land I Plan. The senator was unavailable for comment, however.

In a statement made last week, McGovern said: that he had been advised by Secretary of Agriculture, Bob Bergland, that Bergland will join him in asking that the Internal Revenue Service delay for as long as possible a ruling on the land purchase plan.

A news release from his office added: "The Ag-Land I Agricultural Land Purchase Plan would involve the purchase of prime row crop land using funds generated from in-

Grain feeding looks favorable

By DIETER KRIEG

LANCASTER - Feeding grain to livestock, rather than selling it, is beginning to look more favorable again says Penn State's ag economist, H. Louis Moore.

"We're going back to a more traditional type of situation where feeding grain to livestock looks more favorable - but the feed bill will still not be cheap," Moore told a group of more than 200 swine producers this week. The occasion was the annual multi-county Swine Producers Day, held at the Farm and Home Center, here. Lancaster County Agent Max Smith noted during the program that swine producers from four states and nearly a dozen counties were represented at the Extension-sponsored event.

Moore's predictions on hog prices for the next eight months was not as favorable as his grain-livestock review. He pegged April pork prices at $31.75 per hundredweight; 37 for June, 41 in July, and 36.50 for October. A sample opinion poll from those in the audience indicated that hog producers are banking on significantly higher quotations on all counts.

"We are at a stage of the hog cycle when the numbers are peaking at very high levels," Moore commented. His observations and calculations show that there was and is a potential in this country to market 20 per cent more hogs than what actually show up at the sale barns. As a result of the high numbers, he expects prices to remain on the low side.

Moore blames this predicament on human nature. When the price looks good, producers jump at the chance to make a little more money. Everybody gets the same idea and suddenly there's an oversupply.

The ag economist noted that as of Dec. 1, 1976, hog numbers all across the country were up by an average of 11 per cent; breeding stock had increased five per cent, and market hogs were up by 12 per cent.

"One of the things that really helped the hog market is that pork was such a good buy at the retail level." Moore said, adding that this has actually been helping current market prices for farmers. "Consumers are really buying pork now, but I don't know how long it will last," he said.

Moore also pointed out that hog movements to markets have slowed down since late 1976, compared to last Fall when slaughter figures where up by 35 to 40 per cent over the previous year.

Showing statistics on trends in hog farm numbers, Moore showed that only some of the Southern states are recording increases in

Continued environmental awareness called for

By DIETER KRIEG

QUARRYVILLE, Pa. - Dr. Maurice Goddard was in town Thursday night, causing a larger than usual turn-out for the annual meeting of the Octorara Watershed Association. Goddard is secreatary of Pennsylvania's Department of Environmental Resources. The group he addressed is composed of residents in lower southern Lancaster and Chester counties who are interested and concerned in protecting their land and water resources.

Noting that the membership of the Association is of a rural base, Goddard cited the farmer and his work as "a classic example" of how we can have improved conservation in the Commonwealth. His words of praise for farmers continued with: "To me the farmer typifies the classic environmentalist and A-1 conservationist."

But the DER secretary wasn't in town to just pat farmers on the back. He also wanted to tell his audience of the progress his Department and related agencies have made in improving Pennsylvania's environment.

According to Goddard, both the air and water have been substantially cleaned up in the last few years. As proof, the environmental secretary noted that blue crabs are in the Schuylkill River near Philadelphia and several other formerly heavily polluted streams and rivers have been stocked with trout again for the first time in more than two generations.

Blue crabs, Goddard pointed out, are very sensitive to the quality of water they have - "they have to have good water!"

"The air is better too, no question about it," Goddard exclaimed before the gathering. One industrial plant in Steelton, he commented, is now collecting a ton of dust per hour which was formerly sent out over town through the smokestack.

"Mines are safer," the DER secretary continued, telling of how Pennsylvania at one time had 500 to 800 miners killed annually. Describing mining and environmental legislation (Goddard's department is instrumental in both) he exclaimed "I think we can be proud of our laws."

Goddard was not as generous in his evaluation of federal environmental programs, arguing that it

AFBF calls for 5-year extension of ag act

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The American Farm Bureau Federation, the nation's largest general farm organization, last week called for a five-year extension of the basic provisions of the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973.

In a statement prepared for presentation at a House Agriculture Committee hearing on February 22, Allan Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said Farm Bureau supports an extension provided that the Act is not amended in ways that would: (1) make farmers dependent on government payments on a continuing basis or (2) establish a government-controlled stockpile of agricultureal commodities.

"We continue to believe that government programs with respect to agriculture should be designed to create conditions which will permit farmers to operate under the market system," Grant said.

"Farm income has increased substantially since the market was relieved of the surpluses accumulated under previous programs. The market system is working. We have confidence that it will continue to work."

The farm leader said Congress must: (1) Avoid setting target prices or loan rates at levels that will encourgage excessive production; (2) Avoid loan levels that will result in the accumulation of a new government stockpile of surpus commodities; and (3)

LET WEX GO TO WORK FOR YOU

Join the thousands of farmers who – on more than ten million acres – have made WEX an important part of their complete ag-program. Discover for yourself that – on crop after crop from germination to harvest . . . WEX is working.

WEX THE WETTING AGENT

- makes water wetter for greater saturation and penetrating power
- assists in suspension of wettable powders
- reduces foaming of ag- chemicals
- improves compatability of many ag-chemicals
- aids in more uniform chemical coverage

WEX THE NUTRIENT RELEASE AGENT

- contributes to superior root development
- causes more advanced crop development in the early growth stages
- encourages greater formation of secondary hair roots.
- increases real yield at harvest time

SEE THE DIFFERENCE WEX IS MAKING

COMPILED DATA ON WEX

The compiled data from all randomized, replicated research plots on corn reveals, with 99 percent degree of confidence, that where WEX was used at the rate of 16 ounces per acre, WEX did increase yields on those corn plots by over 5 percent.

It was much the same for root mass. The results of all our replicated research plots, using WEX at 16 ounces per acre we're 99 percent confident that the root mass was increased in excess of 10 percent.

Ask the Old Farmer: I've always been curious about the origin of Uncle Sam as the symbol for the U S Government Can you tell me? R T, San Francisco

One tale has it that Uncle Sam was originally associated with the Army back in the War of 1812 Meat was then packed in barrels for the Army The initials "E A -U S" were stamped on the barrels, standing for Elbert Anderson, the name of the packer, and for United States One soldier asked what the initials meant and was told in jest they stood for Elbert Anderson and his Uncle Sam It caught on In 1830, Uncle Sam was first featured in cartoons, but he had no goatee in Lincoln's time

Milk awards distributed at York Co. dairy day

DOVER, Pa. - York County's annual Dairy Day meeting was held on February 17 at the Dover Fire Hall. Jointly hosting the event were the Extension Service and Atlantic Breeders Cooperative.

Dairy Specialist Harvey Shaffer of the Penn State Extension Service, opened the morning program with a presentation on reproduction, "Is Breeding One Of Your Problems?"

The second portion of the dairy activities centered on another crucial probklem of the industry. "Mastitis - Does It Take $2,000 Profit From You?" was the question put to dairymen by Larry Hutchinson. The Penn State Extension Veterinarian detailed methods of mastitis detection and recommended control procedures.

A movie produced by the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, "How Young Sires Are Proven," was featured during the afternoon. Several awards were presented by the cooperative to high milk-production herds in the county.

Discussing program details for the Livestock Day to be held March 1 at The Pennsylvania State University are animal science faculty members seated from left: Dr. Grant W. Sherritt, general Livestock Day chairman; and Dr. B. R. Baumgardt, head of the Department of Dairy and Animal Science. Standing from left: Dr. J. L. Gobble, swine chairman; Dr. Robert L. Cowan, nutrition chairman; and Dr. L. L. Wilson, beef cattle chairman.

The Earl of Sandwich, inventor of the sandwich in 1744, said that sandwiches should be eaten with "a civilized swallow and not a barbarous bolt."

LIFE on the farm

By Dieter Krieg, Editor

The phone rang just once and a friendly voice answered: "National Airlines, may I help you."

"Yes, I'd like to make a reservation for one to Jacksonville, Florida," I replied.

"Will that be one-way or round-trip, sir?"

"Round-trip," I replied. "I'll want to return Sunday night."

"I waited anxiously for the status of these travel arrangements - my birthday was coming up and I had pretty much waited until the last minute to call about tickets. The plane I wanted would probably be filled by now.

The voice on the other end of the line came back on within just seconds, surprising me in how quickly flight information can be checked. The words I heard were welcome: "Yes, we can reserve a seat for you on flight 443, leaving Baltimore at 3:15, arriving in Jacksonville at 6:29."

I gladly accepted the flight and looked forward to making the trip the next day. Right now it was time to pack a few things and get a good night's rest.

Morning arrived the same as it did any other day, but the chores differed. There was so much I wanted to do before I left, to make sure that the hired man wouldn't have it too much harder during my absence.

I was in the milk house, elbow-deep in soap suds, when Marvin yanked the glass and aluminum door open to exclaim "What's wrong with the silo unloader?"

Before I had any chance to respond, he was telling me about loud squealing noises and the smell of something burning.

We walked to the silo together.

"Didn't you hear it squeal?" Marvin asked me.

"No, I didn't Marv."

"I heard it way down in the pit and came running up to see what's the matter," he continued.

The smell of something burning was all over the barn. I pressed the "start" button for the unloader. A loud squeal echoed down through the silo chute and I hit the red "stop" button in response.

Climbing into the silo to see what was going on, I saw a large mound of silage piled up just inside the door. The augers were right up against it. The drive wheels were pretty well buried No wonder the thing was squealing

I came back down to finish washing the milkers and then gathered up a few tools and a flashlight to tackle the problem in the silo.

In my hurry, I forgot to crank the contraption up a bit, so back down I went. And then up again.

Not one, but both of the belts on the unloader were ruined. Of all days for this to happen! I had a plane to catch!

I climbed out of the silo again, flinging my arms and the two charred belts all over my body to remove the silage that was clinging to my legs, back, and shoulders. There was no need to have all that drop off in the car on the way to the equipment dealer.

With new belts in hand, I entered the silo yet another time. Time was ticking away. I became somewhat of a clock watcher.

At last the belts were back in place and tightened.

The next procedure involved freeing the unloader itself and leveling the silage. Finally, the discharge spout of the unloader had to be repositioned to avoid having the same problem all over again. Time kept on ticking away, like a boat slowly fading out of sight from the shoreline.

There were so many other things I wanted to do yet. Getting the silo unloader working again was tops on my list.

When the deadline for my departure for the shower arrived, I hastily reviewed as much as I could with Marvin - saying about five things at once while flipping through notes on feeding, heat and breeding records, and calf milk information.

"Take good care of things, Marv, I'll see you Monday morning," I said as I began to sprint up to the house.

A little while later I was on my way to set a new speed record between Woodbine, Pa. and Friendship Airport, Maryland. Time continued to tick away. My mind was spinning time and mileage calculations constantly. It was going to be close.

A big Boeing 727 jet thundered its way into the clouds just as I came within sight of the terminal. Surely, that wasn't National's flight 443. They'd wait for me, or at least they'd have a delay of some kind. My eyes strained to see if I could make out the markings on the plane. I couldn't.

As the plane jetted further away, I continued my race to the terminal's parking lot. "This is crazy," I thought, "it's 3:15, that had to be my plane."

It was.

THE WRONG QUESTION

Lesson for February 27, 1977

Background Scripture: Mark 2:13 through 3:6; Luke 5:27 through 6:11. Devotional Reading: Colossians 2:16 through 3:4.

One of the problems with the Pharisees as we find them presented in the four Gospels is that they seem to be forever asking the wrong questions:

"Why do your disciples not live according to the tradition of the elders, but eat with hands defiled?" (Mark 7:5)

"By what authority are you doing these things?" (Mark 11:28)

"In the resurrection whose wife will she be?" (Mark 12:23)

"Why do you eat and drink with tax collectors and sinners?" (Luke 5:30)

"Is it lawful for us to give tribute to Caesar, or not?" (Luke 20:22)

Actually, few of these questions were sincere requests for information, but attempts to trap Jesus into saying something that could be held against him. They are the kind of questions we ask when we already think think we know the answers.

So that they might accuse

This is true also when they ask Jesus about his activities on the sabbath. They would hardly have asked the questions if they thought he could give a satisfactory answer. The reason is that they knew that however much Jesus revered and obeyed the religious laws of the land, he nevertheless put something else higher than the law: God's gracious love and mercy.

He had demonstrated it when they brought to him the woman taken in adultery. He did not demean the law which provided a sentence of death by stoning, but he elevated instead the mercy of God. Therefore, they believed that to any questions where his concept of love was in conflict with the letter of the law, his responses would always lean to the former - sometimes giving the impression that he was against the keeping of the law.

Nowhere was he more plainly vulnerable, they reasoned, than in his attitude on the sabbath laws. The prohibition of labor on the sabbath was a foundation stone of the ten commandments, the basic law of Israel. Thus, when they saw his disciples picking grain on the sabbath, they felt they had caught him in an untenable position. To their question, "Look, why are they doing what is not lawful on the sabbath?", there could be only one obvious answer.

Made for man

But Jesus seldom did or said the obvious. Instead he reminded them them that the revered King David himself had violated an ecclesiastical law when, starving, he entered the sanctuary and ate the sacrificial bread that was reserved solely for the priests. The need of David was of greater importance in God's sight than the ritual law.

Actually, the great principle he was attempting to establish was simply that the law is not God and we must look behind the law to the purpose of God which it serves. "The sabbath was made for man, not man for the sabbath" (Mark 2:27). The problem was not with the concept of the law, but that they had put the law before God.

It is still true that when religion goes wrong, often it is because men are asking the wrong questions and for the wrong reasons.

TO STRESS INSULATION

There never was a time when adequate insulation of all types of buildings was more important. The saving of energy is a national objective for the next generation or more; I can't think of any way to conserve more energy in our homes and buildings than to install plenty of insulation when the building is constructed or at any time later. Sufficient insulation keeps the heat inside during the Winter and keeps the heat outside during the Summer. Money spent for extra insulation will surely result in money saved for fuel as well as the all important "energy" program. The "R" value of materials is the important thing in good insulation. Builders and all property owners are urged to give this additional attention in the future.

TO BE CAREFUL WITH LIVESTOCK PURCHASES

Again we stress the need of being very careful in the purchase of any type of livestock to be brought to the farm. We refer to the health status of the new animal and the possibility of introducing an infection into the home herd. This point was emphasized at the recent Swine Producers Day when Dr. Leonard Harrison from the Bureau of Animal Industry at Harrisburg, cautioned local producers about the possibility of bringing pseudorabies into Pennsylvania; this virus infection is causing problems in the Midwest and careful moving of swine is needed to prevent it from getting into our state. This is true with all types of breeding and feeding animals and we urge local producers to investigate the health status of all animals before transporting them into the home herd or flock.

TO DO ESTATE PLANNING

This is the subject of a series of meeting being held in several counties at this time of the year. The planning of one's holdings and the making of a will is surely needed in all families. We're surprised to learn of the number of farmers and other folks who have not taken the time to make plans for the disposal and transfer of their holdings. Our farm management folks have been stressing this task for years and we hope that all folks will take it seriously. In many cases considerable tax payments can be saved and results in the property going to thepersons selected by the rightful owner. Don't put it off any longer.

TO RECOGNIZE DEADLINES

In addition to the income tax reporting deadline facing most of us, there are two others which farmers should recognize. The first one is the need of a conservation plan for the land by July 1, 1977. All farm owners are responsible for this plan of their farm. The second one is the Pesticide Certification program which is to go into effect by October 1, 1977; this refers to the passing of a pesticide examination offered by the state department of agriculture. A Penn State Correspondence Course will give details and provide the needed information. I realize some farmers are objecting to these regulations, but they are state laws at the moment, and should be recognized as enforceable.

What's good, sensible feeding for one dairyman can be just plain extravagance for another.

That's why Beacon emphasizes "no-nonsense feeding".

By "no-nonsense" we mean profitable feeding, based on the needs of your herd, using as much as possible the feed available on your own farm, along with whatever supplements are needed for a complete nutritionally balanced diet.

How can you be sure you're feeding your herd well, and at the least possible cost?

We urge you to call upon the services of our dairy experts, in the field and at our headquarters in Cayuga. By all means, take advantage of our free roughage analysis.

Your Beacon Advisor will take a sample of your roughage and send it to our laboratory. There it will be analyzed by one of the dairy experts shown above—a man with a great deal of experience in animal nutrition. His analysis will be sent to you promptly, along with feeding recommendations based on your roughage quality and feed requirements.

There's no charge for the service and no one will try to sell you feed or supplements you don't need.

With Beacon feeds and Beacon's advisory service, your herd will get nutrients, not just ingredients.

Bergland taps consumers

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland says he wants consumers "involved in the food policy decision-making process within the department of agriculture itself," rather than simply being advisors.

One action he might take to make that possible, he said, would be to add an assistant secretary whose job might be entitled assistant secretary for food, nutrition and consumer affairs.

"It is important to the economic well being of all Americans that we have a strong, prosperous agricultural community and a well fed and well understood consumer community," Secretary Bergland told members of the Paul Douglas Consumer Research Center and the Consumer Federation of America at their meeting here.

"That means we will be broadening the base in the department of agriculture to involve consumers in the decision-making process and broadening our horizons beyoud our own shores because of the importance of world-wide economic and weather conditions on american economic and agricultural policy."

But while he may add an assistant secretary to represent consumer viewpoints within agriculture, Bergland indicated he would cut back on the consumer advisory committees that already exist within the department.

"I have looked at each of these committees and find that often times the voice of consumerism is fragmented," he said. "Definitely the consumers do not speak with one voice through these committees. So we will probably reduce the numbers of these committees in order to have the voice of consumerism speak more clearly and more concisely and be represented in the decision-making process itself."

Operational and maintenance tips

BOX SPREADERS

The apron chain should receive special attention in order to increase its life through proper adjustment and regular maintenance. Keep the chain adjusted as recommended in the operator's manual A loose chain can bend apron slats and cause premature chain link wear. Regular oiling of the chain, depending on the frequency of use, also will increase chain life.

The belt drive should be checked periodically to make certain it is not overtightened. A belt with tension that exceeds the manufacturer's recommendation could result in overload damage to the drive line, which the belt is designed to prevent Lubrication of the sliding parts of the PTO will guard against universal joint failure.

Always check for proper hookup to the PTO to avoid excessive bearing loading on the end of the jack shaft.

A regular maintenance check of all drive chains for wear is important, too. Keep them adjusted as specified.

In the interest of safety, keep all shields in place and only clean or lubricate the spreader when the PTO is disconnected.

Beef referendum opposed

Dear Editor:

In order to better acquaint our nation's cattlemen of the implications of the proposed Beef Developement Plan in which referendum they are being asked to vote on soon, I submit the following for your publishing.

The nation's cattlemen are being offered a beef market development plan by an organization called Beef Development Taskforce, who have gotten through Congress (with a strong opposition from those who saw its dangers) their proposal and it is now before all cattlemen to vote on in a national referendum, to determine if their proposal becomes law. For the following reasons, I believe it to be in the cattleman's best interest to vote against this proposal.

It places more of our private business in the hands of government, and there will be more regulations. Every owner of cattle will be required by law to participate in this checkoff, and undoubtedly will be subject to prosecution if he doesn't.

2. The administration and execution of this new regulation by law will cost the taxpayers "who knows how much", and when this gets entrenched, who will be able to dislodge it?

3. This .3 per cent or .30 cents per $100 deduction off of the producer's sale of cattle, supposing to amount to about 40 million hard earned dollars, annually, will benefit mostly the meat packing industry. Let them develop the meat market and we supply the cattle. Stay out of their business, and they may stay out of ours. I should add, the executives of the Beef Development Taskforce will need a little benefits too. (Becoming law, deductions can be raised)

4. We already have Meat Exporters and Importers like the U.S. Meat Export Federation, the Wolfstein International, of Los Angeles, Calif. and others, whose business is the marketing of beef, and while there may be new possibilities and opportunities in the beef industry, let that field open to them, and not disrupt our system of free enterprise and self government.

5. If foreign nations are such a lucrative market for beef, why are foreign nations seeking entry to the U.S. market for their beef, and if all the doors to export beef were closed as tight as some people want to close the doors to import beef, we would have no export trade of beef.

In conclusion, with charity for all and malace toward none, be sure to vote against this proposal in this referendum soon.

Sincerely,
Reist R. Mummau.

Farmers' SINCE 1904 AS GOOD AS THE BEST AND BETTER THAN THE REST

numbers of hog farms. Midwestern states recorded declines, as did Pennsylvania, where the average hog farmer now keeps 35 head. Pennsylvania hog farm numbers decreased by 13 per cent during the time period studied by Moore.

Comparing hog prices of previous years, Moore pointed out that from 1955 to 1971 hog prices averaged $17.90 per hundredweight. The average fluctuation of prices from high to low was $3.47. Since 1972 the situation has changed dramatically, with average prices hovering around $37.98. The fluctuation for 1972-1976 was $9.54.

Expanding on the grain stiuation some more, Moore revealed that corn production has increased by 59 per cent since 1960. Grain stocks are way up. Soybeans, on the other hand, are way down.

The world's wheat carryover is 50 per cent above what it was a year ago. That adds up to about three-quarters of a year's supply that will still be on hand when the harvest season begins in July. "Every country in the world had a great wheat crop last year," Moore explained. Our export markets have died as a result of it.

US. carryover of wheat is up by 65 per cent, the corn carryover is pegged at 82 per cent above last year's while the soybean carryover is down by 70 per cent. On the latter, Moore remarked that the U.S. is looking forward to Brazil taking some of the market away from us to relieve some of thepressure from our short supplies. Soybeans in the southern hemisphere will be harvested this Spring. Another country which has geared its grain production to export markets is Argentina. Moore reported that Argentinians are undercutting everybody in the wheat market.

In spite of the short supplies and high prices for soybeans, the use of soybean meal by livestock farmers has not dropped significantly, Moore said. Corn is being held "pretty tightly" by farmers, he added.

To him it all adds up to a situation whereby the livestock man will be again be in a favorable position with respect to the feeding of grains. The situation the country seen since 1971.

Farmers given corn growing tips

By LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Berks County Reporter

LEESPORT, Pa. - Less than five per cent of the corn planted in Pennsylvania is of the non-hybrid variety, Joe McGahen told area farmers attending Berks County Crops and Soils Day. Mc Gahen, a Penn State University agromomist was among several people who addressed over 80 area farmers at the Berks County Agricultural Center on Feb. 15. The Penn State agronomist discussed corn standibility, selection of best corn varieties and the use of early season varieties in southeastern Pennsylvania.

In continuing his lecture he made note that early pollinated corn yielded only about 40 bushel per acre back in the early 1900's and today this same corn can yield about 96 bushel per acre. Those early corn yields, McGahen said, have been increased by one third because of culture practices while the use of hybrids has increased yields another third.

McGahen also stressed that selecting the right hybrids is very important. To pick the top hybrids, McGahen said, a farmer not only has to consider the test data available but also his own farm, and the adaptability of the corn to his conditions.

The speaker went on to discuss the use of early maturing corn varieties. He stressed that farmers should work towards early hybrids that will be ready to harvest in October. McGahen told the audience that having wet corn at harvest was their own fault because thay are not selecting early enough hybrids. "Slightly lower corn yields may pay in the long run" McGahen continued, "if you don't have to go to the expense of putting it through a dryer." Longer season hybrids may produce a few more bushel to the acre, but it may cost more to harvest it if it needs to be dryed. McGahen went on to exclaim "corn should be in a shellable condition in October."

In discussing the inability of some corns, to stand, McGahen proceeded with a slide presentation to demonstrate his major points. "When you are breeding corn to stand yuou are fighting Mother Nature," McGahen stated. "Nature wants the corn plant to drop the ear to the ground so a new life cycle can begin," he expained. "To get good standing corn, breeding is very imprrtant," he added.

It is also very important to know when stalk rot is in our fields, McGahen added. Than you have to select the best harvesting date to beat it to the ear.

McGahen went on to discuss some of the factors that help to promote stalk rot. He noted that controlling corn borers helps to reduce stalk rot since it can develope in the holes the borer has made.

Sanitation was another factor mentioned, since plowing down infested stalks only puts the borer back into the soil again. The use of insecticides can help control this problem, McGahen said.

Another major problem in dealing with corn standability is the fertility balance. McGahen stressed the use of soil tests. To improve standability, watch the potash fertility balance, McGahen told the farmers. The pH of the soil was also cited as a possible problem.

McGahen concluded his part of the day-long program by mentioning a disease carried by Johnsongrass. Johnsongrass is not only a problem in itself, but insects can transfer Maise Drawf Mosaic to corn from this weed also. The speaker went on to stress the importance in getting Johnsongrass controlled.

Peterson dies

HOUSTON, Tex. Homer R. Peterson, 74, former president of American-International Charolais Assn. and one of the nation's oldest producers of Charolais, died of a lingering illness February 13.

Peterson was president of the national breed registry in 1963, and since his early membership in three predecessor organizations was an active supporter and leader of the breed. Predecessor organizations were the American Charbray Breeders Assn., the American Charolais Breeders Assn., and the International Charolais Assn.

He served for many years as a member of the AICA board of directors, and most of its committees. He was credited with being the first Charolais breeder to become associated with Performance Registry International, a performance records-keeping organization. He was a founder of Peterson Bros. Steel Erection Co. of Houston.

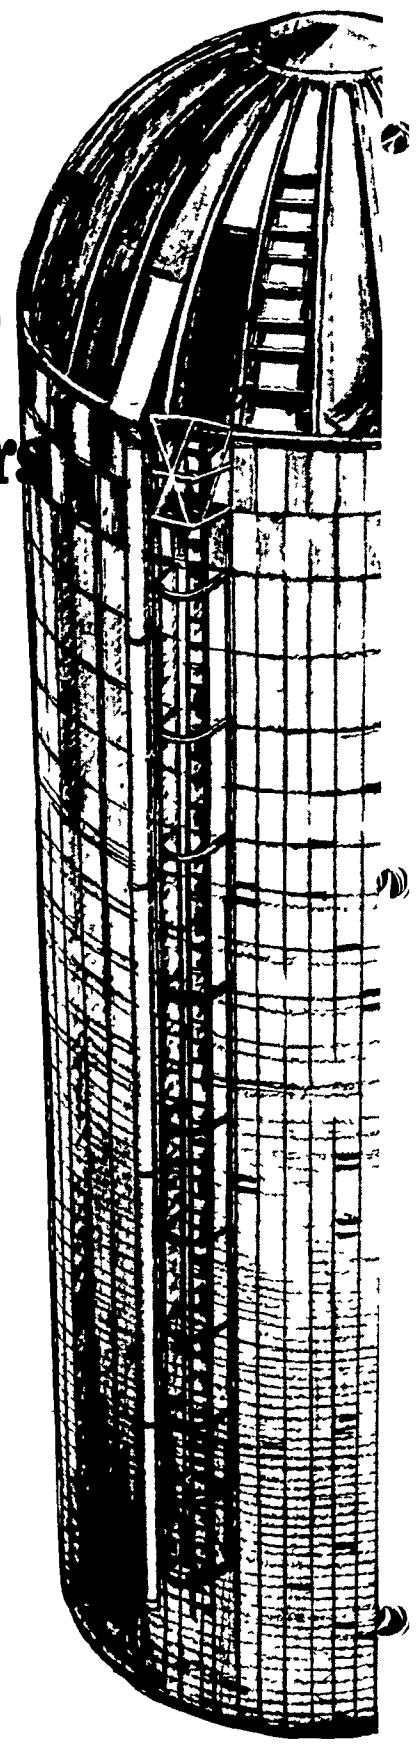
You'll brag for months about the deal you got on your Madison Silo.

You'll brag for years about the quality.



The sooner you order your 1977 Madison Silo, the more you can save. Madison's Winter Purchase Plan is on! And getting an especially good deal is important these days.

However, long after you've forgotten the good deal you got on your 1977 Madison Silo, you'll be enjoying the extra quality that came with it. Look at just some of the ways you get a full measure of value from Madison.

Vibra-Cor® Stave: Unique, bridge-truss beam design . . . thickest stave in the industry . . . twice the lateral strength of other concrete silo staves Hoops: 9/16" high-strength steel, specially galvanized and dichromated to fight rust. We don't skimp!

Interior Finish: Vibra-Cor staves' serrated inside surface really holds our durable, long-life interior finish, carefully troweled all over!

Madison-bilt Accessories: Top quality from roof to safety cage, all manufactured in our own plants.

Turnkey Construction: Professional Madison crews take pride in being the best. There's nothing for you to do. No hidden extra costs.

Eight Key Questions Answered:

Questions you really should ask before you buy any silo are answered in our new Madison Silos booklet. Send the coupon below for your copy. Even better, ask the Madison Silos dealer near you. No obligation! Ask him about Madison Silos' full "System of Choice," too. It adds Nutri-Matic, Grain-O-Matic and Manure Bank to your Madison Silo.

For the Man Whose BUSINESS is Producing Pork

IF YOUR BUSINESS IS PRODUCING PORK THEN YOU KNOW HOW CRITICAL YOUR DECISIONS ARE WITH REGARD TO YOUR PROFIT AND LOSS.

DECISIONS. PROFIT & LOSS.

Some decisions are based on things you cannot control.

Like the weather. Feeder pig prices. Fat Hog prices. Viruses.

Other decisions are based on things you can control.

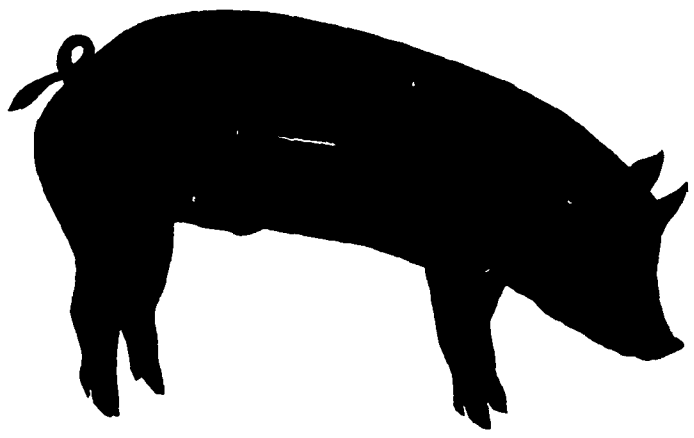
FEEDING PROGRAMS. DECISIONS.

The right choice of a feeding program is critical to your profit and loss, especially today. When hog prices are dropping, the real pork producer knows his hogs performance must go up. He knows he cannot afford to yield to the pressures of lowering the quality of his feeding program and losing efficiency, because his BUSINESS is producing a pound of pork at the lowest possible COST.



If Your business is producing pork then you should be considering a MASTER MIX pork production program. Because MASTER MIX has a program to fit your situation.

Garden Spot Young Farmers name outstanding member

Kenneth Hershey, center, was the GSYF dairy award winner. Congratulating him are Glen Hershey, right, and GSYF president Earl Weaver.

BLUE BALL, Pa. - Meeting here a week ago for their annual banquet, the Garden Spot Young Farmers chose Robert Book as their outstanding young farmer for the year. Book operates Rocoma Farms Dairy near Bareville and has a jugging operation with complete on-the-far processing. In addition to his 75 Holsteins, the award recipient is kept busy with 250 acres of cropland on three different farms.

The group recognized several other of its members for noteworthy achievements during the past year.

J. Kenneth Hershey of Kinzers R1 captured the dairy award, on the basis of work with his 79 cows which averaged 15,756 pounds of milk and 613 pounds of butterfat last year on DHIA.

In the corn for grain contest, Bill Fisher placed first with yields of 202.8 bushels per acre. In the second slot was Ray Geissinger, 188.7 bushels per acre; third, Glenn Hershey, 179.4 bushels per acre, and fourth, Ken Hershey with 178.2 bushels per acre.

Clyde Martin won the corn for silage contest with a yield of 29.5 tons per acre. In terms of total digestible nutrients, (TDN) that worked out to 14,160 pounds per acre. Walter Martin placed second with 26 tons per acre and third was John Landis with 23.6 tons.

Harold Wissler was given the past president's award by current president Earl Weaver who served as master of ceremonies for last Saturday's program.

Certificates of appreciation were presented to Jack Frost, Sperry New Holland and Eastern Lancaster County School Board president; Amos Stauffer,

Exports record high

WASHINGTON, D.C. - U.S. farm exports totaled a record $23 billion during calendar year 1976, according to figures released recently by the Foreign Agricultural Trade people, here.

The $23 billion figure is up five per cent from the $21.9 billion total recorded in 1975, and 4½ per cent above the previous record $22 billion total set in 1974.

Sharply higher volume more than offsetting generally lower prices is given as the reason for the gains in export values.

The volume of exports totaled a record of 112 million tons, up 13 per cent from a year earlier.

Animal and animal product exports were up 40 per cent from the year before; oilseed exports were up 13 per cent, and vegetable exports overshot the 1975 figures by nearly a third.

Grain exports, however, were down by six per cent, and cotton exports decreased by 11 per cent.

Meat Board unhappy with senate report

CHICAGO, Ill. - The National Live Stock and Meat Board this month made an offer to the U.S. senate to assist in development of information "...in the interest of presenting an intelligent, factual case for the health and nutrition needs of consumers and concerns of livestock producers."

In a letter to U.S. Sen. Charles Percy (Ill.), Meat Board President David H. Stroud pledged "...our staff time and resources to complete the body of scientific information missing from the volumes of data upon which the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs has previously based analysis and conclusions."

The Senate Select Committee has been heavily criticized in animal agriculture circles since mid-January when it issued a report highly critical of the meat centered American diet, suggesting less meat be eaten and more fish, poultry, fruits, vegetables and grain be consumed. Percy is ranking minority member of the unit which is chaired by Sen. George McGovern (S.D.) and is commonly referred to as the McGovern Committee.

While the Meat Board recently blasted the recommendations for changing food habits, it has been careful to avoid direct criticism of the Committee itself. In his note to Percy, Stroud praised the McGovern Committee's role in "...focusing attention on special nutrition needs of the poor and elderly, highlighting nutritional inadequacies of the affluent American society and identifying the need for broad public programs of nutrition education."

"But," Stroud said, "the Committee report on 'Dietary Goals for the United States' contained major errors of conclusion based on inputs to the Committee over the last couple of years. The Committee has accepted, as nutrition gospel, advice which has ranged from simple anti-meat bias to absurd and unprovable statements. Much of it has come from zealots with a good deal to say but little to no scientific evidence supporting their positions," Stroud said.

The Meat Board executive said he was pleased that the Senator had been personally instrumental in preserving the Special Committee's functions for at least another year because it has accomplished much that is good.

Stroud advised the senator that, "Despite the obvious appearance of our organization having a self-serving role for the meat industry, this Meat Board has a 56-year-old reputation in the health, education, nutrition and medical research communities for honesty and non-bias in scientific matters. I take this opportunity to offer you our staff time and resources so that each side of this many-faceted issue of dietary goals can be studied far more thoroughly than the Committee's resources have been able to accomplish to date," he said.

Guernsey breeders reorganize

LANCASTER - The board of directors of the Lancaster County Guernsey Breeders Association met for reorganization on Feb. 11, choosing Peter Witmer of Willow Street as president.

Other officers of the board are: Dieter Linde, vice president; Randy Johnson, secretary-treasurer; Kenneth Garber, DHIA representative; and Jesse Balmer, representative to the state association.

Appointed to the tour committee were Fred Crider, chairman; Richard Maul and Scott Wolff.

Banquet committee members are Melvin Breneman, chairman; Robert Rohrer, and Robert McSparran.

The field day committee is chaired by Kenneth Garber, with Dieter Linde, Francis Kirk and Randy Johnson filling the other slots.

Beef changes have little impact

After a year of operation, the controversial beef grade changes are having little impact on the beef industry, William Stringer, University of Missouri-Columbia food scientist told forage experts Tuesday.

Speaking to the American Forage and Grassland Council, Stringer said producers are grain feeding cattle 10-20 days less than last year and receiving about the same grade.

The new beef grades require less marbling for beef to be graded Choice. It takes a fair amount of grain to get the high marbling that had been required, said Stringer.

While the "new" Choice meat may have less marbling, he said, the meats quality (nutritional value) is just as good.

Stringer, who noted that a reliable indicator of consumer reaction to the grade changes is reflected in retail attitudes, reported on a recent study by "Chain Store Age." Editors of that magazine asked retailers how they felt about the change in the USDA grading system.

"Forty-two per cent approved of the change, 23 per cent disapproved and 35 per cent were indifferent or had no comment," said Stringer.

Actually, the yield grades which are part of he new system are having the most effect on packers and beef producers. The yield grades are from 1 through 5 with Yield 1 being the leanest and Yield 5 the fattest.

"Packers and producers are being penalized considerably for fat cattle," said Stringer. "There used to be a $2-$3 per hundredweight difference between the price of cattle grading Choice vs. those grading Good. Now there's a $3-$6 difference just between Yield 2 or 3 of a Choice and Yield 4 or 5 of the same grade."

Citing 1976 USDA figures, Stringer noted that the greatest change resulting from the new beef grades is in the amount of meat graded Prime. During August-September, 1976, about 11 per cent of the animals marketed in 1976 graded Prime compared to 3.6 per cent in 1975. Choice stayed about the same: 81 per cent in 1976, 8714 per cent in 1975.

Even with more cattle being sold at Prime and Choice grades, cattlemen's profits will not necessarily be higher. Stringer noted that when more grass and other roughages are fed with less grain, cattle gain weight more slowly. The extra time these cattle spend on the farm costs money because land and facilities are used longer and the next group is delayed in feeding out.

vestment by pension funds. The land would be held in trust while being leased or sharecropped with the expectation that the investors could profit by the increase in land value.

"Family farmers and ranchers will be pleased that the Secretary has recognized Ag-Land I for what it is - a serious threat to a system of food and fiber production that is the most efficient on Earth," the South Dakotan said. "If Ag-Land and its possible successors are allowed to continue unchallenged, they pose a dire threat to an entire way of life. The evidence is pretty convincing that past experiments with corporate agirculture have been a failure. This scheme is nothing more than a thinly disguised attempt to, over a period of time, gain control of a substantial portion of our production of corn, soybeans, and wheat.

McGovern said that Bergland has directed the USDA staff to make recommendations to him on revisions to the tax code that may be required to counter the adverse effects of such big business investments on family farmers.

"I would hope that the Department will move quickly on this matter," McGovern said, "because I know it is of crucial importance to those who work the land," McGovern concluded.

The country's oldest farm organization, the National Grange, testified before a Congressional investigative hearing on Thursday in strong opposition to Ag Land Fund I.

Robert M. Frederick, director of legislative activities for the Grange, called the Fund an intrusion into agricultural production by financial giants and if allowed to proceed, will destroy the future of the family farm system, the world's most productive and efficient industry.

Frederick said the Fund proposes to use mutual funds to purchase $50 million worth of productive farm land to lease to local farmers. The Fund is designed to attract investors of pension and profit sharing plans.

Frederick said the Grange became aware of the plan several weeks ago and asked for congressional hearings before the Internal Revenue Service gives its final ruling on whether the Fund is tax-exempt. He said the situation is particularly alarming because the tax rulings on this Fund will set a precedent for future rulings. If approved, Frederick said, this Fund will be only the beginning and other financial institutions will set up similar plans.

He said the most immediate effect will be on land prices which will escalate to a point where individual family farmers will not be able to afford to purchase farm land. The Fund will also have the capital to make large purchases of farm supplies and equipment directly from the manufacturer by passing the local dealer and consequently forcing many small rural businesses out of business.

Frederick concluded his testimony by asking the committee to take all steps necessary to stop any intrusion on American agriculture by financial institutions and to consider the ultimate question of who is going to control American agriculture.

Opposition to the Plan comes from a number of congressmen and senators. One of the more outspoken legislators are Congressman Fred Richmond, (D. - N.Y.) and Congressman Richmond Nolan, (D. - Minn.) In a statement last week, Richmond, who is vice chairman of the Family Farms and Rural Development Subcommittee, and chairman of the Domestic Marketing, Consumer Realtions and Nutrition Subcommittee said:

"The coalescing of major banking, investment and agribusiness interests to purchase and manage large quantities of American farm land under the guise of the "Ag-Land Trust" is a threat to every American family farmer and every American consumer.

"I believe that before such a scheme is approved detailed analysis must be provided by both the Agriculture Department and the Treasury Department as to the effects, both long and short range, of the "Ag-Land Trust" on the small family farmer, the supply of wholesome and reasonably priced food to the consumer and the tax and inheritance value of farm land.

There are 2.1 million farms in our nation which supply most of the food to the American consumer. This "Ag-Land Trust" plan poses a clear danger to the continuance of that supply of food, to the survival of the family farm unit and must be thoroughly investigated."

Farm Bureau reorganized

LANSDALE, Pa. - The Montgomery-Bucks Farm Bureau Cooperative Association and the Farm and Home Oil Company of Souderton held a reorganization meeting recently and announced two major administrative changes.

Newton F. Moyer was elected president and chief executive officer of the oil company, while relinquishing duties as chairman of the board of the Montgomery-Bucks Farm Bureau, its former parent organization. Maynard Rothenberger of Lansdale was named the new chairman of Farm Bureau.

Succeeding the late Howard Y. Moyer of Perkasie, Newton Moyer will assume increased responsibilities with Farm and Home Oil company as director of operations. Howard Moyer succumbed suddenly last July while directing a meeting of the Pennridge School Board.

Newton Moyer, 51, resides at 510 Hunsicker Road, Telford, with his wife. The couple has three married children. Moyer has been on the board of the Montgomery-Bucks Farm Bureau since 1960 and was appointed secretary-treasurer in 1963. He was elected president of the board in 1967, one year before the oil company separated from Montgomery-Bucks Farm Bureau Cooperative Association and organized as a separate corporation in Pennsylvania.

Maynard Rothenberger, 47, is owner and operator of Merrymead Farms, Valley Forge Road, Lansdale consisting of a 150 head of dairy cows, supplying milk for their retail dairy store located on the farm. He and his wife, Betty Jean, have five children. As a member of the board of directors of the Montgomery-Bucks Farm Bureau Cooperative Association since 1963, Rothenberger is also an active member of the International Flying Farmers, an organization of which his wife is Duchess.

Farm and Home Oil Company serves the Bux-Mont area with commercial, industrial and retail fuels, with annual sales of $16 million. It also owns and operates a retail tire sales and service center in Silverdale.

Maynard Rothenberger

The Montgomery-Bucks Farm Bureau Cooperative Association is composed of five stores with $13 Million in sales. The stores are located in Souderton, Dublin, Collegeville, Bechtelsville and Mifflinburg, Union County, Pa. Farm Bureau is a feed and fertilizer manufacturer, farm supply dealer, and provides sales and service for home and garden equipment.

Shelhamer to address Lancaster Conservation District

LANCASTER, Pa. - The annual banquet of the Lancaster County Conservation District is scheduled to be held at 6:30 p.m., March 17th. at the Good'n Plenty Restaurant in Smoketown. Tichets are now available at the District Office at the cost of $4.50 each.

Shelhamer, a Columbia County fruit and grain farmer, owns a 160-acre farm and operates an additional 100 acres.

During his tenure as state representative, he was chairman of the House of Representatives' Agriculture Committee and was also a representative on the Agricultural Advisory Committee to the Department of Environmental Resources.

After serving six consecutive terms as state representative, he was appointed Deputy Secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

On January 15, 1977, Governor Milton J. Shapp, appointed Shelhamer as Secretary to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Kent D. Shelhamer

Shelhamer will adress the group on the topic of "Agriculture and the Clean Streams Law."

Reservations for the annual banquet can be make by calling before March 9th at the District Office at 299-5361, Monday through Friday between 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Patz sales manager praised

POUND, Wis. - Richard Bennett, a Patz Company district manager, was one of a handful of districrt managers that walked away with an armful of honors at the Patz annual sales meeting held recently in Green Bay, Wis.

The Patz Company, headquartered here, is a leading manufacturer of feed-handling and manure-handling equipment. Founded in 1948, Patz presently sells farm-materials-handling equipment in the major farming areas of the United States and Canada.

Bennett, a Patz district manager since 1971 was presented a Chrome Link Award for surpassing his 1975 sales by more than 10 per cent, the Super Manager Award for having one or more of his dealers on the Patz "Super 50" list, and a vacation trip to Biloxi, Miss. for exceeding his 1976 sales quota.

In presenting the awards to Bennett, Paul Patz, president of the Patz Company, praised Bennett's sales efforts and his ability to motivate dealers. He added that Bennett's sales job was even more significant than usual since 1976 was a year marked by adverse farming conditions.

Bennett is district manager for New Jersey, and parts of Pennsylvania and New York, and supervises the selling activities of 16 Patz dealers.

IH dealer gets 'XL' award

SCHNECKSVILLE, Pa. - Schoeneck International Equipment Company, here, was honored Feb. 23, when it received the "XL" dealer designation from the International Harvester Company.

The award presentation was held at the Brookside Country Club in Macungie, Pa. and was attended by representatives of the Albany Region of International Harvester Company and by a number of Schoeneck International's employees. The "XL" designation is only the 15th to be awarded, out of 170 dealers within the Albany Region. The Lehigh Valley dealership is completing its first year under current ownership and special note was made that the "XL" standard have been met in that short period of time.

Bernie Boggs, regional comptroller for International Harvester Co., presented the award to Schoeneck International president, Don Kline. In making the award, Boggs emphasized the standards to be met in achieving the "XL" dealer recognition.

"XL" is a series of standards," Mr. Boggs stated, "that when taken together identifies a dealer as a progressive, customer oriented, individual organization willing to provide the best service tomorrow. International Harvester recognizes that regardless of how good our product is, that it is still only as good as the dealership behind it. The "XL" standards commit every employee to excellence within the dealeship in order to provide new service to its customers "XL" service.

Briefly, the "XL" standards include adequate capital, outstanding service, computerized dealer accounting, computerized service parts inventory, new dealer sign, microfiche parts cataloging, top-notch training of key dealership employees, sales performance, adequate facilities - including buildings, tools and fixtures, and succession planning.

"XL" is no more than what progressive customers, progressive manufacturers and progressive dealers expect. We submit that Schoeneck International Equipment is one that has excelled," Boggs concluded.

Following Boggs' remarks, individuals of the Schoeneck firm were recognized by John Baldwin, District manager for International Harvester. Don Kline, president, and Hal Keeler, manager of the firm were honored for their efforts in achieving the "XL" dealership designation.

made no sense to write fixed dates into clean air and clean water legislation. Those target dates can't be physically and financially met, he argued.

Goodard traces the "dramatic improvement in the environment to the public awareness which swelled on that subject during the early and mid '60's. Granting that the issues may have been overdramatized at one point or antther by various groups, he nevertheless gave credit to happenings such as "Earth Day" and Rachel Carson's book, "Silent Spring."

The popularity of environmental programs is apparently waning, hower. Facing budget cuts for his Department, Goddard stated he'd be "happy to keep what I've got now." He also noted that his budget was cut by $3 million in 1975, and another $6 million last year. His staff has been cut by 300 workers.

"It's wiser not to pass laws at all, than to pass laws which won't provide the resources to carry them out," the secretary stressed. He noted that his Department is involved in about 250 activities and that it's currently taking about 1.5 per cent of the state budget to operate DER programs. "Don't think that the protection of the environment isn't a big industry," Goddard lectured. For every billion dollars spent, agencies such as DER and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) are creating about 69,000 jobs, he explained.

"We need more groups such as yours," Goddard went on. "You people are interested in protecting your land and water. But you must be aggressive, otherwise your environmental quality will be lost by default."

"We're involved in a very philosophical issue," Goddard stated in reference to the use of energy and resources and depleting supplies.

Addressing himself to recent weather patterns and present levels of moisture, Goddard predicted Pennsylvania is headed for a drought season.

The dominant industries of the future, says Goodard, will be those which deal with replenishable resources, such as farming and forestry. The secretary also predicts a more frugal lifestyle for Americans, emphasizing that the USA is currently using up 40 per cent of the world's resources while accounting for only six per cent of the world's population. "Do you believe the rest of the world is going to continue to allow us to do that?" Goddard asked.

Goddard is convinced that will change, and noted that it's already taking place as Americans are faced with higher prices for energy, coffee, and other products. Although a high standard of living will not have to be sacrificed in his view, Goddard does predict that lifestyles will change dramatically. The average American wastes about a ton of solid resources per year - that will change, Goddard said.

The wave of the future will be smaller cars, smaller homes, more re-cycling and less waste.

"By the year 2000 we'll have an estimated seven billion people on this planet - can you anticipate the demand we'll see on the world's resources," Goddard challenged. "If we don't do a better job with our resources, we'll be in serious trouble," he proclaimed. "I'm calling on your group to renew your dedication to conservation," he concluded.

Several crises face Shelhamer

By DIETER KRIEG

HARRISBURG - Since taking over the reigns of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture in mid-January, Agriculture Secretary Kent Shelhamer has faced one crisis situation after another.

First came the energy crisis as a result of the severe Winter, and how its effects were burdening many facets of food production both directly and indirectly. That one still isn't over with and it's keeping both public and private officials busy.

closely related to the energy crisis is the concern over rising milk production. Shelhamer expressed deep concern over that fact last week during an interview with this writer, and is particularly worried about being able to handle the surpluses at a time when fuels are being shut off or curtailed.

A third "crisis" also ties in with the dairy industry. The Food and Drug Administration is currently reviewing regulations on frozen desserts, the agriculture head told Lancaster Farming. Shelhamer and his aids are keeping a close eye on the matter, pointing out that "if we make the wrong decision, it'll have a strong effect on the dairy industry." The secretary is concerned about any regulatory changes being in the best interest of Pennsylvania dairymen. He noted that the Commonwealth ranks second nationally in production of ice cream and other frozen dairy desserts.

Returning to the milk surplus question, Secretary Shelhamer said that if prices go up and a surplus situation develops, the American housewife is going to ask them hard questions. Although he hopes the problem will not develop, indications are that conditions are already ripe. Surplus milk production is a matter of record, in fact it's record high. On-the-farm prices for milk are likely to rise this Spring once the floor prices are restructured to 80 per cent of parity. Shelhamer is leery of the consequences, as are a number of officials within the dairy industry.

If questions on supply, demand, and price of milk come up, Shelhamer believes it will be on the federal level.

Commenting on regulations for dairy manufacturing plants, the agriculture secretary believes we "might be heading for over-regulation." He has asked for public hearings on the matter. On the other hand, he stresses the need for quality and that Pennsylvania's dairy industry" would not want to set its standards at artificial levels. They should be as good or better.

Shelhamer says he is also concerned about additional regulations restraining competition within the dairy industry. "We don't want to put them (manufacturers) out of competitive business." he commented. He added that his department is watching the situation closely, saying: "We're not waiting for them (FDA) to move, we're playing defensively."

Dairy club holds meeting

YORK, Pa. - On February 10 the Milk and Money 4-H Dairy Club held their monthly meeting. During the business session they discussed the "June is Dairy Month" display at the York Mall to be held on the fourth of that month. They also had demonstrations on "How to Feed a Calf a Bottle," and "Silent Visitors to the Corn Field."

All 17 members present made rope halters with the help of Dave Norman and Paul King.

The next meeting will be held on March 10. The program will be the Hoard's Dairyman Judging contest. The group will also tour Green's Dairy. That date is April 14.

U.S. soybean market may be eroding

NEWARK, Del. - Competition for the world soybean market is stiff now, but it's going to get worse, says Jerry Caulder, director of market research at Monsanto, Inc.

Only through accelerated research in developing new uses for soybean protein and increased exports of textured vegetable protein will the U.S. be able to remain on a competitive level in the future world soybean market. According to Caulder, not only have other countries increased their soybean acreage tremendously in the past decade, but plantings of other oil-producing crops, such as the Malaysian oil palm and the coconut palm, will soon double in production throughout the world.

One of the keynote speakers at the Delmarva Soybean Meeting held last month in Salisbury, Md., Caulder expresses concern that the U.S. has been "giving away" technology to countries who in turn use it to compete with us.

It's taken us 45 years to bring soybean yields to the present level and increased plantings to the current 50 million acres, he says. In contrast, Brazil has become our greatest rival in less than a decade, rising from an insignificant producer of soybeans in 1968 to grow one-third as many soybeans as we did last year. In addition, their yields have already caught up with ours.

"Why teach the Brazilians to grow soybeans?" Caulder asks. "We can grow soybeans. Teach them to grow coffee. We can't grow coffee, so why do we continually fund technology being exported for nothing?"

One advantage to this competition is that soybean prices are prevented from fluctuating so drastically in the world market, says Caulder. Because the Brazilian cropping system is the exact opposite of ours (we harvest in the Fall, they harvest in the Spring), there is always a constant supply of soybeans.

He adds, however, that Brazil has already succeeded in capturing the West German market from the U.S. And, though they haven't yet sold much to our biggest customer, Japan, further embargoes such as the one a few years ago against selling our soybeans to Japan will drive the Japanese to look elsewhere for a source.

The soybean is a unique plant. its economic value lies in two factions: the protein contained in the beans and the oil produced from those beans. Even though the output of soybean oil per acre is usually greater than other domestic oil crops such as sunflowers, new plantings of Malaysian oil palm in Africa and Indonesia produce ten times as much edible oil per acre as soybeans.

Malaysian oil palm and coconut palm come into direct competition with only the oil faction of the soybean. Even so, some eight per cent of our oil market has been captured by the oil palm in the last 10 years and Malaysia's production of oil palm is expected to double by 1980, according to Caulder.

"It takes about three years for these acres to come into production," he says. "But the life of those trees is about 30 to 35 years. So it's a long-term investment on the part of the Malaysian government to invest in oil palm. The competition of this new planting will be there 35 years from now. Oil palm is a relatively easy crop to produce compared to some of the other tropical crops so the production costs will remain low."

Caulder concludes that the oil palm is here to stay. But the American soybean competes for the protein market as well as for the oil market. The protein portion of the soybean is just as important because of the soybean meal we feed to produce red meat.

"The protein content will be even more important in the future," Caulder states, "because the underdeveloped nations cannot afford the luxury of changing textured protein from vegetables to red meat like we do. Textured vegetable protein is going to be the protein of the future for most of the population of the world."

Caulder paints a grim picture of future world food production, stating that we must increase our cereal and vegetable production by 100 and 70 per cent, respectively, over the next 20 years in order to merely maintain the level of nutrition we have today. With industrialization and urbanization already eating away at the arable land now being farmed, we are confronted with the dilemma of a diminishing supply of land and a greater demand for what we can grow on this land. Underdeveloped nations are looking to the U.S. for the answers.

Soybeans may play a major role in alleviating problems with world protein shortages but soybean farmers must first get together to find new uses for the soybean. The only way the developing nations will make it, he says, is through consumption of textured vegetable protein and we must find the means to make this plant protein more palatable.

Caulder urges all soybean producers to organize for more research, better legislation and expanded markets. If this is not achieved soon, he says, the U.S. stands a good chance of losing the position we now enjoy in the world soybean market.

Price support crop loans available from ASCS

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Farmers having 1976 grain crops stored on the farm are eligible for Price Support Loans, according to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Final dates for obtaining loans on 1976 grain production are as follows: 1976 wheat - $2.26, March 31, 1977; 1976 barley - $1.19, March 31, 1977; 1976 oats - $.86, March 31, 1977; 1976 corn - $1.69, May 31, 1977; 1976 sorghum - $1.44, May 31, 1977; 1976 soybeans - $2.43, May 31, 1977.

Grain placed under loan is mortgaged by Commodity Credit Corporation. Loans may be repaid by the producer at any time. Prior approval for sale of the commodity may be granted by the County ASC Committee. Loans require payment of interest at 7.5 per cent simple interest.

As of December 31, 1976, Pennsylvania farmers had obtained price support loans for 1976 grain crops as follows: Corn - 1,634,365 bu., $2,750,839.89; Sorghum - 3,240 cwt., 8,326.80; Oats - 61,597 bu., 47,996.74; Soybeans - 3,610 bu. 8,752.30; Wheat - 31,982 bu. 53,996.65.

In the United States, the following quantities of 1976 crops were put under support loan as of December 31, 1976: barley, 13,165,000 bushels; corn, 204,789,000 bushels; oats, 4,010,000 bushels; rye, 104,000 bushels; soybeans, 13,398,000 bushels; wheat, 226,067,000 bushels, and sorghum, 8,908,000 hundredweight.

Net quantities of 1975-crop grains under loan as of December 31, 1976, were. barley, 292,000 bushels; corn, 3,825,000 bushels; oats, 99,000 bushels; rye, 10,000 bushels; wheat, 1,974,000 bushels; and sorghum, 106,000 hundredweight.

Generally, lower grain prices and increased CCC loan rates have resulted in a substantial increase in the amount of grain being stored on farms and in approved warehouses with the aid of price support loans administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U.S. Deprtment of Agriculture.

Eligibility for participation in all programs administered by ASCS is established under law without regard to race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

Help clinch corn profits with plow-down application of Unipel® 20-10-10 fertilizer.

If you're plowing corn ground this Spring, help clinch this year's yields and profits with a single pre-plow application of Unipel 20-10-10 It's a program proved to get results

Here's why:

1 Unipel 20-10-10 is a high-N complete fertilizer suited to high corn production
2 Each Unipel 20-10-10 pellet is a homogenized, precise, complete 3-course meal
3 Unipels' uniformity enables precise, uniform spreading Every square foot of your corn field has a good chance of coming in contact with several pellets, each one a complete nutrient package
4 Each Unipel pellet has quick-acting and long-lasting forms of Nitrogen and Phosphorus for fast starting and continued nutrient feeding
5 The intimate Nitrogen and Phosphorus combination in Unipels gives up to 50% better phosphate uptake than separately-applied N & P

The result: You lay big-yield groundwork by providing a sufficient and balanced nutrient supply for every plant, all season long What's more, you're investing in a proved fertilization program

We recommend Unipel 20-10-10 for basic corn fertilization, because it's a precise complete fertilizer well-suited for today's precise, profitable corn production

pre-emergence herbicide

EFFECTIVE CONTROL OF BROADLEAF AND GRASSY WEEDS WITHOUT CARRYOVER PROBLEMS

What degree of weed control will you settle for in your corn? Most of the thousands of growers we've talked with on the Banvel® "Hot Line" seem to expect at least 90 percent control. And, most of them have been getting it with the pre-emergence, post-plant application of Banvel® + Lasso® tank-mix

An important advantage of this combination which growers appreciate is freedom from worry about carry-over, particularly following a year of droughty conditions

HOW TO ACHIEVE 90% OR BETTER CONTROL ON LABELED WEEDS

Here are the most important steps to successful results with Banvel® + Lasso® tank-mix

- Apply Banvel® + Lasso® strictly according to soil type and percent of organic matter The Banvel® + Lasso® label spells it out for you
- Incorporation is not only unnecessary, it is undesirable other than under extreme drought conditions, even then, incorporation should be no more than ½-inch.
- If you apply Banvel® + Lasso® with liquid fertilizer, check compatibility of the liquids first by mixing proper proportions in a small container
- Use the right kind of nozzles and screens The label is specific on this point
- This combination should not be used on any sandy textured soils

*"LASSO" is a registered trademark of Monsanto Company The Banvel® + Lasso® tank-mix is cleared for use in Colorado Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Wisconsin

Note. Before using any pesticide, read the label.

Farm Bureau

Avoid formulas which establish loan rates for export crops without regard to our competitive position in world markets.

Grant made these additional recommendations to the Congress:

-Continuation of the authority for acreage set-aside programs and the effective use of this authority, if necessary, to avoid burdensome surpluses. "Farmers should be encouraged to prarticipate in set-aside programs through per acre payments for performace."

-The disaster payment provisions of the 1973 Farm Act should be allowed to expire.

-"Government-owned stocks are not necessary for the welfare of either our domestic or our foreign customers, and they are costly in terms of their impact on farm prices and the federal budget. We do not believe that government stocks can be isolated from the market. We know that such stocks are inconsistent with the objective of a market-oriented agriculture.

"In order to provide opportunity for more orderly marketing and to avoid government-controlled reserves, we favor programs to encourage and assist farmers to increase on-the-farm storage. Such programs include loans at favorable interest rates for the construction of new storage capacity, longer-term CCC commodity loans, and storage payments for grain that is kept in storage by the producer for more than one year."

Concerning the farm Bill, Grant also recommended:

-Extension of P.L. 480, to permit the U.S. to continue to provide food assistance to needy countries.

-A one-year extension of the present rice law.

-Extension of the present wool program without major changes..

-Transfer of EPA's administration of agricultural chemicals to USDA.

- Expanded agricultural research.

Grant said the Farm Bureau's recommendations were based on an extensive review of government farm programs conducted as a part of the policy development program for the 1977 policies.

"Our present policy on government farm programs differs somewhat from the position which we took when the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 was originally before this Committee," he said , "but there has not been any change in our basic objective.

"Government programs to improve farm income should be designed and administered to enhance market opportunities to the end that farmers will earn higher incomes in the marketplace and will not be dependent on government payments for a portion of their income."

Ultra Pasteurization

A new process called ultra pasteurization" has made extra shelf life possible for some cream products With this technique, dairy products are heated to 280 degrees Farenheit for two seconds, producing an almost sterile product As a result cream and half-and-half may be sold in stores for 15 days after the time of pasteurization

USDA to review conservation

WASHINGTON, D.C. - A U S. Department of Agriculture official recently told the Land Improvement Contractors of America that the nation is taking risks with future needs for food and fiber if it does not increase its soil and water conservation practices.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland will propose a commission to review the present situation in soil and water conservation, Bob Mondloch of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) told the group.

"We will, in the months ahead, be reviewing in depth the position we will take as an administration on pollution and conservation questions," Mondloch said. "We will look for practical solutions that will not burden you as small businessmen and women or our farmers and ranchers with uneconomic answers or burdensome regulations."

The deputy director of ASCS's Environmental Quality and Land Use Division said the administration would support the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) as a "practice vehicle to use" in voluntary soil and water conservation. The ACP provides cost-sharing funds to farmers for furthering conservation in the community beyond that which would be accomplished with the farmers' own resources.

The President has submitted to Congress an amended budget request of $190 million for 1978 ACP contract authority. This amount is the same as that authorized for 1977.

Mondloch said ACP can meet the test of cost-effectiveness "if every investment is sound and results in conservation or pollution abatement over and above that which would be done without cost-sharing."

Half and Half

Half and half is a mixture of milk and cream which contains not less than 10 5 and not more than 18 per cent milkfat, almost always homogenized

NEW F9S WATER BOWL . . .

Makes other Bowls obsolete

Cut-away view of small, inexpensive brass valve. Comes with filter and stainless steel spring. Filter is removeable without demounting the pipes and fittings.

The brass valve is separate from the bowl casting so the casting can't freeze! Benefit - reduced maintenance cost and less wasted time! The small valve also eliminates old fashioned separate fountain chambers.

The "DRY" water bowl . . .

The valve is supplied with stem for normal pressure and an alternate stem for high pressure. By using the appropriate stem, the flow of water can be controlled. By controlling the flow, you help to control the accumulation of water in the bowl itself which causes the cow to slop. The bowl also comes equipped with a special splash-guard.

Longer-lasting nose plate . . .

Nose plate is made of STAINLESS STEEL and requires only minimal travel to supply water . . . in fact nose plate "bottoms-out" against the bowl which virtually eliminates breakage common to other designs. Minimal travel also results in less hinge pressure and wear meaning less replacement cost.

Lewis unhappy with farm economy

By DIETER KRIEG

HARRISBURG - Bob Lewis is not happy with the present farm economy, but he is pleased with the new Carter Administration. Lewis, secretary of the National Farmers Union, recently revealed his feelings to Lancaster Farming at a news conference here.

"I was privileged to call on President Carter on the first day he was in office," Lewis began, telling of how he and his wife both actively supported the Democratic candidate's campaign. Although the NFU as an organization is non-partisan, it was no secret that many of its members supported Carter. According to Lewis, President Carter acknowledged that support while he was visiting with him last month.

"We want him (Carter) to stabilize and improve farm income, Lewis told the reporters gathered here at the Penn Harris Motor Inn. "The relative purchasing power of the farmer today is just a shade higher than what it was in March of 1933," the NFU officer charged. "Farmers are in a depression right now," he added quite seriously.

"We think this is obviously bad for farmers - bad for the country and bad for consumers," Lewis continued. Questioned about thoughts on Carter, Lewis announced "We have a very good feeling about him."

According to Lewis and others knowledgeable in the area of agriculture and politics, the new Democratic Administration is likely to pay more attention to NFU theories and proposals than did the Nixon and Ford administrations. USDA Secretary Bob Bergland and Carter have both openly expressed agreement with the NFU on a variety of agricultural issues. Bergland is a Minnesota farmer and member of both the NFU and National Farmers Organization (NFO), which made headlines three years ago with its strong expressions for improved farm prices.

Citing the last seven or eight years as having been unsatisfactory ones for farmers, Lewis is especially upset over the happenings since 1972. He is specifically critical of the 1973 soybean embargo, which was imposed after the U.S. had an unusually short crop. The embargo and resulting difficulties with Japan would not have occurred had NFU policies been followed by the White House and USDA, Lewis charged.

He told reporters he believes there is "political pressure" against all farm prices.

Asked about the effects the Winter of 1977 might have on food prices. Lewis left no doubt that prices would be rising significantly as a result of the arctic temperatures. Along that line, he also addressed himself to the crisis situation that has developed in the Midwest and West as a result of the prolonged drought. He noted that Wisconsin, his home state, is recording its driest year ever. Snowpacks in the Rocky Mountain states are 30 or more per cent below normal, which will severely cut into irrigation supplies this Spring and Summer. He sees all major crops in those regions as being in danger now as a result of the drought and sees better than normal rainfall at the right times from here on in as the only salvation.

Lewis finds it ironic that "farmers are going broke" while producing record crops. He cited the wheat crop as an example, noting that it's the biggest the world has ever seen. Other grains are also plentiful, with only soybeans being on the short side. Last year's wheat harvest was 18 per cent above previous records.

A national food policy would, in Lewis' opinion, alleviate some of the problems U.S. farmers have with present marketing systems. The NFU advocates the use of high enough government commodity loans made available to farmers which would prevent the "boom and bust" swings of agriculture. "We know we're going to have lean and fat years," Lewis said, "but we must use the one to protect against the other."

"Adequate government loans to farmers on storable commodities will constitute a food reserve," the NFU executive explained. He believes it is in both the farmer's and the consumer's best interest to stabilize prices. "We can thus draw on our reserves to prevent too strong of a rise in prices, such as we experienced in 1973," Lewis said. A loan program such as the NFU envisions would also prevent drastic downturns in prices - protecting farmers and consumers once more.

The big flux in price ranges is something farmers and consumers can't afford to live with, Lewis said.

If the NFU proposed loans would go into effect, they would hold price fluctuations to narrower limitations, Lewis affirmed. The reserves which the loans would make possible would be farmer owned, but the government would hold a "mortgage" on them by way of the loans, he explained.

Stressing the validity of such a loan and reserves program, Lewis likened such circumstances to an implement dealer having a good inventory of parts. "A farmer wouldn't patronize an equipment dealer who doesn't have a good inventory," he reasoned.

"The country can't afford to have this situation," Lewis went on, emphasizing that a long-range food plan is badly needed. He cited the world's interdependence, saying "We must help those countries where there are food shortages, or watch people starve on TV."

Asked what he considers to be the most important single piece of farm legislation Congress should be considering this year, Lewis unequivocally stated that price legislation is tops on his list of priorities. "Fair prices are essential, farmers can do most anything else themselves," he said.

A sound food policy, says Lewis, will take the consumer, farmer, and country as a whole into account. Aside from providing both consumer and farmer with adequate and fair prices, the food policy he envisions will also provide the U.S. people with "reliable export markets."

How to get all the parts of the formula together might not be an easy task, Lewis suggested. Acknowledging that the political process and government policies are two important routes to keep in mind, he nevertheless advises farmers "not to put all their eggs in one political basket."

Lewis was asked about the Young Farmer Homestead Act, answering that he did not think it would be passed within the next few years. The NFU, 250,000 members strong, has expressed favor to such plans. On a broader spectrum, Lewis said he believes farmers will get a fair hearing from the new administration, most notably Secretary Bergland.

The NFU officer said banks and other institutions are watching the Carter Administration closely in order to see which way it will go. Banks and others have to have some indication of the new administration's direction in order to determine how they will handle loans.

A final subject to which Lewis addressed himself as a result of the questioning by reporters was the meat supply. Lewis sees a shortage coming up within the next few years, observing that cattlemen have been losing money lately, they're selling their herds, and consumers are eating them up.

Lewis figures that if prosperity is restored in this country within the next 12 months or so, and consumers start buying a lot of red meat again, there won't be enough to go around and prices will go up to meet the demand.

"It's in the consumer's interest to stabilize prices," Lewis said, staring a Harrisburg reporter right in the eye.

Keystone Grange No. 2 holds legislative meeting

Representative G. Sieber Pancoast of the local 147th District met with the legislative committee of Keystone Grange No. 2 Patrons of Husbandry of Trappe, recently, at which time several important topics pertaining to state legislative activities were discussed.

Rates and minimum premiums of the present Pennsylvania Workmen's Compensation Law as they affect small family-type agricultural operations and other small businesses were discussed at length, and the committee's actions will be conveyed to various state legislators.

Proper disposal of sewage sludge was a major topic of discussion, and it was decided to have the committee's proposal for continuing research with this environmental sludge treatment plan be presented to the local, pomona, and state Grange units in the form of a resolution. The committee also requested legislative support for the appropriation request by Pennsylvania State University as presented. The committee continued its efforts to have the State Institutional Farms retained in their present operational status. Finally, a resolution was proposed for presentation to the local Grange unit to have recommendations of the Commonwealth Compensation Commission relating to salary increases for state officals, judges, and legislative leaders be acted upon by both Legislative houses in Harrisburg the same as any other legislative proposal.

Legislative committee members present were: Ernest Yocum, Jr., chairman; Christian Hunsicker; Oliver Reed; Charles Rhoads; and Perry Schultz. Also present were: Lois Stringer, Master of Keystone Grange; Charles Wismer, Jr., Legislative Chairman of Pennsylvania State Grange; and George Rodgers, new aide to Pennsylvania State Grange Master J. Luther Snyder.

UNEMPLOYMENT INCREASING

A Serious Situation Indeed!!!

Common sense says that those who can should grow food, rather than sending children to factories to take away jobs from others. Your decision either betters or worsens the situation in two ways.

"Where there is no vision the people perish" Proverbs

We have large markets anxious for our quality produce at our warehouse next summer, most anything in the catalogue.

We have unusual fast acting enzymes and minerals that make large crops of superior flavor and keeping quality with less or no spray, even the fruit. Enzymes break up clay soils and hard pan also, thereby draining swamps.

A light application of Nat-ur-Min soil minerals reduce fertilizer needs by half with much better quality and nutritious crop.

A SHUR-GRO sponsored meeting at Blue Ball Fire Hall, Lancaster County, Pa. on Route 322, one block east of Route 23. Time - Wednesday, March 2, 1977 at 10:00 A.M. Free dinner, then a second session after dinner and again at 7:30 P.M. There is much to say by the main speaker, Philip A. Wheeler, about soils and crop and animal health. Don't miss it! Come with your questions. He is an experienced farmer of Natures Way Farm in Michigan. He handles a complete and good soil test including the minerals and cation exchange capacity, with consultation for only $10.

A mineral and enzyme and produce market session at 2:30 P.M., same day.

Hear the outstanding performance of NAT-UR-MIN (M42G) for feeding and soils, and the Hi-zyme high crop yield records.

We are looking for more good reputable dealers for all these products.

Electronic seed treatment will resume a little later. Makes a big difference in dry weather because of huge roots, plus healthier crops. Ben Shirk in Indiana got 16 extra bushels soybeans per acre. Also reduces fertilizer needs which reduces our sales, but we want to see the farmers survive. For proof, buy our book "Economical Health and Survival", $2.00 here or $2.50 mailed. A good value for the price.

Flash announcement!!! For the 2.30 P.M. session, an Indiana Mennonite farmer, Maynard Good, with much experience with NAT-UR-MIN (M42G), natural minerals for both livestock and soil. They give outstanding results. He will stay for the evening meeting also. Here him at least once.

Poultrymen to be entertained at banquet

Jud Strunk

HARRISBURG, Pa. - Pennsylvania poultrymen are going to be entertained by former "Laugh-In" star, Jud Strunk, and a sensational new singing group, "Life." The occasion is the annual fund raising banquet of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation on March 31, 1977, at the Host Farm in Lancaster. A sell-out crowd is expected to fill the Cabaret Room of the Host Farm when poultrymen and allied industrymen assemble for this big night of the year. The Pennsylvania Poultry Federation reports that early ticket sales indicate that all available 1,200 seats will probably be sold before the night of the banquet.

Strunk is best remembered for his regular appearances on NBC-TV's "Laugh-In" series, his own TV special, "The Jud Strunk Show," and his million record seller, "Daisy A Day". Strunk will be accompanied by the Coplin Kitchen Band, who regularly appear with him. The humorist-musician from Maine captivates his audiences with gentle ballads, low-key tales and funny storeis about small towns, backroads and friends back home. "Life" is a youthful group of four women and seven men who provide their own musical accompaniment to their own rich vocal interpretations of a variety of music styles. Their repertoire includes contemporary tunes, old standards, country, spiritual, 50's rock and roll, broadway favorites and patriotic songs.

The gala banquet in just three years has become the poultry event of the year in Pennsylvania. When trying to understand the reasons for this phenomenon, one poultryman may have summed it up best when he said, "It's a great evening and everybody's there, so that's where I want to be!" Some of the highlights of this year's banquet include a gala social hour with the Cabaret Band, an elegant dinner featuring "Sunshine Chicken," the $10,000 winning dish at the 1976 National Chicken Cooking Contest, the appearance of prominent industry and government officials and of course the entertainment. In addition, the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation has commissioned distinguished Pennsylvania artist, Nick Ruggieri, to paint "The Four Seasons of Rural Pennsylvania", four original oil paintings which will be given away the night of the banquet. For further information or to obtain tickets, contact the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, 500 N. Progress Ave., Harrisburg, Pa. 17109 or call (717) 662-7530.

The popular singing group known as "Life" will provide entertainment to Pennsylvania poultrymen at their annual fund raising banquet next month.

AGRI-SC SOIL CONDITIONER

- Improves Water Infiltration
- Loosens Tight Soil, and
- Increases Yield Potential

"Results indicate that this rate of application of Agri-SC reduced the plasticity and increased the permeability. For the test series just completed, the untreated sample had a liquid limit of 58, a plasticity index of 26, and a permeability near 1x10-9 cm-sec The treated sample had a liquid limit of 52, a plasticity index of 21, and a permeability of 3x10-7 cm-sec This indicates a decrease of 20 percent in the plasticity index and an increase of 100 times in the coefficient of permeability"

Grange Master says 1973 farm act not in line with costs of today

WASHINGTON, D.C. - In testimony before the House and Senate Agriculture Committees here this week, John W. Scott, master of the National Grange, called for a new five year farm bill that would protect the financial stability of American agriculture.

Scott said farmers should not be expected to shoulder the entire financial responsibility for producing an abundance of food and fiber without being guaranteed an adequate compensation for their investment of capital, labor and management equal to other segments of the economic society. He said the present Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 which expires this year is not in line with the costs of todays agriculture industry.

He said future legislation should include guaranteed prices and non-recourse loans on major commodities which would take into account all out-of-pocket costs and a reasonable charge for land. He said adequate compensation becomes even more important when the government asks farmers to produce above domestic demand in order to further increase agricultural exports as a means of improving the country's balance of payments.

The Grange is a strong advocate of maintaining a strategic reserve of basic agricultural commodities. Scott said unpredictable changes in supply or demand would have less effect on consumer prices is stocks were available from a reserve. The Grange recommends a legally established national food reserve with 80 per cent in the hands of farmers 20 per cent government owned and that the government held stocks be released last.

The Grange supports the extension of the Food Stamp Program but recommends tightening eligibility criteria, denying food stamps to workers voluntarily away from their jobs and transferring the program to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Scott said if it becomes necessary to withhold farm land from production then the Grange recommends a revision in farm allotments which would be based on the previous five year planted crop history as a rolling average, continually dropping the earliest year and picking up the most recent year.

The Grange also recommends the price support program for milk be set at 90 per cent of parity with quarterly reviews, improving all-risk crop insurance and disaster payments and a set-aside program to apply against total tillable acreage.

Crop loans available

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Farmers having 1976 grain crops stored on the farm are eligible for Price Support Loans.

Final dates for obtaining loans on 1976 grain production are as follows:

Crop	Loan Rate-Bu.	Final Date
1976 Wheat	$2.26	March 31, 1977
1976 Barley	$1.19	March 31, 1977
1976 Oats	$ .86	March 31, 1977
1976 Corn	$1.69	May 31, 1977
1976 Sorghum	$.144	May 31, 1977
1976 Soybeans	$2.43	May 31, 1977

Grain placed under loan is mortgaged by Commodity Credit Corporation. Loans may be repaid by the producer at any time. Prior approval for sale of the commodity may be granted by the County ASC Committee. Loans require payment of interest at 7.5 per cent simple interest.

Generally, lower grain prices and increased CCC loan rates have resulted in a substantial increase in the amount of grain being stored on farms and in approved warehouses with the aid of price support loans administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Eligibility for participation in all programs administered by ASCS is established under law without regard to race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

E-town Young Farmers study tractors

for Lancaster Farming

ELIZABETHTOWN, Pa. - Profits from preventive maintenance served as the theme of the annual machinery meeting off the Elizabethtown Young Farmers Monday night at the Elizabethtown Area High School. Spokesmen for Allis-Chalmers, Ford, International, John Deere, and Deutz showed films on proper maintenance of air and fuel filters, batteries, cooling systems and hydraulic systems.

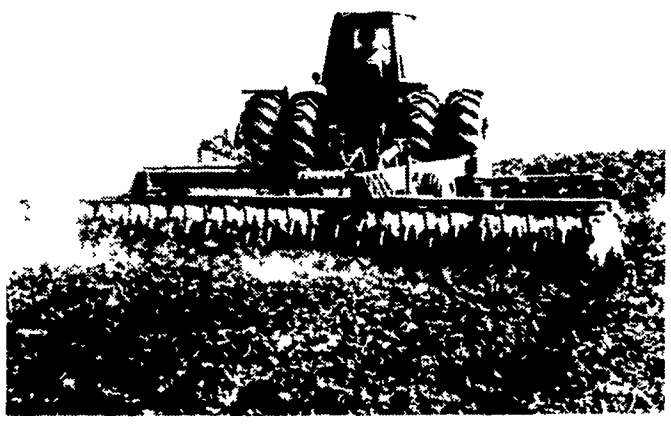
Hours of valuable down time in the field and costly repair bills can be avoided by following a schedule of regular checks on the tractor's component systems, the Young Farmers were told. What used to be a simple air filter is no longer simple on today's high performance tractors. The owner's manual is as valuable as the tractor in protecting the engine, particularly for high horsepower tarctors.

Several tractor companies showed films of the track testing used to insure that parts and systems built into tractors meet field conditions. Tractors are put through severe punishment to test drive trains, axles, drawbars, and cabs, the manufacturers' representatives said, pointing out that a whole lot more than raw materials goes into a tractor's price tag.

The final feature of the meeting was dynamometer testing of tractors for PTO horsepower output. Three tractors were tested to show the method and value of dynamometer testing.

The dynamometer is used to measure the horsepower of an engine and as an indicator of its efficiency. It is also helpful in having the tractor owner become more aware of engine performance and maintenance. In other words, if the dynamometer says the engine is not putting out the horsepower it should, the next thing to do is to find out why not.

It was pointed out that diesel tractors improve their horsepower ratings after some years of use.



It'll be smoother sailing this Spring and Summer if proper maintenance and attention is given now to farm equipment.

Of the three tractors brought into the shop for dynamometer testing, one measured right up to its ratings, another surpassed it by several horsepower, and the third exceeded the manufacturer's claim by 115 horsepower - or nearly twice the horsepower it was supposed to have. The fuel injectors had been altered by the owner.

The next meeting of the Elizabethtown Young Farmers will be held on March 3 at 7:45 p.m. with the topic being soil fertility and fertilizer management. On March 9 and 16 the group will play volleyball from 7 to 9 p.m. On March 17 the educational program resumes with further discussions on nanure management. A volleyball tournament is scheduled for March 22.

York wants USDA reshuffled

SYRACUSE, N.Y. - "There should be a new definition regarding the responsibilities of the U. S. Department of Agriculture," declared John C. York, general manager of Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, in Syracuse, N.Y., recently.

York said that the USDA should identify itself more closely with the people engaged in producing agricultural commodities. He urged the formation of a Department of Farmers' Affairs.

He recommended that those items, such as the Food Stamp Program, not related to expenditures with respect to agricultural programs be lifted from the Department of Agriculture and appropriately identified with an agency outside the USDA.

The leading dairy spokesman suggested two basic broad objectives for inclusion into the 1977 Farm Bill. First, instituute a food policy that would provide adequate supplies of pure and wholesome food for all Americans, giving recognition to the poor and disadvantaged who need special assistance. Second, provide farmers with sufficient price returns to reward them for their capital, labor and managerial abilities.

To achieve this basic policy, Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative submitted the following specific requirements to be incorporated into the legislation:

The maintenance and the strengthening of Federal Milk Marketing Order Programs.

The continuation of Class I base plans and seasonality pricing programs, but maintained as a part of the framework of the Federal Order Programs.

The dairy support program be continued and the support prices be established at not less than 80 per cent of parity and recomputed quarterly.

The Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, should clearly define the price that farmers are to receive under the Federal Milk Marketing Order Program. A new interpretation of price is essential to eliminate the confusion in the dairy industry. It would be Eastern's view that the price should be one that would produce an adequate supply of milk, be in the public interest and maintain a viable dairy industry - a cost of production formula with prices adjusted to supply and demand. Such a price should not refer to either minimum or maximum prices.

The Act should be amended authorizing producers to establish a set-aside program within the federal orders to develop a retirement fund among participating dairy farmers in a federal regulated area.

The authority for dairy products indemnity program expires this year. Such indemnity is with respect to milk that may have the presence of pesticide residues. Eastern urges the continuation of such indemnity program.

The Co-op further urges that producers of milk should be reimbursed for losses suffered in the event of disaster conditions, occasioned by an Act of God, which affect their farm operations. The recent blizzard in many sections of the northeast highlights the need for such a program, York concluded.

Yes you can

You can pay for a Harvestore with the money Harvestore saves you.

Admit it — you don't have anything against the money you could make with a Harvestore, it s the thought of paying for a Harvestore that turns you off

Yet, there's a good chance you're already paying for a Harvestore Paying for it with field and storage losses Paying for it with the sweat and strain it takes to lug, buck and feed baled hay Paying for it with the poor results you get from feeding lower quality forages And paying for it with the high cost of store-bought protein

The truth is you may be paying for a Har vestore you just don t have one Give your Harvestore dealer a call He'll give you names of dairymen near you who decided since they were paying for a Harvestore — they d like having one

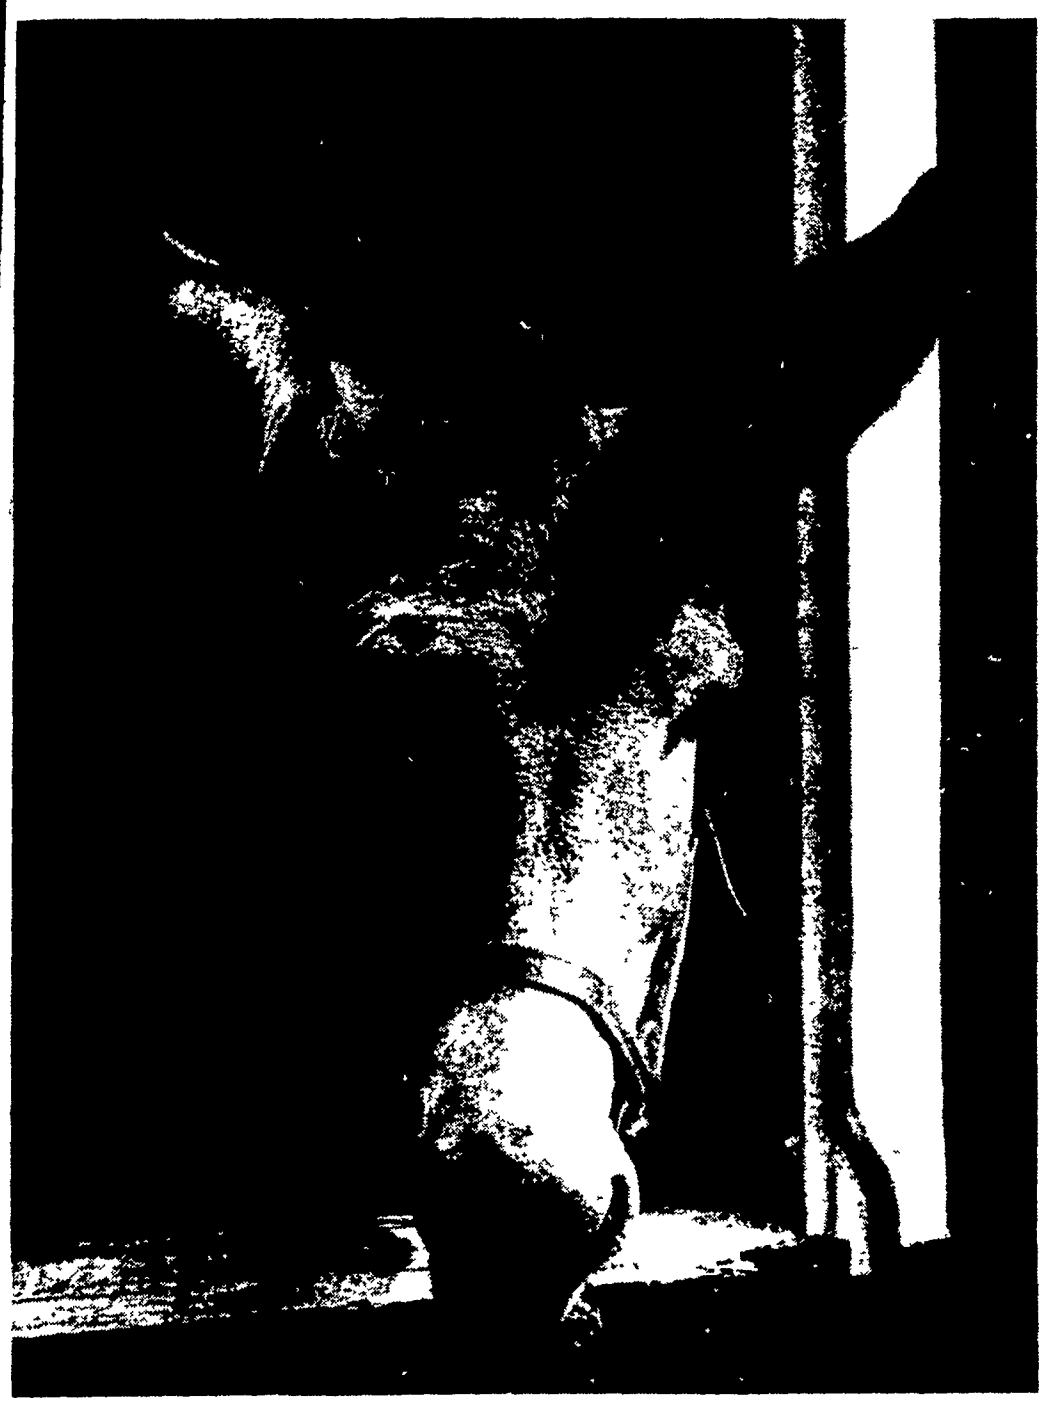
The economical horse and mule feed for price-conscious buyers . . .

WAYNE Horse and Mule Krunch

Price-conscious buyers like the economy of Wayne Horse and Mule Krunch. They also like the convenience of this medium-energy feed.



Wayne Horse and Mule Krunch is a texturized feed consisting of oats, corn, molasses, and a pellet fortified with protein, trace minerals and vitamins A and D. So besides giving your horses and mules the nutrition they need, you're also giving them the flavor they love and will eat readily.

Wayne Horse and Mule Krunch should be fed to mature horses and mules at rest to medium work. Feed as the grain portion of the ration in conjunction with hay or pasture.

Easy to feed, and economical, too. Wayne Horse and Mule Krunch.

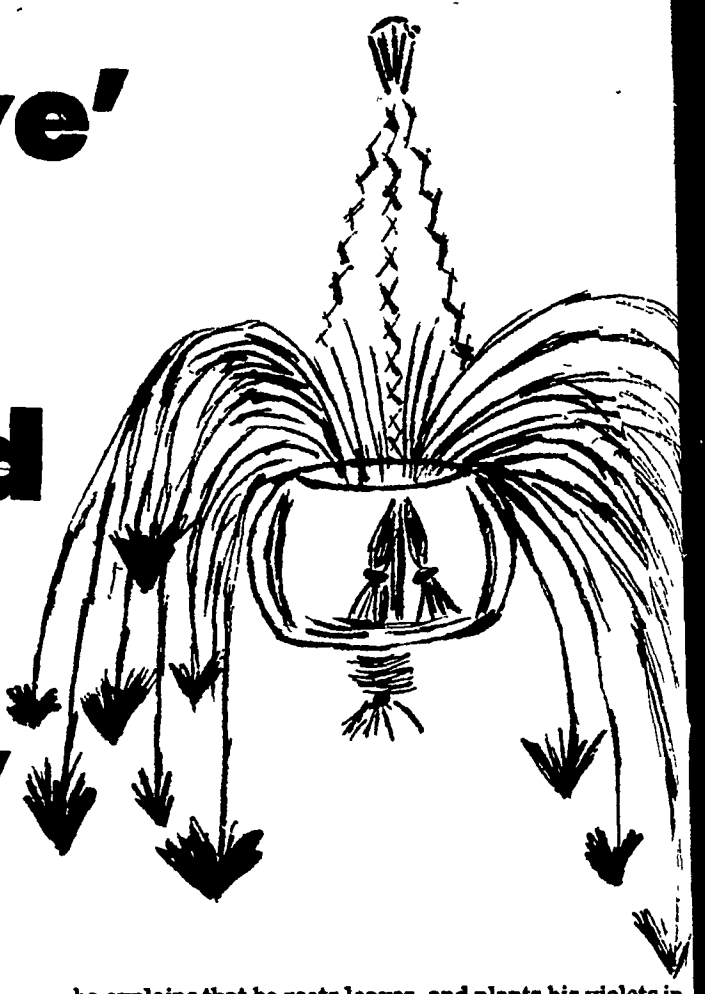
'Green Glove' taught greenhand about greenery



By SALLY BAIR
Feature Writer

Seventeen-year-old Jim Wert is no stranger to hard work. Jim operates a greenhouse and attends school fulltime. And, from all appearances, he's doing an enviable job of both.

Jim's greenhouse, filled with lush greenery, is located in Landisville just a few blocks from his 289 Main Street home. He has named it "The Green Glove Greenhouse" after a chance remark made by his grandmother in reference to his having won the FFA Star Greenhand Award last year.

The greenhouse once belonged to Mark Nolt, and is now part of the property owned by the Dan Gross family. Jim says the Gross family has been a big source of help and encouragement in his work there. Jim's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Wert, Sr.

What inspires a teenager to go into the greenhouse business? Jim says simply, "I've always been interested in it. My grandfather was interested, and so was my Dad. I've helped take care of the flower garden at my home since I was in third or fourth grade."

He recounts, too, how he bid on all the plants offered for sale at a public auction. He got them all, and he was just in seventh grade. He still has some of those plants in his greenhouse.

This Hempfield High School senior, not only has the interest, but also seems to have what must be the most important ingredient in growing plants - a green thumb. Along with the green thumb, Jim is also willing to work hard. He spends at least one hour at the greenhouse watering plants before school each morning. He adds, "I work here every day. There is always something to do." In the summer he grew over an acre of vegetables, and said, "That was a lot of weeding."

Despite the hundreds of healthy plants in the green house, Jim is quick to point out that it has been a learning process. He is in his second year of floriculture at Mount Joy Vocational Technical School, and says, "I wouldn't have tried it without having a course at Vo-Tech."

Last Summer he decided to take over the abandoned greenhouse, and in August he began the venture with 50 poinsettias. "I bought cuttings," he said, explaining that poinsettias are very difficult to start alone. In October he purchased 875 more cuttings, and he was in business in earnest. Most of this crop were sold to churches and to group functions over the Christmas holiday.

While working with the poinsettias, Jim started hanging baskets from cuttings of plants he had in his room at home. He added, "I was also digging wax begonias before the frost. I'm not afraid to ask people for cuttings or plants if they're just going to let them freeze over the Winter."

He now has over 400 hanging baskets, and is starting 300 hanging geraniums of pink and lavendar and 325 standard geraniums in red, pink and white. He said, "I want to have a big variety to see what I can grow and to see how they sell."

His big greenhouse crops now are chrysanthemums and Easter lilies which he is scheduling to be in bloom for the Easter holiday. He has seven colors of fuchsia, and quite a few daffodils and tulips which are beginning to bloom. He said he is concerned about selling the blooming plants because their life is so short and if he doesn't sell them, they are a total loss. He is considering getting a refrigerator into working order which would stretch the life of blooming plants by several weeks.

African violets are another large "crop" for Jim, and he explains that he roots leaves, and plants his violets in African violet potting soil.

Jim does his marketing through two outlets - Root's Auction in Manheim and Southern Market in Lancaster. He has had a stand at Root's since last May, but sold mostly vegetables over the summer. He has been at Southern Market just four weeks, but he said he notices a difference in the customers who visit each market. The ones at Southern market are more verbal, he says, often exclaiming, "It's beautiful." Jim says he feels they're a little friendlier.

At both stands he sells hanging baskets, some macrame holders and foliage plants. He said he likes standing at the markets because, "I enjoy meeting a lot of people." And at Southern Market he said, "I can already see people coming back." Business has been slow at both markets, but he said, "It's picking up now that it's warmer."

When traffic is slow at the markets, Jim said he does homework, or studies seed catalogues and makes macrame holders. Sheila Gross assists him at both markets, helping him get ready for Southern Market at 7:30 a.m. every Saturday morning.

Transporting his plants to market in this cold weather is not too much of a problem, Jim said. He heats up his station wagon and quickly loads it. He said he must handle plants carefully, but if any leaves are broken off in transporting, he just brings them home and roots them.

Weathering his first Winter in the greenhouse business has been a challenge for Jim. Healthy plants need some warmth so he uses large amounts of fuel oil. Thermostat temperatures are usually set between 60 and 65 degrees,

HOMESTEAD NOTES

The way to have full, thick hanging baskets, Jim says, is to pinch back the plants to force them to send out extra shoots.

Jim Wert pots some cuttings from wandering jews. They will all become lush hanging baskets under his expert care.

Greenhouse

but Jim said, "In October, November and December, I used 1700 gallons of oil. In January, I used 2300 gallons. It's much more than I expected."

To conserve as much as possible, Jim spent 90 hours installing plastic material over the glass roof. He explained that the greenhouse needed paint and caulking, but he chose to use the plastic which is designed to last two years. He said it is specially treated for use on a greenhouse so it won't yellow, and it is stronger than plastic used on homes for insulation. He said further that the plastic gives a dead air space which helps with insulation.

Financing such an operation is no small matter. The cost of the roof and materials was $200, which casme out of a fund of $500 that he had saved to start the business. He was able to save some money from a lawn business he maintains in which he cares for 12 lawns during the summer. He also grew about an acre of vegetables which he sold at Root's.

He said he was able to defer payment on the poinsettias, which meant he could sell them first. He has established credit with local greenhouses, enabling him to continue to expand and grow.

Jim is quick to express his appreciation to local greenhouse owners who have been helpful to him, giving advice as he got started. He specifically mentioned Arthur Miller of Miller's Greenhouses, Landisville; Charles Ruhl of Ruhl's Flowers in Mount Joy; Ray Lefever of Lefever's Flowers, Lancaster; and Ruth Nolt of Landisville.

He adds that a big source of information and support is his course at Mount Joy Vo-Tech and floriculture teacher Dan Helwig.

But, he said, "I learned a lot from experience." He said, "One of my biggest mistakes was with my kalanchoes. I bought 200 for $100 and fertilized them and burned the roots off." So now he has tiny plants with pretty blooms and he just hopes they will grow out and save his investment.

Another problem he had was with ventilation in the Fall which caused some of his plants to be burned from being too hot. Another serious problem developed when he sprayed some plants for aphids during the sunny day when he should have done it at night or on a cloudy day. This cost him some trouble with the leaves on otherwise beautiful plants.

Jim is philosophical about these problems, however, and says that he feels he has learned more in his own greenhouse than he would have had he worked for someone else. And he says, "I never had any serious problems."

Operating a greenhouse involves a lot of record keeping. Jim says, "I keep all my bills and record everything that I sell at market." He also said that the distributive education teacher at Mount Joy Vo-Tech is going to work with him in setting up a complete bookkeeping system.

Jim is also learning the pricing of plants for selling. He said he establishes a price which will "get my money back, with very little profit." He figures the cost of fuel oil, supplies, and a little labor.

Dan Kewig, Jim's floriculture teacher, says that Jim's outstanding work in his greenhouse and vegetable projects helped him win a gold medal for his miscellaneous floriculture project book. Helwig says it's "tough" for someone to go into the greenhouse business, and expressed confidence in the work Jim does. He said, "With his experience and perseverance, he will have a good opportunity to work toward amanagementposition in a greenhouse, or will be in a good position to go into business fulltime for himself."

Jim is president of Plants Unlimited, the FFA chapter at Mount Joy Vo-Tech, a position which he says is helping him become less nervous before a group. He had played football from seventh through eleventh grade, but couldn't go out this year because of the work at the greenhouse. Jim is a member of the youth group at Landisville Church of God.

Jim says he gets a lot of satisfaction from working with plants. Just walking into the greenhouse and seeing growing plants gives him a lot of joy. "I like to look at everything," he remarked.

But he realizes that his current level of business is not profitable enough to support him, so he's unsure of his future. If his Spring and Summer is successful, he says he may try to open an additional house. "I would like to extend my varieties," he explained.

Despite all the hard work and the few setbacks, Jim says, "I would start over again. I really like it, and I've learned a lot."

Jim got this start by purchasing nearly 900 poinsettia cuttings. He has just a few plants left from his initial investment.

On being a farm wife - and other hazards

By Joyce Bupp

Stepping through the bus door, I felt like a sixth grader on a field trip - somewhat awed and very curious.

At the top of the broad steps lay our state Capitol building, the impressive dome reaching high into the blue sky. There were 150 of us, Pennsylvania Farmers' Association women, who had come to tour our state government headquarters and visit our legislators in their offices.

I'd only ever had brief contact with elected officials in the past, and the chance to meet with them in their offices on the Hill was definitely an adventure. Would they have time for us? Would they even care that we were interested?

This farm wife was not venturing into the vast, unknown haven of worldly, knowledgeable political men alone - I'd brought a friend. She'd never been here either. Feeling like Laurel and Hardy, we ventured into the Senate wing, climbed the stairs and entered the office of our Senator. A gracious secretary ushered us into his office; and we were soon deep in converstion with his administrative assistant.

The Governor had presented his budget that day; and before long, our Senator arrived from caucus bearing his day's homework - a budget appropriations volume the size of a Sears catalog and an accompanying document half as thick. In spite of the seriousness of the day's business and his bulging schedule, we were warmly welcomed and discussed a range of subjects.

But we still had representatives to see. Thanking the Senator for sharing his valuable time, we hurried to the other wing of the Capitol. Poking our heads into a clerk's office brought us directions to their offices. Then, rushing across the hall, we almost, literally, bumped into one of our representatives. He stopped and chatted with us about events and issues for about 20 minutes, until we had to hurry away to the basement offices for still another visit. As we arrived, so did this legislator, just out of a meeting and carrying his "budget literature" too.

"Don't tell him his desk looks nice!" quipped his secretary, as he very cordially invited us to sit down. He borrowed an extra chair from a fellow legislator in the crowded office, ignored the stack of work on his desk momentarily, and made phone calls and hunted documents on a problem we had brought for his advice.

Unbelievably soon, we had one minute to catch our bus. Charging out of the building and down the steps, we make it - the last two people on our bus.

Suddenly we remembered. Becoming so involved in meeting our legislators, we'd forgotten to take time and visit the Chambers, where the actual legislation voting takes place.

Someday I hope to go see our Capitol building in Harrisburg. I sure hope it doesn't take me as many years to get there the second time as it took me to get there the first.

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. - The Penn State Extension Service has planned a "Workshop For The Home" where design principles of interior decorating and the practical application of these principles in renovating and maintaining the home will be discussed. The Workshop will be held at the Holiday Inn on the Baltimore Pike west of Media, (Route 1) on March 9 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The registration fee of $5 includes lunch.

To register, make a check payable to "Home Economics Workshops" and mail it to Mrs. Greta Vairo, Penn State Extension Service, Toal Building 2nd and Orange Sts., Media, Pa. 19063, along with name, address and phone number. Registration is due by March 1. The public is invited to attend.

At the workshop coordination of furniture design, color, and texture in the home will be taught. Mary Saylor, related arts specialist from Penn State University, will be the guest speaker. Other topics covered will be care of wood furniture, how to hang wallpaper, the core of upholstered furniture, and the selection of furniture and accessories for the home.

PP&L OFFERS YOU A CHOICE OF MONTHLY OR BIMONTHLY BILLING

If you are a PP&L customer and you currently receive your electric bill every two months, you now have the option of receiving a bill every month.

Here's how the plan works:

1. We will continue to read your meter every other month. (To read meters each month would increase costs to all customers.)

2. For those months when we do not read your meter, we will send you a bill based on an estimate of what you have used. This estimate will be made from a history of your previous use level adjusted for expected seasonal variations.

3. If the estimate is higher or lower than the amount you actually used, your usage for the following month will be adjusted automatically, up or down, when we read your meter again.

4. If you elect to receive a monthly bill, the conditions of payment for the monthly bill will be the same as your present bimonthly bill.

5. Should you decide at a later date that monthly billing does not satisfactorily meet your needs, we will return you to the bimonthly billing routine at your request.

Monthly billing will not affect the cost of electricity you use, but it is one way to help you with your monthly budgeting.

If you want to receive a bill each month, just fill in and return the coupon below or give us the same information on the telephone. If you're undecided and want more information, please call PP&L at the number listed in your telephone directory under Pennsylvania Power & Light Company.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

I've always been interested in historical items and I have a good imagination. (Although, sometimes that "good imagination" can get me into trouble).

The nearest village to our farm is a small place called Oregon. It was first settled inn 1717 by a Jacob Bear who built two mills on Carters Creek, now Lititz Creek. The locality was often called "Catfish" from the great abundance of those fish in the creek.

It was a thriving place at one time and contained a post office, hotel, dry-goods store, coach makers shop, shoemaker and blacksmiths shops, two butcher shops, four cigar manufactories, a grist mill and a church. Lately, I've been reading entries made in the Oregon Mill book when it was owned by my great, great grandfather, Benjamin Landis from 1836 to 1844. Then, even as now, some grains purchased in 1840, '41, and '42 were not paid until 1846. And then they were paid with a copper kettle $12, a sow and a boar $16 or five bushel of apples for $1.

A George Weidler hauled three hogsheads of whiskey to Lancaster for $1.87; 18 barrels of flour to Lancaster for $1.80, brought one load of boards from Marietta for five and also delivered two ton of plaster from Conestoga Navigation for $1.50.

One entry which I did't understand - Levi Reist, "Boulting 100 barrels flour $25 on March 22, 1844" - what is Boulting? An inteeresting item was the fact that Isaac Landis paid the $2 bill of "Black John", who got 86 pd. of flour Dec. 18, 1843.

In 1840 one bushel of bran was 15 cents one bushel corn 40 cents, one bushel wheat 1.05, one bushel oats 25 cent and one bushel rye 65 cent. Mostly, the people seemed to come for one, two, or three bushel of grain at a time. Widow Good got three bushel of wheat in May of 1843 and apparently only ever paid 28 cent of her $3 bill in October.

Even though life moved slower in those days, I'm sure it was full of frustrations too.

Plant lovers' corner

RUTGERS, N.J. - Now is a good time to remove the old canes and dead wood from your climber or old-fashion rambler rose bush. The plant is still dormant and it is almost safe to assume that the worst of the winter damage is about over, says Donald B. Lacey, Extension specialist in home horticulture at Cook College, Rutgers University.

If the canes are about an inch in diameter and the plant is six to eight years old or more, remove the canes fairly close to the ground or at least to the point where you find some younger and more productive canes coming out. Brown or dead tips on remaining canes should also be pruned.

The severed ends should be covered with tree wound paint, chewing gum, melted paraffin wax or any sticky substance to prevent rose borers from entering the stems, says Lacey.

After the old canes are removed, train the younger shoots by tying them to a fence or trellis. This will distribute the blooms more attractively as well as anchor them against the strong March winds.

Young climbers planted in the last year or two should not be pruned until they are sturdier and well established, Lacey advises.

Junior Cooking Edition

Snacks are fun to eat - there's no doubt about that. But, they are also fun to make, especially if friends get together to make them. So, for this week's "Junior Cooking Edition," we are featuring snacks that can be made by a group. You can either have all of your brothers and sisters take part, or you can invite your friends over for a snack-making party.

TING-A-LINGS

Ingredients:
1 package semisweet chocolate pieces (1 cup)
1 cup cornflakes
½ cup raisins
½ cup salted peanuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Equipment needed:
double boiler
measuring cups (dry ingredients)
measuring spoons
mixing spoon
rubber scraper teaspoon
cookie sheet

Heat water in bottom of double boiler until boiling and then turn heat down very low. Cover cookie sheet with waxed paper. Put chocolate bits in top of double boiler. Stir until bits are just melted. Remove from heat. Stir in cornflakes, raisins, peanuts, and vanilla. Drop mixture from a teaspoon on waxed paper using a rubber scraper to clean the spoon. Place in refrigerator until firm. This takes about ½ hour. The chocolate clusters should be about 1-½ inches in diameter.

PEANUT BRITTLE

Ingredients needed:
Butter to grease cookie sheet
⅛ teaspoon soda
1 cup roasted peanuts
2 cups sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt

Equipment needed:
Measuring cup (dry ingredients)
measuring spoons
heavy skillet
cookie sheet
waxed paper

Place a small amount of butter on a square of waxed paper and lightly grease cookie sheet. Measure soda and peanuts. Set aside until needed. Put sugar and salt in heavy skillet and place over medium heat. Stir sugar constantly and press out any lumps. When sugar has completely melted, remove skillet from the heat. Add soda and peanuts at once. Stir just enough to mix. You must work quickly or the mixture won't pour out of pan. Pour onto lightly buttered cookie sheet. When cool, break into pieces. This candy should be hard. It should not have a burnt flavor. Makes one pound.

WALNUT PENUCHE

Ingredients needed:
2-½ cups confectioners' sugar
1 cup walnuts, cut up
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup brown sugar
¼ cup milk

Equipment needed:
flour sifter
waxed paper
measuring cups (liquid and dry ingredients) cutting board
sharp knife saucepan
8-inch square pan

Butter the eight-inch square pan very lightly. Sift confectioners' sugar to get rid of lumps. Measure it.Using a cutting board and knife, cut up nuts and measure. Place butter in saucepan and melt slowly over low heat. Stir in brown sugar. Let this mixture boil two minutes, stirring all the time. It will look rather frothy after it boils two minutes. Slowly add milk so mixture doesn't stop boiling. Remove from heat and stir until lukewarm. It is lukewarm when you can put your hand on the bottom of the pan. Add confectioners' sugar slowly and beat mixture until it looks like fudge. Add nuts. Spread in pan and refrigerate until stiff-about † hour. This candy will be soft and rich. Makes 64 one-inch squares.

TIDBITS

Ingredients needed:
1-½ cups bite-sized shredded wheat squares
1-½ cups bite-sized crisp rice squares
1-½ cups crisp doughnut-shaped oat cereal
1 cup nuts, if desired
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
⅛ teaspoon garlic salt
¾ pound butter or margarine
1 small box pretzel sticks

Equipment needed:
Shallow baking pan small saucepan
measuring cups (dry ingredients)
mixing spoon

Turn on oven, set at 250 degrees F. Mix cereals, nuts, and pretzel sticks, and put in large shallow baking pan. Melt butter or margarine with Worcestershire sauce and pour over mixture. Toast in over at 250 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Stir often. Sprinkle with salt and garlic salt, blending well. When cool, store in boxes or cans. Makes six to eight cups.

TANGY TUTTI-FRUTTI PUNCH

Ingredients needed:
¼ cup fresh, frozen, or canned lemon juice
½ cups pineapple juice
1(six-ounce) can frozen orange juice concentrate 2 tablespoons maraschino cherry juice
Ice cubes
1 quart chilled ginger ale
Maraschino cherries

Equipment needed:
can opener
measuring cups (liquid ingredients) large bowl for combining juice large spoon

Combine lemon, pineapple, orange, and maraschino cherry juice in large bowl. Put two or three ice cubes in each glass and fill half full with fruit juice. Finish filling glass with ginger ale. Top with a cherry. If you wish to serve this punch to a large group, you can double or triple the recipe. Makes 12 punch cups or six tall glasses.

PINEAPPLE FIZZ PUNCH

Ingredients needed:
1 quart and 1 pint of un sweetened pineapple juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
4 or 5 drops of Worchestershire sauce
1 egg white
1 large bottle of ginger ale crushed ice

Equipment needed:
large bowl
egg beater

Put all ingredients except ginger ale and ice in bowl. Beat until frothy, about two minutes, with an egg beater. Add chilled ginger ale and ice. Serve at once. Makes 2 four-ounce punch cups.

Virginville Grange

At the February 2 meeting of the Virginville Grange, Wilson Miller was welcomed as a new member. During the business meeting, a motion was made to help the Kutztown Medical Center. It was also annouced that Topton Home is opening a Day Care Center for Elderly people on Mondays through Fridays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. beginning April 1. Noon meals and snacks will be provided to those age 65 and older.

The youth held a Sweetheart Ball on February 11, and the February 1 meeting of the grange included a cherry pie contest. Sixteen members went with the youth to bowl.

CATSUP - A LONG-TIME FAVORITE

Spicy tomato catsup has been a favorite with people all over the globe for centuries. Americans have been making and eating it since the 1700's, when the tomato seed first immigrated from Spain and Cuba. Catsup has always been used extensively in cooking, whether as a condiment or a recipe ingredient.

Most catsup lovers today realize the versatility of catsup, recognizing it as an important ingredient for main dishes as well as a delicious condiment.

The following recipe for Tomato-Beef Bake is an easy-to-fix casserole adding the lively tanginess of Tomato Catsup to the creamy richness of cheeses and sour cream to make a mouth-watering one-dish intree. Whether for family or guests, it will please all.

intree. Whether for family or guests, it will please all.

TOMATO-BEEF BAKE

1½ lbs. ground beef
1 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon salad oil
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 can (16-oz.) stewed tomatoes
1 bottle (14-oz.) catsup
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 package (10 oz.) egg noodles, cooked and drained
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 cup cottage cheese
1 package (8-oz.) cream cheese, softened
1 tablespoon dry parsley
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Parmesan cheese

Brown meat and onion in hot oil; drain off excess fat. Add salt and pepper. Reserve one-third cup liquid from tomatoes. Add tomatoes and catsup to meat mixture. Blend cornstarch and reserved liquid from tomatoes; stir into meat mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Combine sour cream, cottage cheese, cream cheese, parsley aand Worcestershire sauce; mix until well blended.

In buttered 3-quart casserole, layer half of noodles, cheese mixture and remaining noodles, cheese mixture and remaining noodles. Top with meat mixture. Sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Bake at 350 F. 30 minutes. Makes 10 servings.

LAUNDERING THOSE WATER-REPELLENT GARMENTS

If Santa Claus left some garments which are water repellent under your Christmas tree, you will be interested in these tips for laundering to increase the life of the garments:

Put the raincoat through a regular automatic wash cycle with warm to hot water, using a detergent and a water softener if your water isn't soft.

Do not use a fabric softener.

Set the washer for regular rinse and spin cycles.

To get all the soap out, put the coat through the whole wash procedure a scond time, using no detergent.

Tumble at medium to hot temperature until almost dry.

After the first few minutes of drying, throw in a couple of dry, fluffy towels to help prevent abrasion.

Pull coat from the dryer before the tumbling stops and place garment on a hanger smoothing seams with you fingers.

If you do not have access to a dryer, hang the coat on a hanger and when it is almost dry, press with an iron on the wrong side.

Ag chairman challenges to speak up for rights

CAMP HILL, Pa. - "It is not merely your right to speak up - it is your duty - if you would have our democratic way continue to exist," says State Senator Patrick Stapleton, chairman of the State Senate Agriculture Committee.

Senator Stapleton, from Indiana, Pa., addressed the final session of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association's Sweetheart Legislative Conference, February 16 at the Penn Harris Motor Inn. His speech forcused on, "Why You Need To Be Organized."

The Ag Committee Chairman emphasized to the 150 women at the seminar that they must organize across the state to coordinate activities influencing farm legislation. Stapleton urged the women to set up a constant flow of ideas with the elected representatives from their areas.

"The Ag Committee faces between 50 to 100 bills concerning agriculture during its two-year duration each term," explained Stapleton. The imput by farm people into legislators understanding of the impending bills is crucial in helping decide which direction to vote.

He reminded the farm women that Pennsylvania, with 3.5 million farmers, is the largest farm state in the nation. But because of the high industrial concentration in the state's economy, farmers have become very much a minority in the overall - voting numbers.

Because of population shifts across the state, the Senator warned of possible upcoming reapportionment, which will cut down even more on the number of rural area legislators and add greater representation from densly - settled urban areas.

Textile info workshop topic

The Cooperative Extension Service is sponsoring a workshop to provide help in the area of textiles. This workshop will include information on textiles and the textile industry, current legislation affecting textiles and textile products, and textile research methods and problems. This course is primarily designed for home economics teachers, but is open to anyone with a substantial base of knowledge of this commodity. Practical methods of translating the knowledge into educational programs will also be included. Contact Maryetta Duffner, Delaware County Extension home Economist, at the Toal Building, 2nd and Orange Sts. Media, Pa. 19063 or phone for more details about this workshop, LO6 0142.

Recipe Swap

Several weeks ago when we were right in the middle of our severest Winter weather, a contributor asked us for Snow Ice Cream recipes, saying "if we're going to have all this snow, we'd better do something good with it." ' Since we printed the request, Winter has calmed down a little bit, and for a while it actually looked as though Spring was really on its way. But, just last week we had another cold snap, so maybe these snow ice cream recipes can still be put to use. You have a choice of three - pick the one that sounds best and give it a try.

As a reminder for those who may have forgotten, or as information for those who did not know, "Recipe Swap" will be set up in this manner from now on. If you have a request for any recipe, or have a new recipe you simply wish to share, send it to Lancaster Farming Newspaper, care of "Recipe Swap." We will then print the request in this column as well as the replies to that request when they come in.

SNOW ICE CREAM

5 cups clean snow
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 cup sugar

Stir all ingredients together and eat at once. For variation add chocolate bits and mints.

SNOW ICE CREAM

2 eggs
1-½ cups sugar
2 cups milk
3 tablespoons vanilla
Pinch salt

Break two eggs in a medium-sized bowl. Beat with fork until foamy. Blend in sugar, milk, vanilla, and pinch salt. Pack clean snow into texture you desire. Vary this recipe with maple syrup and chocolate.

American Agri-Women set goals,

YORK, Pa. - Two York County women have been chosen to serve on the American Agri - Women Goals Setting and Tending Committee.

Jane Alexander, Dillsburg, Pennsylvania Deputy Secretary of Agriculture, and Gail McPherson, New Park R1, have helped establish the "areas of concern" adopted by the A.A.W. to direct the goals of the organization. The statement follows:

Realizing that food is a global concern, we accept the responsibilities to support American agriculture and the family farm. Toward this goal we propose the following areas of concern:

POLITICAL ACTION

--To assert agri-power through cooperation instead of competition in formulation of the 1977 Farm Bill.
--To coordinate and improve methods of transportation and distribution of agricultural products.
--To support efforts of Trade Reform Act '74 to require imported foods to meet the same U.S. quality standards as required of domestic foods.
--To support the Capper - Volstead Act which enables farmers to maintain individual bargaining power through cooperatives and associations to ensure the continuation of the democratic process.
--To continue our efforts for more equitable and fair laws regarding inheritance taxes.
--To monitor land use planning at all levels.
--To involve qualified women for agriculture in decision-making positions at all local, state, and federal levels.
--To insist that agriculture be a priority user of energy; and to encourage development of practical energy conservation programs and policies.
--EPA: To combat environmental scare tactics by using scientific rather than emotional input.
--To firm up the rights of users under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, Rodenticide Act as amended in 1972.
--To require EPA to allow public access to government information and research findings.
--To extend federal indemnityprograms for loss of agricultural products from the inadvertent use of chemical contaminants.
--OSHA: To apply the constitutional right of "innocent until proven guilty" to recipients of regulatory agency citations.
--To support amendments to unemployment laws which will be cognizant of the seasonal nature of agricultural work.

EDUCATION

--To improve, supplement, and update all segments of the educational system relevant to agriculture.
--To monitor food research programs.
--To dispel the myths surrounding agricultural labor, including wages, workin gconditions, housing, benefits, employee-employer relations.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

--To create public acceptance that farming is a business that must make a profit to survive.
--To allay to fear and concerns of the public regarding agricultural chemicals.

My Thoughts

And welcome to them

By JOANNE SPAHR

I get some interesting comments on "My Thoughts" from time to time. They range anywhere from compliments to good natured teasing to other peoples' versions of the same type of events that happen to me. For instance, last week a Lancaster Farming subscriber, as well as personal acquaintance of mine, told me a story about her Siamese housecat. She'd read the story I wrote on how we pamper ours, and she had a cute story of her own to tell.

She said that her daughter had always wanted a Siamese, but that it had never been feasible since the daughter was in school all day, and since she (the mother) was a school teacher, and her husband a full-time farmer. Therefore, no one would have been in the house to take proper care of the cat during the day. This fact, however, never daunted the daughter's spirits because one day she asked her mother, again, to have a Siamese.

"You know we can't," her mother explained patiently, "because I'm teaching and there is no one during the day to take care of it." Without batting an eyelash, the daughter came up with the solution to the whole problem. "You could quit teaching, you know" she said with a smile. Yes, it seems all Siamese cat lovers are the same - crazy.

This family, by the way, does have a Siamese cat, now. And, whether the mother quit teaching to take care of it or not is something that shall always remain a mystery, because, to tell the truth, I was afraid the answer might confirm my suspicions that we Siamese lovers really are crazy.

Valley Grange to hear talk on Penna. legislative trends

LEWISBERRY, Pa. - Two state legislators - Senator John D. Hopper and Representative Eugene R. Geesey - will discuss legislative trends and issues in Pennsylvania at an open meeting of Valley Grange No. 1360 of Lewisberry Monday, February 28. The meeting will be held at the Grange hall in Lewisberry at 7:30 p.m.

David M. Scott, master of Valley Grange, said the meeting will be open to all residents of the area and urged them to attend to hear "this pertinent discussion of current issues that are of importance to everyone." A question and answer period will follow the presentations of the legislators, he said.

Both Hopper and Geesey represent districts that comprise portions of York and Cumberland counties.

Making Sure

A tough top sergeant glared at the rookie recruit and shouted, "What's the first thing you do when you clean a rifle?" "Look at the serial number," was the meek reply. "Why do you do that," demanded the sergeant. "To make sure I'm cleaning my own rifle," the recruit explained.

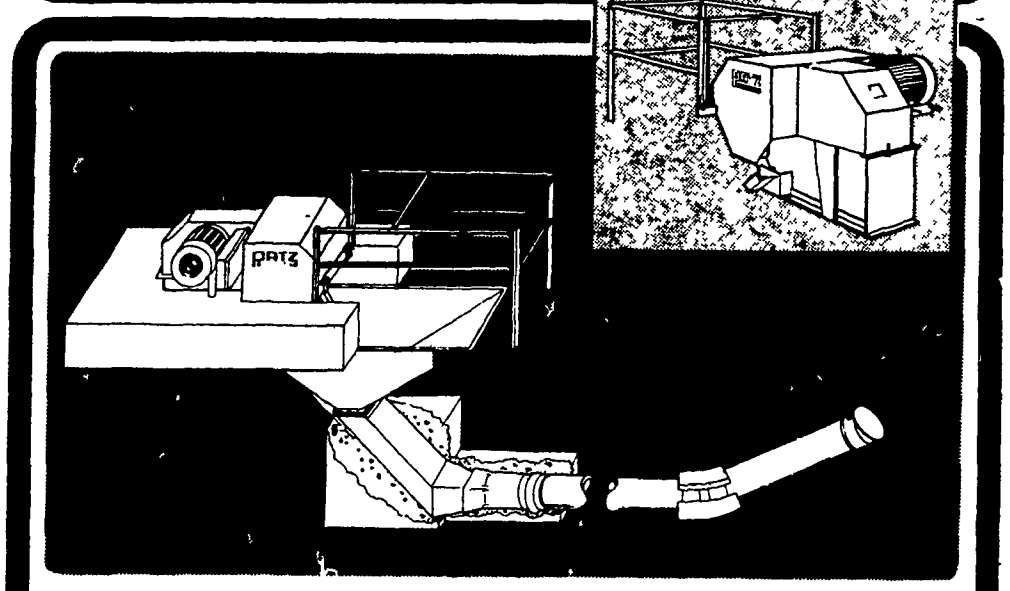
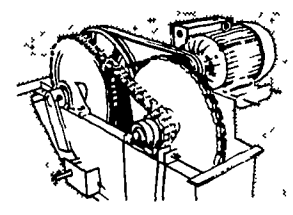
the all new PATZ slurry manure pump

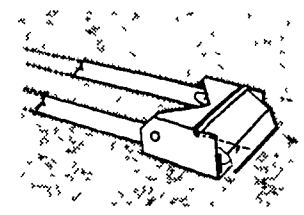


The Patz Slurry Manure Pump provides the ultimate solution to the moving of slurry liquid manure from dairy, beef, hogs or poultry installations to manure storage facilities.

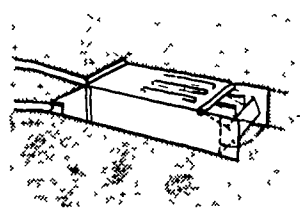
The new Patz Slurry Pump can move slurry and liquids up to 150 feet. The manure is supplied to an underground hopper with a gutter cleaner or scraper and is forced into a 12 inch P.V.C. pipe by means of an 8 inch by 15 inch plunger.



The Patz exclusive roller chain drive unit drives the plunger at a rate of 21 strokes per minute.



The 8 inch by 15 inch plunger forces the manure through a PVC pipe to storage facility.



Plunger sleeve can be removed from sleeve chamber for servicing without breaking out concrete.

Plant Saranac AR alfalfa and forget about it.

When anthracnose hits a field, ordinary alfalfas fold up and fade away. In the same field, Saranac AR keeps coming on strong to produce the kind of yields farmers expect from an alfalfa named Saranac.

And when it comes to bacterial wilt and hard winters, Saranac AR doesn't give up a thing. Highly wilt-resistant. Able to take the toughest winters. It's the strongest growing alfalfa you can plant.

Saranac AR. The right one wherever anthracnose threatens the ordinary alfalfas. Bred for your kind of land. Bred to meet your seven and eight ton objectives.

For more information on this outstanding alfalfa that resists anthracnose and keeps coming back strong, see your dealer:

Salads liven up 'tired' Winter menus

By JOANNE SPAHR

LANCASTER, Pa. - "If you're like me, you get the doldrums around this time of year, and get tired of planning the same menus," said Doris Thomas, Lancaster County Extension home economist, last week. Mrs. Thomas was speaking as a guest lecturer when Lancaster County Farm Women Socieyy 18 entertained Lancaster County Farm Women Society 6 at the Farm and Home Center last Saturday.

Heidi Murphy, the daughter of RoseAnn Murphy, Donegal Springs Road, found the salads Mrs. Thomas prepared to be so good that she couldn't resist eating them straight from the bowl.

To remedy her problem of "tired" menus, Mrs. Thomas says she starts searching through cookbooks to come up with new ideas. And, one way to brighten up and change a Winter meal is to serve new salad ideas.

"Salads are an excellent way to get our required servings of fruits and vegetables," she said. They are also a good medium in which to comouflage dairy products for those milk haters in the family.

During the afternoon's program, Mrs. Thomas explained that salads can be prepared in four different forms-as appetisers, or those that stimulate the appetite; as "main dish" salads, or those which contain protein foods; "accompaniment salads," or those that accompany a main meal; and "dessert salads."

"Salads are not difficult to make," she asserted, "but, they are time consuming and take tender loving care when you are working with them." According to her, nothing can look so tired so fast as a fresh green salad.

To help the women combat the problem of wilting green salads, Mrs. Thomas gave some pointers. A very important step in preparing this dish, she explained, is to buy high quality produce. And, onece the produce reaches you kitchen, it should be washed off immediately.

"Usually, we are in too much of a hurry to wash them off, but it's very important," she remarked.

She also pointed out to the group that greens should never be cut - instead, they should be broken into pieces to avoid bruising them. And, salad dressing should never be put on a green or tosssed salad until just before eating. Also, when tossing a salad, it is necessary to take special care not to bruise the greens.

There are also a few tricks in getting added nutritive value out of a green salad. One is using raw spinach in stead of lettuce whenever possible.

"Spinach is better than lettuce because it contributes Vitamin A to our diets. We need to have Vitamin A every other day because it can be stored for a short time," she said. Vitamin A is gotten from dark green leafy vegetables and those deep yellow in color.

Doris Thomas tosses a salad she prepared while speaking to two Farm Women groups on the subject of salads. The ladies later enjoyed the prepared dishes as refreshments.

Salads

"Now, I'm not talking about peas, lima beans, or corn," she went on to explain. "I said dark green leafy vegetables.

"So, we need to think about eating kale, mustard greens, and dandelion," she remarked. Other Vitamin A sources are red grapefruit, melons, and strawberries. These foods, however, are not as high in the nutrient as the others mentioned.

Mrs. Thomas did caution the group, however, about the current prices of greens.

"For those of you who haven't pruchased the ingredients that go into salads in the past few months, you are in for a shock," she remarked. With cabbage over $1 a head, tomatoes at $1 per pound, and lettuce at 49 cents for a tiny head, salads are not as inexpensive as they once were. When Summer rolls around, however, they will return to their normal prices.

Salads can make an appetising buffet table.

SALAD IDEAS

The first salad Mrs. Thomas demonstrated for the group was a Caesar Salad. A Caesar Salad is made with most of the same ingredients as a Chef's Salad except that the meat and cheese in the Chef's Salad are omitted and croutons and salad dressing are added. This salad is not usually served, since the custom is for the Chef to come to the table to make it for the patron of the restaurant. It is considered a main dish salad since it contains three hardcooked eggs, or protein food. Again, when preparing this type of salad, Mrs. Thomas reminds that during tossing the salad can be damaged very easily, so great care should be taken when tossing not to bruise the greens.

The recipe that Mrs. Thomas shared with the group is as follows:

CHEF'S SALAD

1 clove garlic if desired
4 cups (1 pound) fresh spinach
½ pound (about 2 cups) lettuce
1 cup cherry tomatoes or 2 medium tomatoes
3 hard-cooked eggs
Onion rings if desired

Rub salad bowl with cut clove of garlic. Wash and drain spinach, lettuce, and tomatoes. Blot dry. Tear rib from spinach leaves. Break greens into bite-size pieces. Cut eggs into quarters. Cut tomatoes into eighths then cut eighths into half crosswise. Save a few pieces of tomato for garnish.

Put all ingredients, except onion rings and dressing, into salad bowl. Just before serving, toss lightly with dressing. Garnish with meat, cheese, tomato, and onion rings. Makes 6 servings

Croutons:

Cut two slices of bread into five strips each way. Brown in one tablespoon fat seasoned with garlic, or spread stale bread slices with seasoned, softened butter. Cut into cubes and toast.

CAESAR SALAD DRESSING

one-third cup salad oil
1 clove garlic (remove garlic clove before serving)
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
1 egg (at room temperature)
Juice of 1 lemon
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
5 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Peel and slice garlic. Stir in salad oil and vinegar. Shake well. Beat in raw egg and add other ingredients. Shake and let stand several hours, then remove garlic pieces. Just before serving, sprinkle dressing over salad ingredients and toss lightly. Top with croutons. Makes one cup. Suggested Menu: Caesar Salad, hamburger, ice cream, beverage.

Another recipe Mrs. Thomas shared was "Coleslaw with Cheese Dressing." This is an accompaniment salad and closely resembles cole slaw except that the dressing has cream-style cottage cheese and cheddar cheese in it. The recipe follows.

COLESLAW WITH CHEESE DRESSING

¾ cup cream-style cottage cheese
½ cup grated Cheddar cheese
½ cup salad dressing
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 teaspoons sugar
1 teaspoon instant onion if desired
4 cups crisp shredded cabbage
1 green pepper, chopped
1 cup shredded raw carrots
1 medium apple, skin on, diced
⅛ teaspoon salt

Put cheeses, salad dressing, vinegar, sugar, instant onion, and salt in a bowl. Mix well. If thick, add milk by the tablespoonful. Mix vegetables and fruit. Just before serving, toss lightly with dressing. Makes six servings.

Nutrients:

A serving meets about half the day's need for vitamins A and C.

Variations:

Substitute for carrots, one orange cut into chunks, slices, or sections.
Omit carrots and add a half cantaloupe cut into cubes.
Add one cup peanuts.
Substitute one cup shredded red cabbage for one cup cabbage in recipe.
Top slaw with green pepper rings.

Suggested Menu:

Broiled liver, green peas, coleslaw, lemon pudding, beverage.

A favorite molded salad of Mrs. Thomas's is "Golden Treasure Salad." This is the salad in which the homemaker is able to camouflage the milk ingredients to sneak the nutrients from this food group into the milk-hater. Golden Treasure is a rich salad, and can be used as either an accompaniment salad or as a dessert salad. Because of its richness, Mrs. Thomas suggests that it be used as a dessert.

GOLDEN TREASURE MOLDED SALAD

1 (3-ounce) package lemon-flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 (6-ounce) can frozen orange juice concentrated
2 oranges or an 11-ounce can mandarin oranges
1 medium apple, unpared, diced
2 tablespoons minced mint leaves if desired
½ cup chopped nuts or peanuts
2 cups cream-style cottage cheese.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. If using mandarin oranges, drain and add enough water to juice to make one cup. Heat the liquid and use to dissolve gelatin. Stir in orange juice concentrate. Chill until thick.

Peel and cut oranges into slices, sections, or chunks. Add apple cut into half-inch cubes, mint, and nuts. Whip cottage cheese or blend in blender until smooth. Add chilled gelatin and mix well. Fold in remaining ingredients. Turn into a one-quart mold or pan. Chill four hours or longer. Serve on bed of lettuce. Garnish with orange pieces, mint leaves, or nuts. Makes eight servings.

The Lancaster County home economist also explained how to make "Polka Dot Salad."

POLKA DOT SALAD

1 (1-pound can) (2 cups) pitted Bing cherries
One-third cup lemon juice
1 package black cherry jello
½ cup seedless grapes (or Tokay)
½ cup chopped pecans
1 cup crushed pineapple
1 (3-oz.) package cream cheese

Drain cherries, reserving syrup. Combine cherry syrup and lemon juice; add pineapple juice to make 1-¾ cups juice. Heat and pour over jello, stirring to dissolve. Chill till partially

Families return to natural methods of childbirth

By JOANNE SPAHR

Editor's note: Conscious Cooperative Childbirth, otherwise known to the layman as natural childbirth, is fast gaining in popularity. It has become such a topic of interest and concern that television shows have used it as a base for stories, and movies have been centered around the life of childbirth coaches. Lancaster Farming heard of such a childbirth coach in a rural area of Lancaster County and was interested in hearing her story. She consented to tell her experiences because she feels that it is her mission in life, and she is more than willing to inform women on an easier and better way to have their babies.

MANHEIM, Pa. - "Ever since I was a child on the farm, I have had a very natural feeling about childbirth," says Mrs. Henry Blank, Manheim R2. "I

AGRI-KING
KEY TO PROFIT

GROSS INCOME — NET PROFIT IS THERE A DIFFERENCE?

Yes, and it is very important to know the difference.

It is not nearly as important to know how much a ton of feed costs as it is to know the profit per cow per day over total feed cost, because that is what you have left to take to the bank.

Many farmers today have been tricked into buying something without even knowing if they need it. There is only one way to get the most profit per head of livestock and that is to test what you feed and feed accordingly. With today's rising feed costs the dairyman cannot afford to feed by guesswork any longer. He must know what is in his silage, hay and grain and make the grain ration according to these tests, properly balancing the protein & energy, calcium & phosphorus, vitamins & trace minerals, so that they meet the requirements of today's cow with high levels of production.

If you would like to know more about the Agri-King way of feeding cows, please contact your nearest serviceman or wirte to George DeLong, 225w. Woods Drive, Lititz, Pa. 17543.

figured that if animals could have their babies without the aid of man, why must women be surrounded by doctors in a hospital with all that added commotion?"

So, she decided that when she had her first baby, she would have it at home without the aid of a doctor. But, in 1966 when she was pregnant with the first of her four children, Deborah Ann, she changed her tune just a bit.

"I just wasn't as bold as I thought," she says with a twinkle in her eye and a sheepish, self-teasing grin on her face. "Then, I thought, 'Well, maybe I ought to have a doctor here,' but I still wanted to have natural childbirth." So, she set about finding out how to do it.

This was no easy task for Mrs. Blank because the accepted method of childbirth at that time was to use anesthetics and to be in a hospital. Also, there were almost no books on this method to be found anywhere.

"I searched and searched for books and came up with only one," she says. That book was the Lamaze method of natural childbirth which she teaches today in a modified form.

Her decision was also hard to carry out because she was virtually unsupported by anyone except her husband and by her doctor who agreed to try any method she desired, even though he had never done it before.

So, using her reference book, she practiced all the exercises called for and had her baby at home.

"It was a good delivery," she recalls, "But it wasn't excellent." She says that she was in control the whole time, but at the very last point before the baby was ready to be born (transition) she fought the natural muscular contractions and dilations of her body and made it harder on herself.

"I feel that this was because the book I read wasn't totally complete in its teaching," she points out. This book did not stress the importance of practicing relaxation, the part of natural childbirth which Mrs. Blank now emphasizes the most in her courses. As a result of the incomplete instructions, she was not fully prepared for the effects of labor.

"I did enjoy the birth, though," she says, and she continued in her desire to have her children born at home.

For her second birth, she was armed with books that a friend from Philadelphia had sent her, and she had faithfully practiced her exercises and relaxation. She also found out about a nurse who was trained in nautral childbirth and who was going to start teaching at St. Joseph's Hospital in Lancaster. So, Mrs. Blank got in contact with the nurse who then had a private session with the Blanks on the Modified Lamaze method.

As a result of all her preparation, the birth of Marcus, who is now nine years old, was a painless, two-and-a-half hour delivery.

"It was perfect, and so beautiful." Mrs. Blank beams, remembering her experience. "I recall wishing I could show other people how wonderful it was." She gives a lot of credit to her doctor, who followed her every wish, and her husband, who was an excellent coaching partner. She also points out that she has a good build for bearing children, which was a definite asset in helping her birth be painless.

After the delivery was over, her doctor was so impressed, that he teasingly said, "We'll have to sign you up to give childbirth training courses." And, today, that's exactly what Anna Mary Blank is doing - teaching others the joys and citement of Conscious Cooperative Childbirth. Her pupils come from all over to her home in Manheim, which she and her husband have willingly converted into a small classroom that can house 20 couples at a time for the training she offers.

"We took the sewing room and the living room and converted them into a classroom,;' she explains. Her former dining room now serves as both dining room and living room.

Her pupils come from neighboring counties, and she is even known in other states. She also teaches in the community of Intercourse, Pa., where most of her pupils are Amish. Here, she rents meeting space which can seat as many as 60 people. She says her new space in Intercourse is good also, because it has good lighting to show her charts, birth atlas, and other teaching aids she uses to get her subject across to those participating.

Exactly what is her subject - conscious Cooperative Childbirth?

Conscious Cooperative Childbirth as described by Mrs. Blank is a method of childbirth in which the mother is conscious during labor and delivery, and cooperates with her body and with the doctor to give birth. The husband has an active roll as coach and comforter during labor and delivery, and together, as partners, the two parents help to bring the baby into the world. Medication may or may not be used, depending on the need.

Preparing the mother's body is a major part of this method of childbirth.

"I stress over and over again, the importance of practicing breathing and relaxation," says Mrs. Blank. "The important thing is that they must not fight pain, but must teach themselves to relax during it." When the mother fights, and curls up in a ball in reaction to the pain, she works against the muscular contractions and dilations, therefore prolonging labor and increasing the pain for herself. Instead of curling up, she must go limp, and only by training can she learn to do this.

There are approximately 10 different exercises to limber the mother's muscles. "I call them the exercises which prepare the three B's - the belly, the back, and the bottom," says Mrs. Blank. These exercises take out some of the stiffness of disuse from the muscles to make delivery and recovery after the delivery much easier.

To emphasize her point, she gives the example of a woman who gave birth in a doctor's office and was on her way home in less than an hour after delivery.

"She told me she felt so perky that she went home and worked in her office for a while," Mrs. Blank remarked in near amazement. This was an unusual case, and one which she feels might have been a bit hurried, but it nevertheless underscores the fact that many times women recover quickly with this method of birth.

Breathing exercises are also part of the program.

"Concentrating on their breathing keeps their minds off the actual physical pain, and helps them to keep things under control," Mrs. Blank explains. Human beings can normally focus on only one thing, so concentrating on breathing helps the mothers psychologically dull the pain.

Besides the various exercises Mrs. Blank teaches in her series, she also includes prenatal education.

"I feel that confidence is gained from childbirth education, which helps to alleviate fear and tension, and this helps to alleviate pain," she explains.

"Depending on the woman, there may be pain - we don't lead parents to expect a painless labor, nor one necessarily conducted without drugs or medication if necessary," she explains. She does point out, however, that it has been discovered that there is less need, often no need, for drugs when a woman is prepared and supported.

"It's also better for the babies when the mothers don't have to take drugs," she says. Babies born to mothers without anesthetics are so alert and perky," she explains with enthusiasm showing on her face. "Just the other day I assisted a doctor with a birth and when I wrapped the baby in the blanket, he turned his head and just looked all around. He was so cute," she emphasized. In comparison, she says babies born to mothers under anesthesia are more sluggish, and many times blue in color. Usually, babies born with natural childbirth are pink, unless there has been some type of complication.

Another bonus to Conscious Cooperative Childbirth is a special tie which is established between the parents and the child.

"Now, you have to be careful about saying that parents who go through natural childbirth love their children more - that's not really true - but, there is a special bond that they feel for that child because they have worked together, and as a team have shared in the birth of that child." The manifestations of this special tie are many, but they are often times small which only the mother notices. Yet, they are nevertheless there. For instance, Mrs. Blank says that mothers will write to her saying, "My husband just looks at him more than he did the other children." Or, sometimes the husband will help with diapering when he had never done that with the other babies.

Conscious co-operative Childbirth also takes away any suppressed guilt a husband or child might feel knowing that they caused the mother pain.

"When you've gone through this method, your attitude and expressions with your children make

Church group slates farm issues forum

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa. - Current issues affecting farming will be discussed next month at an "Affirmation of Farming Event" to be held at the Laurelville Mennonite Church Center, near here. The program is sponsored by the church group and will be in progress for three days.

Registration begins at 5 p.m. on March 11. At 6:30 p.m. supper will be served and an hour later it's "get acquainted time." Participants are asked to bring a set of six to 12 slide photographs to introduce their farming operations.

The week-end retreat is billed as providing farmers from many areas the opportunity to share concerns and issues related to agriculture. Specific topics will include: land use, corporation and partnership models, estate planning in terms of new tax laws, and how the new administration in Washington is likely to affect farming. The group will also look at the increasingly important role of the farmer as world population increases.

Resource persons to lead discussions on the above topics include Hubert Schwartzentruber, Delton Franz, Orlandl Gingerich, Dwight Stoltzfus, Dieter Krieg, and Arnold Cressman.

Aside from the above topics, those in attendance are encouraged to bring up agenda items of their own.

The Laurelville Mennonite Church Center is both a program amd a place. It gives itself to the needs of persons and groups of all denominations and backgrounds. It is open all year, changing with the seasons in the beautiful Laurel Highlands of western Pennsylvania. It offers a wide variety of options in facilities, food, service, worship experiences, and program choices for young and old, for small groups and large.

Farmers interested in attending the program should contact the Laurelville Mennonite Church Center, Route 5, Box 145, Mount Pleasant, Pa. 15666. The phone number is 412-423-2056. The registration fee for the program is $8 per person.

Lamb club holds meeting

YORK, Pa. - A tentative schedule for the York Fair sheep show was drawn up at the February meeting of the York County 4-H Lamb Club. The group met at the 4-H Center near Bair, Pa.

Mac McGuigan, a dealer of a nationally known brand of feed, showed a filmstrip on sheep. He also gave away a few door prizes.

The next meeting of the group will be on March 3. Docking and castrating of lambs will be the main topic.

them know that having them was a beautiful experience," Mrs. Blank says. "And, it is - it may be the most beautiful experience of a couple's life."

Also, when the husband works with the wife in the classes, he learns to understand her moods and why she reacts to situations in the manner in which she does. "Sometimes he can even make a joke out of it," Mrs. Blank says.

In her series of classes, the fathers are required to come to three evening sessions with their wives. Mrs. Blank also holds a fourth half-day session just for the mothers in which they practice exercises together and have a simulated labor. This exercise meeting is optional, and as long as the couple comes to three consecutive meetings, they receive a certificate for completing the course. If the women choose to have their babies in the hospital, Mrs. Blank also makes sure they have a tour of the maternity ward. And, if the pupils wish, there is a film on childbirth available at the hospital for them to see.

Amazingly enough, increasingly more couples are preferring to not have their children in hospitals, but are having their deliveries at home or in the doctor's office. One doctor in the area makes Mrs. Blank's course mandatory if his patients are going to deliver in his office. She also gets referrals from several other doctors which have heard of her through their patients.

"At first I wasn't sure if I could teach without being a registered nurse, but I have taken childbirth courses in the many hospitals in the area, and I am a member of the International Childbirth Education Association," she says. She's also supported by doctors and nurses. It seems that more and more doctors hear about her all the time and send their patients to her.

Often times her pupils are really appreciative of her classes because they are Christian oriented and personal. She also has an obvious enthusiasm in helping mothers learn this rewarding method of giving birth to their children. The joy she finds in the miracle of birth is seemingly boundless.

"If I could, I'd have 20 babies!" she says with a delighted laugh, again amused at her own overzealousness. When a down-to-earth woman makes a statement of that magnitude it shows how highly she regards the experience of childbirth - a feeling which can't help but be transmitted to those she teaches.

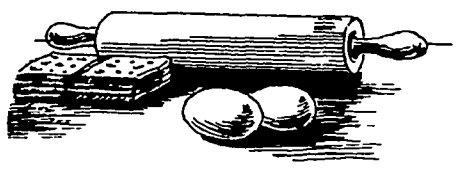
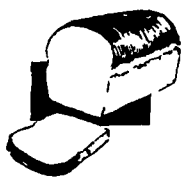
Home on The Range





Next week begins our new program of recipe themes. We hope you enjoy them and help to participate. We've received a few recipes in response to the themes announced, but our files really need to be stocked up. So, if you have a recipe that fits any category, write it down and send it to Lancaster Farming Newspaper, "Home on the Range," Box 266, Lititz, Pa. As a small "Thank you," for your efforts we send out pot holders with our name printed on them, so be sure to include your address and phone number on each recipe or sheet of recipes you send to us.

For a reference as to what themes are coming up in the next few weeks, check the theme calendar that will be printed in the women's section of the paper from now on.

This week we are featuring recipes supplied to us by the Lancaster County Poultry Association and two supplied by the Pennsylvania Egg Marketing Association. The omelets were sent to us by the Lancaster County Poultry Association, and the last two recipes, "Golden Egg," and "An Oldie but a Goodie," are from the Egg Marketing Association. The Egg Marketing Association is encouraging the restaurants in Pennsylvania to use the golden egg on their menus and as edible centerpieces for banquets. Because they turn a golden color, they are excellent ingredients for an edible centerpiece also using red beet eggs.

QUICK AND EASY OMELET

3 eggs
3 tablespoons water
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 slices bacon, cooked and drained
1 tablespoon bacon drippings
½ tomato, thinly sliced
3 tablespoons sour cream onion dip

Mix eggs, water, and pepper with a fork. Heat one tablespoon bacon drippings in a 9-inch skillet or omelet pan until it just sizzles a drop of water. Pour in egg mixture. Mixture should set at edges at once. With a spatula or fork, carefully draw cooked portions at edges toward center, so that the uncooked portions flow to the bottom. Slide pan rapidly back and forth over the heat to keep mixture in motion and sliding freely. Keep mixture as level as possible. When eggs are set and surface is still moist increase heat to brown bottom quickly. Remove from heat; place the tomato slices on half of omelet. Spread onion dip on top of tomatoes. Place bacon on top of onion dip. Fold other half of omelet over all and turn out on serving dish. Makes two servings.

HERB OMELET

3 eggs
3 tablespoons water
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon basil, thyme, oregano or parsley flakes
1 tablespoon butter

Mix eggs, water, salt, pepper, and desired herb with a fork. Heat butter in skillet or omelet pan (approx. 8-inch) just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour in egg mixture. It should set at edges at once. Reduce heat slightly but cook eggs quickly. With a spatula or fork carefully draw cooked portion at edges toward center, so that the uncooked portions flow to the bottom. Tilt skillet as it is necessary to hasten flow of uncooked eggs. Shake skillet to keep omelet sliding freely. Keep mixture as level as possible. When eggs are set and surface is still moist, increase heat to brown bottom quickly. Roll or fold omelet and slide onto serving plate. Makes one or two servings.

PEACHES AND CREAM OMELET

2 eggs
2 tablespoons water
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter
½ cup dairy sour cream
½ cup sliced cling peaches, well drained

Mix eggs, water, and salt with a fork. Heat butter in omelet pan or skillet (approx. 8-inch) just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour in egg mixture. Mixture should set at edges at once. With a spatula or fork, carefully draw cooked portions at edges toward center, so that the uncooked portion flows to the bottom. Slide pan rapidly back and forth over heat to keep mixture in motion and sliding freely. When eggs are set and surface is still moist, increase heat to brown bottom quickly. To serve: Spread half of sour cream on omelet. Place approximately one-third cup peach slices on omelet. Fold in half. Spread remaining sour cream on top. Garnish with a few peaches. Makes one serving.

PRINCESS OMELET

1 package (3 oz) cream cheese, cut into ¼-inch cubes
¾ cup drained cooked vegetable (chopped broccoli, cut asparagus or peas)
4 eggs
¼ cup dairy sour cream
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon butter

Prepare cream cheese and vegetable before preparing omelet; set aside. Combine eggs, sour cream, onion, salt and cayenne; beat well. Heat butter in 10-inch omelet pan or skillet until just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour in egg mixture; mixture should set at edges at once. With pancake turner carefully draw cooked portions at edges toward center, so uncooked portions flow to bottom. Tilt skillet as it is necessary to hasten flow of uncooked eggs. Slide pan rapidly back and forth over heat to keep mixture in motion and sliding back and forth over heat to keep mixture in motion and sliding freely. While top is still moist and creamy-looking, place cream cheese cubes and vegetable on half of omelet. With pancake turner fold in half or roll, turning out onto warm serving dish. Serve immediately. Makes two servings.

NOODLE OMELET

4 oz. (1½ cups) noodles
2 tablespoons chopped onion
3 tablespoons butter, margarine or oil
3 eggs
2 tablespoons water
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cook noodles according to package directions. Drain well. Cook onion in butter or margarine until soft but not brown. Add noodles and blend. Blend eggs, water, salt, and pepper with fork. Mix well but do not beat frothy; pour over noodles in skillet. Cook rapidly, lifting mixture with fork, at the same time tipping skillet to let uncooked mixture flow to bottom of skillet. Keep mixture as level as possible. Shake skillet while cooking to be sure mixture is not sticking at any point. When mixture no longer flows, reduce heat for a minute to "set" the omelet and brown the bottom. Fold in half. Serve with crisp chicken

MUSHROOM-CHEESE OMELET

1 tablespoon butter, margarine or oil
¼ pound process American cheese, diced
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 eggs, separated
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons butter, margarine or oil

While mixing omelet ingredients, heat one tablespoon butter or margarine in covered 10-inch electric skillet with temperature control set at 320 degrees F. Heat cheese and milk in saucepan over low heat until cheese is melted and free of lumps, stirring constantly. Add pepper to yolks and beat until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually pour cheese sauce into yolks, stirring constantly. Add salt to whites and beat until stiff but not dry. Fold yolk mixture into whites, gently but thoroughly. Tip skillet to spread butter evenly over bottom; pour in omelet mixture, level surface gently and cover. Reduce heat to 240 degrees F and cook until surface is "dry" (touch lightly with fingertip) and knife inserted in center comes out clean, about 20 minutes. Meanwhile cook sliced mushrooms in butter about five minutes and spoon over the omelet. Fold and serve immediately. Makes three to four servings.

PUFFY OMELET

4 eggs, separated
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup water
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon butter, margarine or oil

Add salt and water to egg whites. Beat until stiff and shiny and whites leave peaks when beater is withdrawn. Add pepper to yolks and beat until thick and lemon-colored. Fold yolks into egg whites. Meanwhile heat butter, margarine or oil in large skillet with heat-proof handle (10-inch diameter) until just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour in omelet mixture. Reduce heat. Level surface gently. Cook slowly until puffy and lightly browned on bottom, about five minutes. Lift omelet gently at edge to judge color. Place in a slow oven (325 degrees F). Bake until knife inserted into center comes out clean, 12 to 15 minutes. To serve: tear gently, using two forks, into pie-shaped pieces. Invert "wedges" on serving plate so that browned bottom becomes the top. Or omelet may be folded in half. Makes two to three servings.

10-MINUTE OMELET

4 eggs separated
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon softened butter or margarine
1 tablespoon water

Beat egg whites with salt until stiff but not dry. Beat egg yolks with pepper, flour, butter or margarine and water until fluffy. Fold beaten yolks into beaten whites. Pour into well-greased 8 or 9-inch skillet heated until a drop of water sizzles. Cover tightly. Reduce heat to low and cook eight to ten minutes on top of range until surface of omelet is "dry" when touched lightly with fingertip. Fold in half and serve promptly. Makes two to three servings.

THE GOLDEN EGG

Hard boil about 8 to 10 eggs and peel
3 tablespoons yellow mustard
Two-thirds cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup water

Put all ingredients, except eggs, in sauce pan. Stir and heat over stove. Add eggs and liquid together and put in storage container to refrigerate. Let stand 24 hours.

OLDIE BUT A GOODIE

1 slice of bread
1 teaspoon butter

Place butter in skillet. Take the slice of bread and cut a hole in center and break egg into the hole. Fry egg and bread until done then turn over and fry other side lightly.

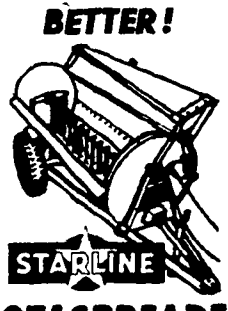
SPREADS ANY MANURE BETTER!



ROTASPREADER
• No manure trails
• Ends freeze-ups
• Choice of manual or hydraulic lid opener

Starline Rotaspreader spreads any manure from liquids to frozen solids. Liquid-tight body keeps mess off loading area and drives. Smashing chain flails shred and spread frozen or hard-packed manure in swaths up to 20-feet wide at any desired density. No aprons, chains or beaters to break or adjust. Galvanized body resists manure acids.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Co. Society 7

Berks County Farm Women Society 7 met recently at the home of Mrs. Scott Wrowe, Bernville. Ten members were present to accept Mrs. John Blatt as a new member.

The Society is planning to have a men's night on March 25 to be held at the Tulpehocken UCC Church. Merritt Freeman is scheduled as the speaker for the evening.

Lancaster Co. Society 3

The Lancaster County Society of Farm Women 3 met on February 19 at the home of Mrs. Alice Trumbaurer, Pleasant View Drive, Ephrata.

The business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. John Edwards.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hess and Mrs. Barbara Wenger will serve at the snack bar of the Ephrata Community Hospital. Members serve as volunteers at the snack bar the fourth Wednesday of each month.

A contribution of $500 was given to the Radio-Thon sponsored by the Ephrata Radio Station to raise funds for the new Ephrata Recreation Center.

The program of the day was a safety meeting conducted by Fire Chief Donald Stauffer from the Denver Fire Company. He spoke on fire safety in the home and answered questions on the most effective type of fire extinguishers for home use.

March 16 will be sewing day for the Cancer Society of Lancaster County. Sewing will be taken charge of by Mrs. Eileen Miller and will be held at the St. Johns Lutheran Church, Brickerville, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The next meeting will be held at the Salem Lutheran Church, Ephrata. Mrs. Harry Usner will be the hostess. The program will be a demonstration on Ukranian Eggs by Mrs. David Fyuck.

Lancaster Co. Society 8

Lancaster County Farm Women Society 8 saw slides of Germany at their recent meeting February 19th in the home of Patsy Warfel, West Main St., Mt. Joy. Fay Stoner of 1051 Eden Road, Lancaster, an International 4-H Youth Exchange student had the priviledge of living with seven German farm families from mid-June to December of last year. She learned the way of life near Denmark in the North, only three miles from the ocean.

The meeting was taken charge of by Mrs. Kathryn Heisey, newly elected president of the Society. Anna Mae Eby led in the singing. Twenty-eight members attended. Lillian Eby reported that seven members had been to the County Home in December. Mrs. Agnes Houseal and Margaret Heisey gave a condensed report of activities at the state Convention.

Society 8 has received an invitation to be entertained by Society 20, at Quarryville on April 7.

Hostesses providing colorful seasonal refreshments for the social time were Patsy Warfel, Helen Wivell, Elizabeth Shuman, and Ethel Herr. The next meeting will be held March 19th., at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Viola Greider, Mt. Joy R1. Mrs. Ralph Sensenig, Police woman, will be special speaker.

Lancaster Co. Society 12

Lancaster County Farm Women Society 12 met at the home of Mrs. John Kindig on February 16 for a day of sewing cancer dressings and bed pads. Seven members and one visitor were present.

After lunch a short business meeting was held with Marian Glick, president, presiding.

The group reported that the bus is full for the bus trip to the Philadelphia flower show in March.

A few members will go to Conestoga View on February 17 to play games with the patients. Society 13 will also help.

The next meeting will be held at he home of Fannie M. Witmer, Highville, on March 16 with the program entitled, "Contact."

Lancaster Co. Society 25

The February meeting of the Lancaster County Farm Women Society 25 met at the home of Mrs. David Newswanger of New Danville with 18 members attending. Mrs. Sterling Elmer, vice president, presided.

A report of the Farm Women convention was given by Mrs. Wade Groff. Plans were made to have a rummage sale on April 20 and 21 at the New Danville Fire Hall.

The March meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Frank Reapsome, Lancaster R6. on March 12, at 1:30 p.m. The speaker will be Ann Donnelly on nutrition hints for cooking for two.

Lancaster Co. Society 31

Farm Women Society 31 of Lancaster County met Monday evening, February 21, at the home of the Society's president, Mrs. Robert Clark. Devotions were led by Mrs. Charles Smith.

A "Come As You Are" party was the theme for the evening, and roll call entailed telling why you were dressed as you were.

Two new members were installed into the Society. They were Mrs. John Hoffer and Mrs. Samuel Rhoads.

Mrs. James Kreider gave a report of the Farm Women convention at Harrisburg in January.

Slides of all the Society 31 meetings since they began in 1970, were shown by the program chairman, Mrs. Tom Aaron.

A program on health will be held March 21, 1977 at the home of Mrs. Glenn Wenger.

Horse club meets

LANCASTER, Pa. - At the most recent meeting of the Boots and Saddles 4-H Club, officers for 1977 were elected with Terry Miller taking over as this year's president. Lashon Bussell was named vice president and treasurer; Donna Sammons and Sandy Hamilton were elected secretaries; and Deb Myers, Kathy Delmotte, and Sandy Hamilton were named news reporters.

During the business session, the group decided to hold a used tack sale at the Fellenbaum farm on April 1 and 2. For further information, call 569-3068. The members also decided to have an open horse show on April 23 at the Lancaster Riding and Tennis Club. A clinic will be held in March for members.

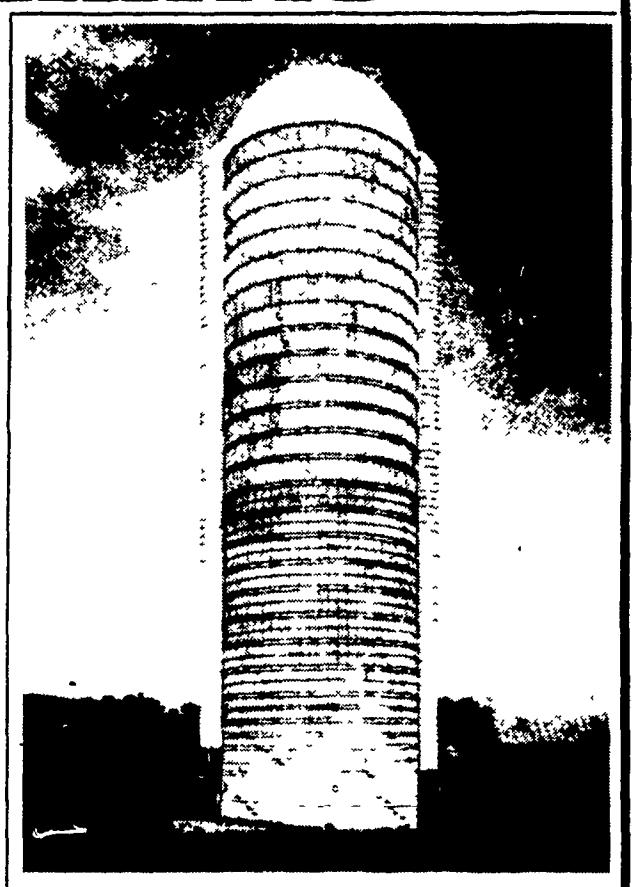
The PROVEN Fickes MASTER-MATIC SILO SYSTEM



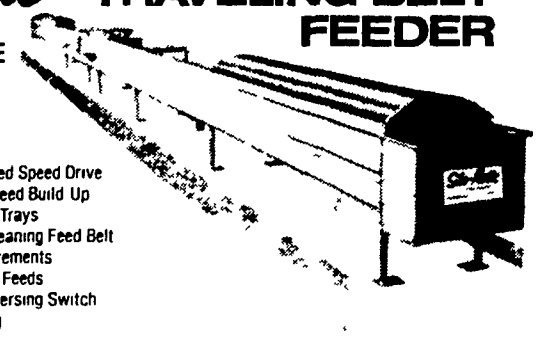
Master-Matic is the proven automatic silage handling system first introduced in the eastern United States by Fickes over a year ago There's no longer any need to enter the silo Once filled, the silo can be unloaded from top to bottom—automatically The Silo-Matic Continuous-door Unloader moves down the continuous doors to unload haylage, corn silage or high moisture corn It operates effectively, efficiently and without mechanical problems

The Fickes-Master-Matic Silo System offers you:
CONVENIENCE—Puts an end to the chore of climbing the silo every few days
TIME-SAVING—Keeps you out of the silo so you can spend your time to more profitable advantage
CLEAN ENTRY CHUTE—Continuous door chute used for unloading Second chute doors remain in place always clean

SILO-MATIC® CONTINUOUS-DOOR SILO UNLOADER
This exclusive unloader design has been in use on continuous-door silos for more than a year It has been thoroughly tested and proved under farm-operating conditions with haylage corn silage and high moisture corn. The Silo-Matic Continuous-Door Silo Unloader automatically moves down the silo from door to door The gooseneck stays in perfect alignment with the chute doors and hood remains in ideal position for maximum silage carrying efficiency
There are no springs, ropes, cables or pulleys to adjust since the downward movement of the unloader operates by gravity The electric cable is plugged into a power source at the top of the silo The electric cable automatically unwinds as the unloader moves down the silo

Silo-Matic TRAVELING BELT FEEDER

FAST, HIGH VOLUME CATTLE FEEDING WITHOUT SEPARATION
- Smooth Slip-Proof Fixed Speed Drive
- Even Distribution—No Feed Build Up
- Belt Glides on Plywood Trays
- Self Tightening Self-Cleaning Feed Belt
- Low Horsepower Requirements
- No Separation of Mixed Feeds
- Optional Automatic Reversing Switch For Continuous Feeding



Clean Chute—This photograph shows the clean chute side of the Fickes silo This system provides clean entry to the silo at all times. Doors are "refrigerator fit" Fickes Stronghook hinged doors

Unloading Chute—The continuous door exterior chute shown here with continuous door covers in closed position for loading silo

CONTINUOUS DOORS—The Fickes Continuous Doors can be placed at almost any location desired in the circumference of the silo They require no special rods or spreaders. The small doors (8½" wide x 15" long) are wedged tightly against a ½" steel jamb The silo is loaded with doors in place

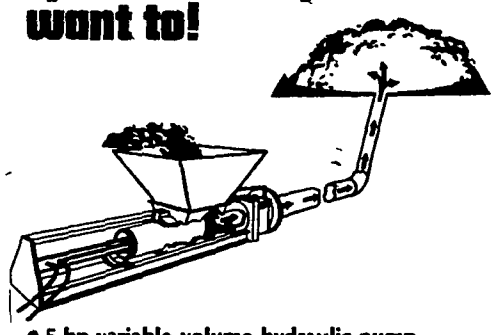
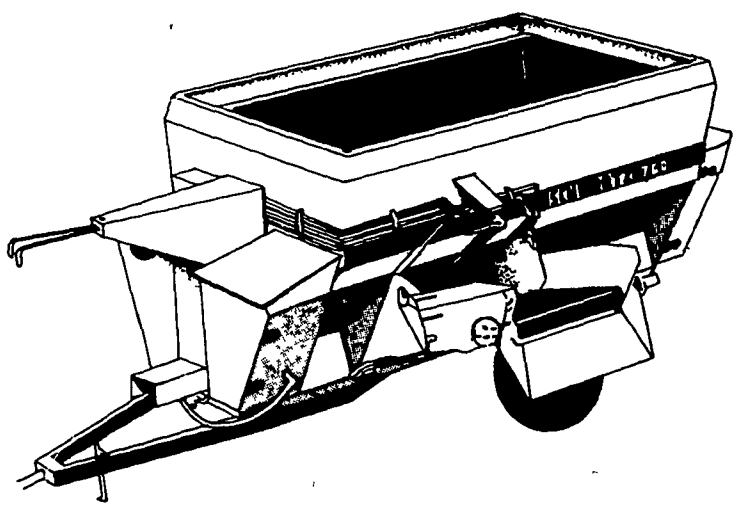
Hydra-Ram

Lets you spread when you want to!



- 5 hp variable-volume hydraulic pump requires less electrical energy than 10 hp fixed units
- moves manure, as is or with bedding, to outside storage up to 250' away
- no need to add water at the pump or in the storage
- manure crusts over to conserve nutrients, squelch odors and discourage flies
- works with barn cleaners or scrapers, in freestall or confinement barns



Newly engineered!

SCHWARTZ Mixer/Feeder Wagon

- thoroughly mixes and delivers a total dairy ration all along the feed bunk
- model 860 mixes up to 295 cu. ft. at a time
- big, 36" discharge chute with variable, hydraulic height control
- electronic scale for precise formulations

Farm-Eze conveyor bunk feeder

There's a Farm-Eze Feeder just right for your operation, and it's so quiet, safe and simple-to-operate, you'll wonder how you ever got along without it! Get a minimum of 250 pounds of feed per minute. The exclusive Farm-Eze plow provides an even feed distribution for each foot of bunk regardless of length. And the Farm-Eze comes in lengths to 165'. 1½ hp motor.

Ask Agway about designing a work-saving, time-saving Farm-Eze system for you.

Schuld bulk feed bin

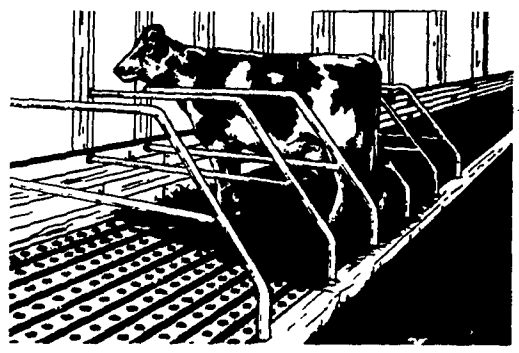
- Capacities from 3 to 125 tons
- Unique free-flow design
- Free erection (all but largest)
- Heavy galvanized steel

Shuttle Feeder #85

Save labor and up to ⅔ less power than your present feeder may use!

Starline 85 Sweep Shuttle feeder

- Uses about ⅓ the power required for conventional feeder of the same size
- Handles all types of silage and ground feed
- Double action discharge
- Whisper quiet operation
- Available up to 150' long



Keeps cows cleaner, dryer!

PERF-A-LOT

The cost-cutting, high comfort steel flooring for free stalls etc.

- minimizes the need for bedding
- easy on legs and hoofs because it gives under cow's weight
- cooler in summer, warmer in winter
- eases the stresses of confinement
- also ideal around waterers, lick tanks, feed bunks, in loafing yards and alleyways
- check Agway for details

CHESTER COUNTY DHIA MONTHLY REPORT

It was a close race for first place in the January Lebanon County DHIA, as Clarence Mase's "Elvira" edged Willow Maple Farms' "Lily" by a score of 929 to 923. We're talking pounds of butterfat, of course. "Elvira's" complete record reads: 23,450 pounds of milk, with a 4.0 test and 929 pounds of butterfat. The "reserve champion" butterfat producer checked in with 26,196 pounds of milk, testing 3.5 per cent butterfat. The milk production record for "Lily" also ranked just "second best," as Warren Lentz's "No. 101" pumped out 26,577 pounds to give her the milk crown for the month.

PSU hosts 4-H'ers

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. - Penn State Campus 4-H will be hosting the annual National Collegiate 4-H Conference on April 1-3, 1977, here. This year's National Collegiate 4-H officers are John L. Hinkle, chairman from York Springs; Dana Sunderland, business manager from Lewistown; Susan Kinnan, newsletter editor from Tioga; Kerry Crouse, parlimentarian from Littlestown: and J. Craig Aurand, publicity director from Lewistown.

The conference theme is "Continuing to Share - Sharing to Continue." Approximately 400 collegiate 4-H'ers from across the nation will be attending. The delegates will be staying in the Penn State Sheraton Inn and all conference activities will take place on the campus. The workshops and programs will be conducted by Penn State's Extension staff and will deal with the areas of 4-H development and the betterment of personal interaction.

Rust research programs key to cereal food crop survival

BELTSVILLE, Md. - Catastrophic losses of cereal food crops to rust diseases would be almost a certainty without present international rust research programs.

"The rust population changes about once every five years around the world," says R. A. Kilpatrick, a research plant disease specialist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture at Beltsville, Md. There would be serious, world-wide rust outbreaks within five to 10 years if research on developing varieties were to stop tomorrow, scientists say.

It takes perseverance to develop resistant wheat varieties - 11 years is the average time. And since the rust population is constantly changing, the battle against cereal rusts is never done.

Stem rusts are potentially the most destructive disease of small grains, followed by leaf and stripe rusts. Losses from stem rust can be as high as 100 per cent.

Kilpatrick works with an International Rust Nursery Program involving 41 countries. The program was started in 1950 in response to an epidemic of race 15B of the wheat stem rust fungus in the United States. "A catastrophe was in the making, culminating with 60 to 75 per cent of the U.S. durum wheat being destroyed in 1953 and 1954," said Dr. Kilpatrick.

A race of rust similar to 15B was known to occur in wheat regions of South America. The emergency required speeding up procedures for testing wheat varieties for rust resistance.

In the Spring of 1950, USDA researcher H.A. Rodenhiser made arrangements with scientists in Mexico, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Chile, Argentina and Brazil to plant 1000 selections from the USDA wheat collections in their fields. This was the start of the international spring wheat rust nursery.

"The program was an immediate success and requests were made to continue it. African and Asian countries became involved in the program," Kilpatrick says.

The program provides for rapid testing of varieties to the world's cereal rust population. It is potentially a direct source for commercial varieties and rust resistant germplasm. It also decreases the time needed for testing in local areas and provided valuable information on wheat diseases other than rusts.

"This international cooperation helps build better relationships between scientists working for the common cause of breeding rust resistance into cereals," says Kilpatrick.

"We've made lots of progress, but the problems are far from being solved. We still do not have varieties of wheat, oats, or barley resistant to all known biotypes of rusts."

Nat'l Corn Growers Assn. announces 25-acre contest winners

BOONE, Iowa - National Corn Growers Association announced today the Pennsylvania winners in the 1976 National 25 acre Corn Yield Contest.

First place in Pennsylvania in the Class A Non-Irrigated Division went to David McMichael, Lancaster, with a yield of 191.16 bushels per acre and first place in the Irrigated Division went to John R. Baker, 3 Inc., New Enterprise, with a yield of 124.17 bushels per acre.

Second place in the Class A Non-Irrigated Division went to Kent E. Golden, York Springs, with a yield of 174.84 bushels per acre and third place in the same division went to Joseph K. Kreider, Lebanon, with 173.25 bushels per acre.

The National Corn Growers Association's competition is the only non-commercial nationwide corn yield contest requiring the largest field size of 25 acres. The contest has been conducted for 12 years.

Over 1000 corn producers from 46 states competed for the top national trophies and foreign trips The 1976 contest had 43 entries in the Irrigated Contest, 10 entries in the Class AA Non-Irrigated Division; and three in the Class A Non-Irregated Division with over 200 bushels per acre.

Trophies and awards will be presented this Summer at the National Corn Growers Association awards meeting.

LET NO MAN PUT ASUNDER

The Pharisees also came unto him, tempting him, and saying unto him, Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause?

And he answered and said unto them, Have ye not read, that he which made them at the beginning made them male and female

And said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife, and they twain shall be one flesh?

BARTAD project

PSU finds farming in island paradise tempered by realities of nature

By SALLY BAIR
Feature Writer

ANDROS, BAHAMA ISLANDS- Ten cuttings of alfalfa per year? Harvesting corn in January? Garden fresh tomatoes in February? If this sounds like a farmer's dream to you here in Winter-weary Pennsylvania, it is - but the dream is 2000 miles away in the Bahama Islands, and somewhat shattered by reality.

Newton J. Bair, Extension agent on leave from Lebanon County, is deeply involved with developing the dream of year-round agriculture in a land of unlimited fresh water supply. But he's also coping with the reality of a land which must be mechanically cleared before planting, and with a soil composed of soft coral rock with a PH of 8.5.

Newton Bair (right) looks over some of the results of test plots with Ron Guyton, Bedford County native, now working as an agronomist on the research project on Andros Island.

Bair is superintendent of farm operations for the Bahamas Agricultural Research, Training and Development Project (BARTAD), which is under the sponsorship of the United States Agency for International Development and is operated under a joint contract by the Pennsylvaina State University and Western Institute of Science and Technology, Waco, Texas. It is designed to help develop a commercial agriculture on the Island of Andros.

Bair is employed through Penn State and went to the Bahamas in March,1976. He will continue through the expiration of the project in January 1978.

He is the first to admit that farming in the Bahamian Islands has little similarity to farming in southeastern Pennsylvaina.

The agriculture project was developed, Bair said, because the Bahamians requested help. "I would guess that 80 to 90 per cent of their food is imported, and Prime way to top-dress.

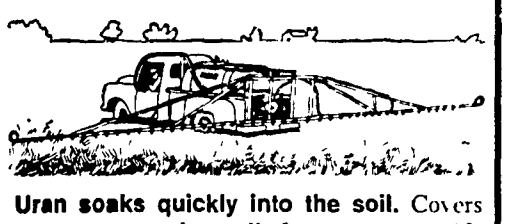
Small grains and grass need plenty of nitrogen to grow big, protein-rich yields. That's why leading farmers top-dress with Arcadian Golden URAN® liquid nitrogen. It supplies both quick-acting and long-lasting nitrogen, fast and easy.

Uran can be sprayed or dribbled on in early fall, in winter on frozen ground, in early spring, and throughout the year on grass. It's ideal for airplane and irrigation application.

Uran saves you time and labor. No bags to lift. No augers to line up. One man using a truck mounted tank with a wide spray boom top-dressed over 200 acres in a day. And you can add crop protection chemicals and other plant foods to do more jobs at less cost.



Uran soaks quickly into the soil. Covers every square inch equally for consistent yields and even maturing.

We can custom top-dress Arcadian liquid URAN or rent you an applicator. Either way, you'll get the prime nitrogen top-dressing. Order early.

they recognized a need for a viable commercial agriculture. There is really nothing on a commercial scale currently being done." Virtually the only farming done there is "pothole" farming, done mostly by women near their homes.

"The Island of Andros offered several good reasons for establishing the porject," he said. "There is a vast land area - Andros is 2300 square miles and the largest of the 700 Bahamian Islands. There is also a favorable water supply. The fresh water on Andros is in the form of a lens, supported on top of sea water. The average depth of the water is four feet below sea level." There are not flowing streams, Bair explained, and the rainfall goes into the coral formation of the island, and is supported on top of brackish sea water. "You can drill a well almost anywhere, but you can't go more than 30 feet or you will get into salt water," he explained.

Before any crops could be grown on the research project, land had to be cleared. "This is a mechanical process. First the larger rock and rubble is pushed into windrows with a D-8 caterpillar tractor. "We try to clear areas 300 feet wide. Then we disc it with a very heavy disc, then roll it with a 60-ton grid roller. At this point it is ready for planting, although sometimes the procedure must be repeated several times. An ordinary plough is unheard of."

He explained further; "The whole island is composed of soft coral rock. There is too much free lime in the soil, and in many ways, that is worse than acid. There is no easy way to bring it down to neutral. It is important to increase organic matter, so they are growing grass to accomplish that over a period of time. Meanwhile they use large amounts of acid-forming fertilizer."

Leonard P. Kyle, Chief of Party of the Penn State staff and research director for the entire project, explains that there are three main features of the project. The first is to establish a 500-acre experiment station, which includes clearing the land and building necessary buildings. Research is currently being conducted on field crops, vegetable and fruit crops and animals.

The second thrust, Kyle said, is the development of family-type farming. This includes setting up farms and training Bahamian farmers. Currently there are four farmers on 80-acre farms. There farmers usually have five acres of citrus, 10 acres of winter vegetables, and the remainder is in pasture, Kyle said. Farmers can select swine, goats, sheep or beef as their livestock.

Bair, who, himself, was a farmer most of his life, says, "I'm responsible for the day to day farm operations. I spend half my time advising and supervising the satellite farmers." This, he admits, is the part of the job that he enjoys most, and from which he gets the most satisfaction.

"They know that they have to make it work, and they are in it because they want to do it. They are enthusiastic about it, and we have a good relationship.

"I try to advise them on things they ought to be doing, and the things they haven't had experience with." He said he works with their insect and pest control problems, and other specialist help with their livestock programs. Extensive records are kept on their investment and income.

Kyle said there are five more 40-acre farms waiting to be settled, and eventually the goal is to have 16 operating farms.

The third thrust of the project is to train staff members to continue the project when the AID contract is terminated. Each American working at the project has a Bahamian counterpart who is learning the job to take over the responsibilities when the staff leaves.

The training program is extensive and includes training and then selecting qualified people to live on and farm the farms. Also, Bahamian staff members who are qualified can acquire training at Penn State to study for their B.S. or M.S. degree or they can train on a two-year program Technical training, such as tractor driving and handling heavy equipment is offered at Waco, Texas, for periods from two to six months.

There are two new thrusts of the program, Kyle said. One is the formation of a farmer cooperative which will coordinate ordering of supplies and machinery and other support needs for the farmers. This cooperative effort is being headed by Larry Yeager, formerly Extension marketing agent in Lancaster Farming's coverage area.

A new part of the program is for credit extension, Kyle said. "$800,000 is being set aside by the Bahamian government as a guarantee for credit extension to Bahamian farmers as a way to encourage expansion of agriculture. Kyle noted that this money is to be used among all the islands.

He said, "They import a very high percentage of food needs and the government is interested in growing more for local consumption to save on the dollar exchange. Currently, tourism is the largest industry here."

The Bartad project was originally designed as a livestock project, but later was expanded to cover crops and vegetables. According to Bair, the climate offers an extremely diversified cropping system

In the tropics, he said, grasses grow year round and the goats, sheep, and cattle live only on pasture and hay.

Research carried out at the project has been very valuable in the successful growing of alfalfa, but, Bair points out, none of the varieties known in southeastern Pennsylvania. They grow a non-dormant alfalfa, which is not Winter hardy. In early January, Bair said this is possible because it "never frosts" in the Bahamas. In this Winter of extremes, however, it snowed on some Bahamian Islands and crops at the project were frosted!

Bair said it is entirely possible to get 9-10 cuttings of alfalfa per year, but not a large amount per cutting. Usually the yield is ¾ ton per acre per cutting, but on small test plots they have gotten as high as 11 tons per acre.

Tropical grasses include such varieties as guinea grass, napier grass, star grass, trans-valla and several varieties of legumes.

Satellite farmer Joe Rolle (right) and Newton Bair check to see the stage of the corn. This is the first corn to be harvested on the project and will be used partly to help feed Rolle's swine.

Growing corn is still in the research stage, and even that was hampered by the frost felt on the Island last month. But at the time of this reporter's visit, there was a promising crop of corn on 20 acres, which was nearing harvest.

Bair said, "It is our first successful corn crop." He said there was not enough time to screen varieties for selecting those which can be produced with any degree of economy. He said, "We have planted tropical varieties which were developed especially for the tropical weather by the DeKalb Company." Up to now the swine have been living on imported hog feed, but they hope some locally grown corn can change that picture.

Grain sorghum can be grown very successfully, Bair said, but the biggest problem is storage. They are now storing it in a grain bin with a fan. Corn will be stored in a crib. One of the major problems with storing rain, Bair said, is weevil. "We must fumigate and take steps to keep them under control.

In a year-round warm climate, Bair said, there is enough variation in day length to influence growth, and they have not yet determined the optimum time for planting crops.

Fruit crops which grow well in this tropical climate include citrus, bananas, plantain (cooking bananas), avocado, and mangoes. Bair said they are now working with improved types imported from Florida and the Carribean Islands.

A wide variety of vegetable crops grow well. Cabbage, onions, tomatoes squash, peppers, cucumbers, sweet potatoes, and Irish potatoes are mainstays.

Mantioc, from which tapioca is made, grows easily there, as do pigeon peas, which are a native vegetable and one of the staples of the Bahamian diet.

Kyle notes that one of the biggest problems confronting the project is the simple logistics of ordering supplies. Obviously the only means of getting supplies to the island is by plane or boat. "If you get what you want a month after you order it you are lucky," Kyle said. He cited the uncertainty of boat delivery as a big problem.

Getting an agricultural project underway was itself somewhat of a problem, Kyle said, because the people are not agriculture-oriented. "Traditionally they have been fishermen, and the older ones have gone to the states as contract labor. Mechanized farming is new. The level of mechanical skills, like driving, is very low, and the educational level of some of the workers is not high."

Another major problem is getting construction done because there is little competition.

Bair, who is enjoying the hard work that goes along with his job said, "The potential here is unlimited. Development could be limitless, although there are not the resources in the form of the rich soil we have in Pennsylvania. With the climactic conditions and with hard work on the part of the people, a lot can be done, and it can be done profitably."

A drawback, Bair acknowledged, is "how long it takes to break down the traditional ways of living." He said, "Trying to throw 50 years of technology in four or five years, you can't expect the people to absorb it all and put it all to use."

Nevertheless, "The goal is very good and very valid. There is no guarantee that we'll get 100 per cent results. Our being here has had a tremendous impact especially on the people of Andros."

So, instead of advising farmers on the deep-freeze situation as he would be doing in his Lebanon County position, Bair is busy advising Bahamian farmers on hay making and corn harvesting. Despite the hard work, there are probably more than a few Pennsylvania farmers who would welcome the warmer climate as they await the Spring thaw.

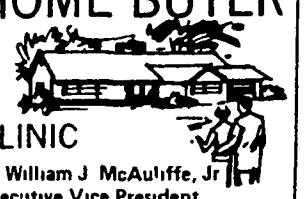
HOME BUYER CLINIC



By William J McAuliffe, Jr
Executive Vice President
American Land Title Association

SUBDIVISION HAZARD

Buying a new home calls for precautions against land title hazards—just as with the purchase of an older residence that has been re-sold a number of times

In one example, an attorney examined land title evidence from the public records and certified title to a subdivision tract based upon 100 years of possession of that real estate Later, when one of the homes in the subdivision was resold, a new title search disclosed that others held an interest in the original tract dating back beyond 100 years This made title to the entire tract unmarketable

McAuliffe

Fortunately, purchasers of the new subdivision homes had obtained owner's title insurance before completing their real estate transactions Under their owner's title policies, the insuring title company engaged a law firm to settle the matter

Attorneys representing both sides finally agreed upon a financial settlement to clear the titles and necessary legal documents were filed in the public record to perfect title to the real estate concerned All without financial loss to the insured.

It is entirely possible for problems that a title search will not reveal to threaten real estate ownership, regardless of the type of property concerned Owner's title insurance will safeguard against such difficulties and others as well.

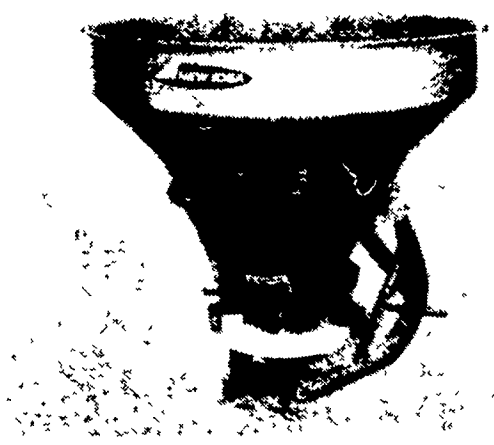
LOOKS EVEN BETTER AFTER YOU USE IT.

This is the business end of a factory-fresh Avco New Idea 10-Ton Manure Spreader. One glance tells you it's a rugged, high-quality machine.

But until you own one, and spread a couple thousand tons of manure with it, you won't really know how good one of our spreaders can look. Because after you work it good and hard, you'll see how tough it really is, and how long it's going to last.

That's when you'll appreciate the rugged durability of tandem axles, A-frame hitch, steel flareboards and extra-heavy-duty gearbox. And, with exclusive Penta-treated wood box and five unloading speeds, our spreader's bound to look better when you look for real value.

Especially after you've spread a few years' worth of manure with it.



Avco New Idea's a leader in spreaders for other materials, like fertilizer and seed. And they're just as tough as our big manure spreaders, for the same kind of long-life service.

Dams spared $8 million in damage over fire years

Flood prevention dams in Pennsylvania prevented more than $28 million in damages in the last five years," reports Graham T. Munkittrick, state conservationist, USDA, Soil Conservation Service. The dams which have been completed by the Soil Conserviation Service under the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act have more than paid for themselves.

The total flood prevention cost of the 61 dams completed across the State is less than $25 million. The dams in each project are designed to pay for themselves over a 100 year period.

"In some places," Munkittrick said, "these flood prevention projects have paid for themselves many times over in damages prevented." Wellsboro in Tioga County is a good example. Three flood prevention dams protect the borough. The flood prevention cost of the three dams was less than $1 million. Since 1972, the dams have prevented more than $10 million in damages as reported by Wellsboro officials.

The Mauch Chunk project in Carbon County, which protects the borough of Jim Thorpe, cost about $1 million and paid for itself twice one month after it was completed. The Mauch Chunk Dam was completed in May 1972, a month before tropical storm "Agnes". It was estimated that another million dollars in damage was prevented from a storm in June 1973.

The Mill Creek project with three dams in Tioga County cost about $420,000. In the past five years, it was estimated that this project has prevented nearly $1 million in damages.

The Kaercher Creek project, which protects Hamburg in Berks County, has prevented an estimated $700,000 in damages in the past five years. The total flood prevention costs for the three dams in this project was $664,000.

Munkittrick said a similar story could be told about many of the other projects in the state.

The Soil Conservation Service has completed or partially completed 25 projects throughout Pennsylvania. Flood prevention projects are constructed by the Soil Conservation Service under the authority of Public Law 566, the Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act of 1954. Local people must request and sponsor the project. They also participate in local planning decisions and provide the land needed for the flood prevention dams.

"Flood prevention is not the only benefit from these projects," Munkittrick said. Watershed protection through conservation land treatment is an integral part of the program. Soil erosion has been reduced on thousands of acres. It is estimated that more than $300,000 in sediment damages have been prevented in the past five years.

Other benefits from these watershed projects involve recreation, fish, and wildlife. Over one million visitors annually use the areas for fishing, hunting, boating and picknicking. Some of the lakes have state or county parks developed around them, and these parks are heavily used the entire year.

Lakes which have recreation, fish and wildlife developments associated with them are scattered throughout the state. They are: Tamarack Lake, Crawford County; Lake Wilhelm, Mercer County; Green Lick Dam, Fayette County; Dunlap Creek Lake, Fayette County; Lake Nessmuck, Lake Hamilton and Beechwood Lakes in Tioga County; Walker Dam, Snyder County; Briar Creek Lake, Columbia County; Locust Creek Lake, Schuylkill County; Mauch Chunk Lake, Carbon County; Kaercher Lake, Berks County; Lake Galena and Lake Luxemburg, Bucks County; Struble Lake and Marsh Creek Lake, Chester County.

Munkittrick noted that in view of recent storms, interest in flood prevention remains high. At present, two watersheds are in the planning stage and 12 are awaiting approval for planning.

"The Soil Conservation Service will continue its efforts to work with the local people in protecting our land and water resources. With continued local support, more Pennsylvania communities will have improved protection against storms like 'Eloise' and 'Agnes'," concluded Munkittrick.

Dairy price comments sought

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has asked for written comments by March 4 on the National Dairy Price Support Program for the 1977-78 marketing year, which begins April 1.

The dairy support level, to be determined by the secretary of agriculture, is achieved by offers to purchase milk and milk products by the government's Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC). Legislation requires that milk be supported at between 75 and 90 per cent of parity to assure an adequate supply of milk, reflect changes in the cost of production, and assure a level of farm income adequate to maintain productive capacity sufficient ot meet anticipated future needs. (A parity price is the price that will give a unit of farm commodity (e.g., 100 pounds of milk) the same purchasing power now as in a base period.

In making his decision, the Secretary will evaulate such factors as the cost of producing milk, the prices received by farmers for milk, the cost of dairy products to consumers, the volume and cost of government purchases of dairy products and the projected supply of dairy products.

USDA has estimated that 75 to 90 per cent of parity equivalent price for manufacturing milk will be $8.07 to $9.68 per hundredweight (cwt.) on April 1. The present support price of $8.26 per cwt., is estimated to be 77 per cent of the parity equivalent price on that date.

USDA has also estimated that the index of farm production items, interest, taxes and wage rates will be about five percent higher on April 1 than a year earlier. If the present support price of $8.26 per cwt. were to be continued, the average market price paid to farmers would be about one per cent lower. However, because of expected increases in the farm retail price spread, average prices paid by consumers would be about 2.7 per cent higher.

At the current support price, milk production is projected to increase about one per cent in the 1977-78 marketing year, assuming there is no substantial change in cull cow prices, crop conditions and subsequent feed prices or the general economy. In the first nine months of 1976-77 marketing year (April-December), milk production totaled 91.3 billion pounds, up 4.6 per cent from a year ago.

Commercial use of milk and dairy products in 1977-78 is estimated to increase about one per cent, based partly on expected growth in purchasing power and higher beef prices.

During the first 10 months of the 1976-77 marketing year (April-January), nit government purchases (purchases minus sales for unrestricted use) of dairy products contracted under the support program were 81.1 million pounds of butter, 76.9 million pounds of cheese, and 162.7 million pounds of nonfat dry milk (NFDM) compared with purchases a year earlier of 12.5, 21.2, and 262.4 million pounds respectively.

Purchases of butter and cheese were make mainly since October and have been or soon will be used primarily in the School Lunch Program. In 1975 and 1976, NFDM was donated at the annual rate of about 150 to 175 million pounds, with domestic programs receiving an average of about 30 million pounds and the remainder donated overseas. On Jan. 31, CCC's uncommitted inventory of NFDM was 415.3 million pounds.

In order to carry out the Dairy Support Program, CCC offers to buy carlots of butter, natural cheddar cheese and NFDM at announced prices. The prices are designated to result in a national average price paid to farmers that is at least equal to the announced support price.

In addition to purchases of bulk dairy products, CCC also buys substantial quantities of these products in special forms and in consumer-size packages through competitive bids. The products are used in the various food distribution programs.

Comments concerning the 1977-78 Dairy Price Support Program should be submitted to the Director, Commodity Operations Division, USDA, ASCS, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C., 20013.

All written submissions will be made available for public inspection during regular business hour at the Office of the Director, Room 5768 of USDA's South Building.

Record grape crop grown in 1976

HARRISBURG, Pa. - The 1976 Pennsylvania utilized grape production totaled a record 58,000 tons, 1000 tons above the previous record crop in 1971, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. The 1976 crop was 21 percent higher than the 48,000 tons utilized in 1975.

An estimated 1,280 tons of the 1976 crop were for fresh utilization with the remaining 56,720 tons being processed. Of the total processing tonnage, 46,270 tons were processed for juice and 10,450 tons for wine.

Pennsylvania grape producers annually market about 95 to 98 per cent of their crop through processing channels. Of the 56,720 tons delivered to wineries and processing plants, 78 per cent or about 44,291 tons was processed in Pennsylvania with the remaining 22 per cent going to out-of-state processors and wineries.

The value of the 1976 grape crop increased to $9,164,000 from the 1975 crop value of $8,064,000, but the price per ton received by the grape producers decreased by ten dollars per ton, from $168 per ton in 1975 to $158 per ton in 1976. In 1974 grape producers were receiving an average price per tonof $198.

The U.S. utilized grape crop is estimated at 4.0 million tons, down eight per cent from the record 1975 utilized production. An estimated 12,350 tons of the U.S. grape crop was unharvested for economic reasons. California grape production was down nine per cent in 1976, but still accounted for 90 per cent of the 1976 U.S. grape crop.

Shelhamer to help rural communities

HARRISBURG, Pa. - Pennsylvania Agriculture Scretary Kent D. Shelhamer said last week that communities of under 10,000 population in Pennsylvania will soon have help from his Department in locating potential funds from the federal government for such purposes as community facilities, emergency and health programs and human resources.

Stressing the importance of such service to rural Pennsylvania in the aftermath of the recent freeze, Shelhamer said that rural coordinators in the Bureau of Rural Affairs have compiled data on smaller communities as well as lists of key figures in both government and private sectors within those communities. In all, there are 2372 municipal entities of fewer than 10,000 people within Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, according to Shelhamer, is now administering the Federal Assistance Program Retrieval System (FAPRS) through which community leaders could save great amounts of cross-referencing time to find information pertinent to available federal funding programs.

"Coming from a rural area myself," the Columbia County farmer said, "I know that interest in federal funds for such things as housing, health programs, fire equipment and the like is widespread out in the country. One of the main problems always seems to be how to find out what's available and who is eligible in the area of federal funds. I feel my department should be theguardianof such funds for rural areas and FAPRS can helpaccomplishthat."

The program, developed by the United States Department of Agriculture, works this way in Pennsylvania: An agency, organization or private individual in a community would request help from rural coordinators of the Bureau of Rural Affairs through any of the Agriculture Department's seven regions across the state.

The coordinators would arrange an in-person interview with the applicant and would compile relevant data concerning the involved request. The information would then be relayed to the Rural Affairs Central Office in Harrisburg and fed into the FAPRS computer system. The computer printout would than be sent to the applicant.

Shelhamer said each of the 2372 communities of under 10,000 would be notified by mail of the availability of the service. He said that the rural areas are "very often overlooked when funds become available from Washington" and added that he hoped use of his Department's information system would help to reduce isolation of many small communities across Pennsylvania's wide-ranging rural belt.

Shelhamer noted there was no charge, at present, for either the use of the FAPRA capabiltiy by the small towns nor for the coordinators consultation and follow-up.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's regional offices addresses and phone numbers are: Region I, R4, Box 413, Meadville, 814-724-1905; Region II, P.O. Understanding Yourself

Helpful Ideas From The International Lutheran Laymen's League

TRULY WISE

Is a wise person someone with a lot of knowledge or a lot of compassion?

Too many people today would say a wise person is a smart person. In our age a great premium has been put on the mind. The minds of young people are supposed to be expanded The minds of older people have to remain sharp or they are disregarded.

Wisdom of the heart, however, is different from anything the world knows. It is faith in God. People, for the sake of Jesus Christ, become patient, loving, kind, considerate, understanding, self-controlled and forgiving.

It takes faith to know God Only people who have faith have the courage to trust, and hope, and love.

Food buying posters available

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Six new color posters with information on the U.S. Department of Agriculture grades for food are now available from the U.S. Government Printing Office.

"How to Buy" posters for dairy products, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables, meat, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, and poultry explain the USDA grades for each commodity and give other buying tips.

The new posters, which update earlier ones, are part of a set of consumer education materials developed by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service to aid consumers in making food buying decisions. The "How to Buy Food" materials are suitable for use in high school and adult education courses.

In addition to the posters, the materials include:

-How to Buy Food - Lesson Aids for Teachers, intended for use by home economics and consumer education teachers.

-Como Comprar Los Comestibles - How to Buy Food (PA–976), a teaching aid for use by both the Spanish-speaking and English-speaking, containing information on 31 food products.

-A packets of 14 publications which cover "How to Buy" information on beef steaks; beef roasts: lamb; canned and frozen fruits; canned and frozen vegetables; cheese; dairy products; dry beans, peas, and lentils;eggs; fresh fruits; fresh vegetables; potatoes; poultry; and meat for your freezer. All these publications except the one on potatoes are also available in Spanish.

Pages from the lesson aids and the Spanish-English booklet may be reproduced for classroom use. The 10-by 15-inch posters may be used on bulletin boards, or mounted on illustration board for flip cards.

These materials are sold by the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO), Washington, D.C. 20402. Educators may obtain single free copies from the Information Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Prices and stock numbers for ordering from GPO are:How to Buy Food Color Posters, $1.90 (001-000-03615-7); How to Buy Food Publications Packet, $4.45 (001-016-000-90-3); How to Buy Food - Lesson Aids for Teachers, $1.30 (001-00-03456-1); Como Comprar Los Comestibles - How to Buy Food, $.80 (001-000-01416-1). Checks or money orders should be made payable to the Superintendent of Documents.

Angela is excited about 4-H

By DIETER KRIEG

CARLISLE, Pa. - Angela Fought has been making quite a name for herself during the two years she's been in the Cumberland County 4-H program. In both years, for example, she advanced far enough in showing competition to make it to the Farm Show in Harrisburg. Even there, competing against much older 4-H'ers, and the best from all across the state, Angela's name popped up in both the large and small arenas.

The 11-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Fought, Carlisle R6, Angela's show ring success has been with steers and sheep. She is a member of the Cumberland County 4-H Beef and Sheep Club.

Asked to comment about how she likes 4'H, Angela smiled broadly and said: "it's exciting." Expanding on her feelings, she revealed that she enjoys farm life, animals, and showing. "I also like the exciting feeling I get from doing something and winning," she added. "I get to know my animals and by attending our monthly meetings I learn a lot about animal care." Angela is a sixth grader at South Middleton School and understandably isn't sure yet about what she might want to do as an adult. But she did admit right away that she is giving a profession as a veterinarian some strong consideration. While she's not 100 per cent sure of that yet, she is convinced she'd like to spend all of her life on a farm. Her parents won two general livestock farms. The family, which takes an active interest in the 4-H program, has dairy cows, a cattle fattening operation and hogs.

At this year's Farm Show she placed well with both her sheep and steer projects. Her beef project, named "Ferdinand," was reserve champion in the middleweight class. Like her entry for the 1977 show season, "Ferdinand" was a Chianina-Angus cross. That seems to be the kind to have, since all of the champs at the 1977 Farm Show were of that blood mixture.

In sheep competition, the young Cumberland County 4-H'er had a first-place on-the-rail carcass lamb and an individual lamb which placed first. Her pen of lambs placed fourth.

Angela hasn't started yet with a new sheep project, but she has every intention to do so. Her steer has been picked out and given a name: "Taurus." At the recent Cumberland County weigh-in for steer projects, "Taurus" tipped the scales at 430 pounds. Between now and Farm Show 1978, Angela hopes to put at least 600 pounds on him. "He's still a little wild now," Angela told Lancaster Farming this week, but once he's tamed down, he'll be ready to prepare him for shows this Summer and Fall.

NFO declares price wishes

MILWAUKEE, Wis. - Based on actual cost of production figures turned in by hundreds of delegates and members, the NFO annual convention, held here late last year, in adopted price goals for farm products representing what they regard as cost of production plus a reasonable profit.

The price goals, announced by President Oren Lee Staley were:

Milk: $12.75 per hundredweight for bottling grade and $11.80 per hundredweight for manufacturing.

Wheat: $4.95 per bushel for hard red winter, other kinds priced in relation to it.

Fat Cattle: $65.25 per hundredweight on the basis of choice 1000 pound steers.

Feeder Cattle: $69.50 per hundredweight based on 500 lb. choice steer calves.

Cotton: 79 cents per pound.

Edible Beans: $24.50 per hundredweight.

The NFO "cost of production plus a reasonable profit" price goals came out quite close to 100 percent of parity, the fair price standard in federal farm laws which is based on 1910-1914 farm cost and price relationships - a period that lawmakers considered fair when it was adopted in the Thirties.

The NFO wheat price of $4.95 per bushel compares to a $4.86 parity price as of November 15 and actual prices received by farmers on Nov. 15, as reported by USDA, at only $2.46 per bushel.

The NFO milk price goals of $12.75 for bottling and $11.80 per hundredweight for manufacturing compare to USDA's parity price figure of $12.10 average for both classes.

Parity for corn November 15 was $3.26 according to USDA. The NFO goal is $3.20 and price actually received by farmers Nov. 15 was reported at $2.02 per bushel.

"We have now established price goals," President Oren Lee Staley told the NFO convention. "Our job for the next four or five months is to enroll members and their production nationwide to unite at least 30 percent of the Nation's production and then, if we don't get our price goals, hold our production on farms until we do."

From Local Ag Teachers:

Thoughts in Passing

By Robert B. Lauffer
Student teacher
Eastern Lancaster County H.S.

As my student teaching here in Lancaster County winds to a close, I'd like to take an opportunity to pass on some of my impressions and thoughts.

Being from a suburban Bucks county area, I'm sure that I have learned at least as much about agriculture during my stay here as I have been able to pass on to my students. As an outsider looking in I have been very much impressed with the agriculture in this area.

The most important principle I've learned is that the key to the success of the agriculture in this area is its people. I realize that the soils here are some of the best that can be found, but they didn't stay that way by accident. It has been said that you can determine the success of a civilization by looking at the amount of top soil its farms contained. That is why it distresses me to see farmers, who are supposed to be some of the best managers of agricultural enterprises anywhere, neglecting their top soil.

I'm sure many of you have noticed the great amount of wind erosion that has been taking place this Winter. Erosion that is robbing the most productive layer of soil. I am not an expert on soil conservation, but it seems to me that those farmers who are growing corn for silage, and cutting it close to the ground might easily lessen this erosion without much of an output in labor or expense. This could be accomplished by planting harvested fields with a cover crop such as rye and plowing it under in the Spring. This would not only protect the top soil from wind erosion but also provide a way to get some organic material back into the soil, especially on corn silage fields where organic debris is minimal.

I am sure that there are dozen good reasons why this practice isn't being followed. It probably costs too much and takes too much time. It seems like that's the reason most of us use to rationalize our behavior whenever we don't do something we maybe ought to.

Similarly, I am amazed at the herd health practices of some Lancaster County farmers. For example, on a survey I completed recently of local dairymen, more than half of them had failed to worm their heifers this year. Again the main reasons- either it costs too much, they didn't get around to it, or they didn't think it was necessary.

What all this boils down to is a need for better record keeping by farmers. If you could see in dollars and cents how much it cost to seed a harvested field with rye and turn it under in the Spring or worm all dairy animals including heifers, then look at your increased productivity, you might see a need for such sound management practices.

Being blessed with good farmland and a strong agricultural community is a prime reason for not laying aside the common sense and good management that has built Lancaster County into the Kind of agricultural area it has become.

Absent-Minded

The telephone rang in the study of the veritable absent-minded professor "What is it?" answered the professor. "It's long distance from New York," the operator said "Thanks, I know it is," the professor replied.

PENNA. DAIRYMEN ACHIEVE GREATER MILK PRODUCTION WITH PURINA'S "NEW" HI-O COW CHOW 36

BURK—LEA FARM, CHAMBERSBURG, PA.

Stanley and Wilbur Burkholder in their milking parlor.

Wilbur and Stanley Burkholder operate this 84 cow dairy herd and have this to say about Purina. "We have been on Purina Cow Chow 38 Percent B for some time and have been very happy with the results, however, when we switched to High Octane 36 Percent B in July, I have seen an increase of 3 percent in my butterfat test.

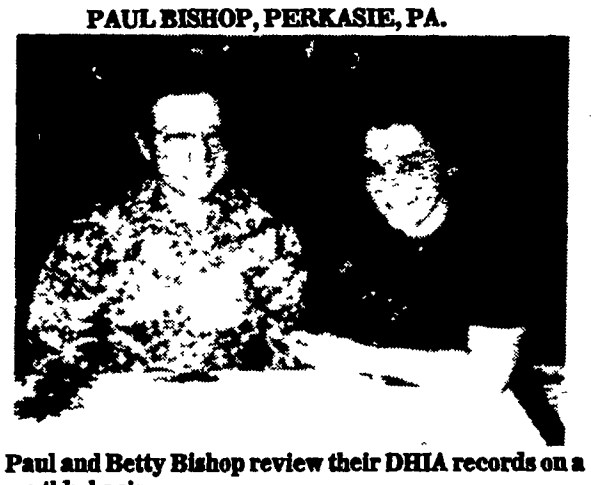
	No. of Cows	Pounds of Milk Per Cow
Before Hi-O 36 Percent B	86	42.8
4 months after	84	50.9

INCREASE 8.1 pounds of milk

Their roughage program consists of corn silage, haylage and hay. Purina Test Cow 18 Percent B is fed in a magnetic feeder to the early lactating and high producing cows. This allows for a better feeding program in their freestall operation.

Milk production is up and our cows really have an appetite.

PAUL BISHOP, PERKASIE, PA.



Paul and Betty Bishop review their DHIA records on a monthly basis.

Paul and Betty Bishop began feeding Purina in April 1974. Since that time the Bishop family has made considerable increases in milk production. In August 1976, they switched from Purina Cow Chow 38 Percent B to NEW Hi-O 36 Percent B. The reason for the change? Paul comments, Purina District Manager Ike Yates suggested Hi-O 36 Percent B would give me more milk than I was getting. Having reached 600 pounds of butterfat, I decided my cows needed something extra to keep climbing.

As you can see, they continued their climb.

DHIA PRODUCTION RECORD

	No. of Cows	Percent Milking	Lbs. Milk	Lbs. BF	Percent B.F.
August '76	55.4	93.4	15142	593	3.9
December 1976	61.9	89.1	16235	637	3.9

The records show the improvement and a new stepping stone for the Bishops' toward higher production per cow.

BISHCROFT FARM, FOUNTAINVILLE, PA.

Two brothers Herman and Walter Bishop in front of their dairy barn.

Before feeding Purina in May 1976, their grain ration consisted of soybean meal — vitamin-mineral premix. They had never fed Purina before that time.

When asked why they changed to Purina, Herman replied, "In the past five years we had been on a production plateau and just couldn't move off it. After listening to what Purina had to offer it looked as if Hi-O 36 Percent B could help us.

DHIA PRODUCTION RECORDS

6-75-10-75	average production per cow	44.02 pounds
6-76-10-76	average production per cow	51.72 pounds
12-76	average production per cow	52.80 pounds

Increase of 7.7 pounds per cow per day.

UPSTREAM FARM, EASTON, PA.

The attractive Upstream Farm Milk Store, which is always busy.

Upstream Farm is a family corporation where everyone is involved, including the wives, who play a major part in the total operation

The 200 cows are managed in a free-stall — four group system with a rotary milking parlor Each group is fed according to their protein and energy needs based on production requirements.

Upstream Farm began feeding Purina in April 1976, prior to that they fed a soybean-premix Since that time they have had a tremendous increase in milk production They are a Purina Program Feeder and rely heavily on our recommendations Because of their confidence in Purina products, they changed to Hi-O 36 Percent B in September

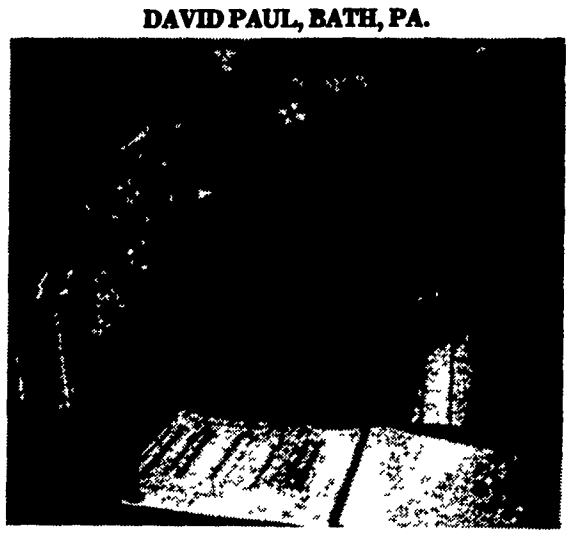
	No. of Cows	Lbs. Milk	Percent Fat	Lbs. Fat
April 1976	220 6	12,397	3 9	481
December 1976	194.6	14,100	3.8	526

DAVID PAUL, BATH, PA.



DHIA records are a major tool for this dairyman, David Paul.

David operates a dairy farm just north of Bath. David's situation is a little different than most dairymen today; he had little farm experience prior to going into business. In fact, David grew up in Philadelphia and went on to teaching before he decided to enter the dairy business

He has had his problems as all dairymen do, however, he doesn't let them get him down but keeps pushing, always trying to do better. An example of this is a small blackboard at one end of the barn which list the cows that are open David says this stares at him everytime he goes in the barn and as a result he watches those cows a little closer.

DHIA Production Records

	Lbs. Milk	Percent Fat	Lbs Fat

STONE HART FARM, ST. THOMAS, PA.

Carl Hartman and Bill Stoner.

Carl Hartman and Bill Stoner from St. Thomas, PA operate a 115 cow dairy farm. One of the things which they are pleased with is the fact that 36 first calf heifers are in the milking lineup. The heifers were raised on the Purina D & H Program.

Today their feeding program consists of corn silage, haylage, high moisture corn and Hi-O 36 Percent B concentrate After switching to Purina Cow Chow 38 Percent B from soybean meal, they had an excellent increase in production and switched to Purina Hi-O when the opportunity to make more milk was shown to them.

	No. of Cows	Pounds of Milk Per Cow
Before Purina Hi-O	114	42.8
One month after	116	44.8
Three months after	115	49.0

We are very pleased with Purina Hi-O 36 Percent.
